Dewey to Run in Illinois

New York, Jan. 28 (Special).—Campaign managers for District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey announced today that his name will be entered in the Illinois presidential preference primary to be held April 9. The decision was announced by J. Russel Sprague and Mrs. Ruth Hanna Simms, comanagers of Dewey's campaign. Leonard C. Reid of Chicago will be in charge of the distribution of petitions. It is not planned to enter the district campaigns for delegates. Illinois statutes do not provide for such candidates running under definite labels. The state will have 58 delegates in the Republican national convention.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—With the Democratic party torn with dissension over the New Deal and the Roosevelt third term candidacy, Republican party stock is zooming.

The Republicans at the outset of the 1940 presidential contest took off with an advantage over their adversaries. The 1938 elections, which cost the seats of six Democratic senators and 80 Democratic representatives, recorded the turning of the tide of popular sentiment against the New Deal.

All indications point to the continuation of this conservative trend. Crowning proof of it, in the opinion of Republican leaders, is the attitude of the President himself, whose political intuitions are notably acute.

Lewis Repudiates New Deal.

In the face of this conservative uprising against the New Deal it is considered highly significant that Mr. Roosevelt is soft-pedaling New Deal measures, proposing no new ones at this session of congress, and actually going in for economy—comparatively speaking.

The New Deal has split the Democratic party, and Mr. Roosevelt's receptive candidacy for a third term has widened the split. John L. Lewis, whose labor unions contributed $600,000 to the reëlection of Mr. Roosevelt, has repudiated the New Deal as a failure and prophesied the "ignominious defeat" of the President if he should be renominated.

Confident He'll Be Drafted.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, a liberal Democrat and a presidential aspirant, said he would support the President if the latter is renominated, but added that he thought it would be difficult to reëlect Mr. Roosevelt in the face of the antithird term tradition. Postmaster General James A. Farley, who also is chairman of the Democratic national committee, intimated that he would bolt the ticket if the President were renominated.

The New Dealers are confident that the Democratic convention will draft the President as the only Democrat standing a ghost of a chance of winning the election. The conservative Democrats, while not seriously disputing the ability of any President to renominate himself, are no less confident that Mr. Roosevelt, foreseeing impending defeat as a result of his party split, will remove himself from consideration for renomination.

Disunion Favors G. O. P.

With the President still tacitly encouraging the third term movement, however, the Democrats are in that state of demoralization which Senator Wheeler deplores as likely to prove fatal to party success unless it be speedily removed by Mr. Roosevelt's self-effacement from the contest. Democratic disunion now is favoring Republican victory just as schism of the Republican party when in power in the past has spelled Democratic success.

The Republicans—with their left wing fringe definitely incorporated into the New Deal—are united as never before. With their debts paid and presidential candidates of uncommon ability standing forth they are preparing for a mighty effort to save the country from what they believe is unavoidable ruin if the New Deal be given another lease of life at the polls in November.

Most prominent of the Republican aspirants in the public eye at the

3¾ MILLION LIVE ON CASH PUT UP BY TAXPAYERS

U. S. Treasury Gives Results of Survey.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—There are more than 3¾ million government employés—federal, state, and local—who are paid more than 5½ billion dollars annually, the treasury disclosed today in the first official figures on those subject to reciprocal income taxation.

These persons will be subject to federal and state taxes under the public salary tax act of 1939. The study of the number of employés affected by the legislation was undertaken at the direction of congress last year.

The treasury found that there were 3,788,616 active federal, state, and local government employés in 1937-'38, the latest data available. Their annual compensation for the same period was $5,506,874,000.

1,167,000 on U. S. Pay Roll.

In the federal government alone there were 844,269 civilian employés drawing $1,505,723,000 annually. When President Roosevelt took office in March, 1933, there were only 565,000 civil officers and employés in the executive branch of the government, exclusive of military establishments.

The treasury figures show a military personnel of 322,529 with annual pay of $353,453,000. This brought the total federal personnel to 1,166,798, and the pay roll to $1,859,176,000.

In the case of the federal military personnel, the total compensation included allowances for quarters and subsistence. For 1938 these allowances amounted to $83,370,000. Exclusive of military allowances, the compensation of active federal, state, and local employés amounted to $5,423,504,000. In addition 67 million dollars were paid federal temporary and substitute postoffice employés and $130,125,000 was paid the retired and reserve federal civilian and military personnel, of whom there were 105,996.

Breakdown by Salaries.

There were 2,621,818 employés on the pay rolls of state and local governments. They received $3,647,698,000.

The number of employés in the various salary classifications in 1937-'38 is shown in the following table:

Compensation classes.	Federal.	State and local.
$1,000 and under	303,863	1,037,976
$1,001 to $1,500	256,228	547,889
$1,501 to $2,000	234,238	441,436
$2,001 to $2,500	258,690	327,955
$2,501 to $3,000	50,630	137,153
$3,001 to $3,500	24,373	53,792
$3,501 to $4,000	12,599	33,349
$4,001 to $4,500	6,761	18,579
$4,501 to $5,000	5,963	7,422
$5,001 to $6,000	9,427	7,259
$6,001 to $7,000	4,163	3,323
$7,001 to $8,000	3,743	2,193
$8,001 to $9,000	648	1,246
$9,001 to $10,000	810	908
Over $10,000	662	1,339
Total	1,166,798	2,621,818

The federal legislation passed last year subjects the compensation of all state and local employés to federal income taxation for all taxable years beginning after Dec. 31, 1938. In turn, the federal government also consented to nondiscriminatory state and local taxation of the compensation received after Dec. 31, 1938, by all federal employés. It is expected the tax yield from the state and local pay rollers will be about $20,000,000 a year.

Constitutionality Is Upheld.

Formerly, altho the federal income tax applied to the compensation of all federal employés, it did not apply, because of what were then thought to be constitutional prohibitions, to the compensation of most state and local employés. In similar fashion, state income taxes did not generally apply to the compensation of federal employés. The Supreme court has since upheld the constitutionality of reciprocal taxation.

PLAN TO SCARE WIFE WORKS, BUT HE ALMOST DIES

A fire inhalator squad last night was called upon to revive Anthony Tubacki, 26 years old, 6111 South Keating avenue, after he had become unconscious from carbon monoxide fumes from his car in the garage at the rear of his house.

Tubacki told the firemen to please understand that he hadn't tried to kill himself. He had merely tried, he explained, to frighten his wife.

"You see," he said, "we had quarreled, so I went into the garage and turned on the motor. I figured she'd be out in a few minutes. She came out all right, but I guess I turned on the motor too soon."

THE SITUATION MAPPED OUT

Quiz Broker in Woman's Mystery Fall

Austin A. Clement, a stock broker, was released on bond last night after being held all day during an investigation of puzzling circumstances under which a young woman plunged from a window of his seventh floor apartment at 40 East Oak street. He was ordered to appear in Chicago avenue police court this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct.

The woman is Miss Agnes Chesney, 25 years old, of 14 West Elm street. She fell about 11:30 p. m. Saturday, landing on the roof of a four story building adjoining the one in which Clement lives. Physicians in Henrotin hospital said she suffered a fractured pelvis, multiple fractures of the left arm, and internal injuries.

Stenographer in Law Firm.

Clement is 44 years old, the son of Allan M. Clement of 209 Lake Shore drive, a retired partner in the brokerage house of Clement, Curtis & Co., where the younger Clement is employed.

Miss Chesney, a stenographer for the law firm of Wilson and McIlvane, had passed the evening with Clement and his wife, Edna.

Police said Lee Skoner, 3039 North Avers avenue, an accountant, and a friend of Miss Chesney and the Clements, had made a brief visit but left before Miss Chesney fell.

Mrs. Clement had left the apartment to give her dog an airing. Before she reached the street she learned that Miss Chesney had fallen.

Woman Tells of Fall.

Detectives Philip O'Neill, Frank Breitenberg, and George Shannon hurried to the apartment and tried to question Clement. They locked him up, explaining that he seemed incoherent.

Miss Chesney told police she had attempted to raise the living room window for some fresh air and fell out. Police said the sill is only a foot and a half from the floor, but said they were puzzled by Mrs. Clement's statement that the window was open only two inches when she returned to the apartment.

Clement made a statement last night. He said he was sitting on a davenport in the living room when Miss Chesney opened the window and lost her balance.

He declined to talk to reporters and left with friends after bond of $25 had been posted.

WAR MAY FORCE END OF STAMMTISCH, GERMAN BEER HALL TRADITION

BERLIN, Jan. 28 (AP).—The stammtisch, a tradition of middle class German life, may be abolished by the war.

The stammtisch is a table in a restaurant or beer hall that is reserved daily for the same men. It is to the German bourgeois what the big pot bellied stove in an American country store is to the cronies who gather around it to discuss world affairs.

The newspaper Deutsche Allegemeine Zeitung declares civilians should not insist upon their stammtisch when soldiers on furlough often can't find tables in restaurants. It demands that it be abolished and the soldier regarded as second to no one in importance.

SOUTH AFRICANS URGE A BREAK WITH ENGLAND

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Jan. 28.—After defeat of Gen. J. B. M. Hertzog's peace motion, committees representing the United party, led by the former South African premier, and the Nationalist party, led by Dr. Daniel F. Malan, agreed today to form a reunited Nationalist or People's party for the purpose of removing all obstacles that hinder the achievement of republicanism. The agreement is subject to approval by the entire membership of both groups.

A statement issued tonight said that both parties were "convinced that a republican form of government, separated from the British crown, is best suited to the traditional aspirations of the South African people."

The statement added that this was the only effective guarantee that South Africa would not be drawn again into the wars of Great Britain.

200 JAPS PERISH WHEN TRAIN HITS GAS CARS, BURNS

TOKIO, Jan. 29, Monday (AP).—Two hundred persons, trapped inside a flaming suburban train which rammed a string of gasoline tank cars, perished at Osaka today.

One hundred others were injured when the train, carrying factory workers, was derailed and drenched with the flaming fuel. Domei, Japanese news agency, said about 180 were caught inside the blazing train. Twenty others died before they could be taken to a hospital.

Debs Are Sad, Dads Glad; No Royal Courts

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Royal courts will be abandoned this year, Buckingham palace disclosed today. It will be a season without debs. Nearly 1,000 girls of 17 and 18 years who thought they would come out this year now find they cannot be presented at court.

Titled women, who planned to be court chaperons, however, are reported to have sent in their applications as usual. These women who, in return for "expenses" of several hundred pounds [the pound is worth about $3.99] and gifts of jewelry, had arranged to present the girls—whose mothers were not entitled to appear at court—have lost a good source of income, it is also reported.

Social Advisers Idle.

Social advisers who arranged parties and introductions for a fee and in addition collected substantial commissions from tradesmen and dressmakers with whom they placed their clients' orders, have gone out of business.

To the tradesmen of Mayfair, the trade of the girls who would have been debutantes represented a business volume of almost $3,000,000, in the three months of the London season.

The cost of launching a debutante ranges from $400 to several thousands. Dressmakers, furriers, jewelers, florists, hairdressers, and photographers had counted in the 1940 courts to provide them with the nucleus of their season's business.

Pleasing to Fathers.

While tradesmen dislike the idea of no courts, fathers are said to be rejoicing. They won't have to foot the bills.

The Sunday Express raised the question of whether the courts are to be resumed after the war and said that anyway the 18 year olds never will be debutantes, for many of them will have married or taken up careers.

54 Year Record Cold Kills Many Tropical Fish in Gulf

Key West, Fla., Jan. 28 (AP).—Key West, the nation's southernmost city, suffering today from the coldest temperature in 54 years, sustained severe loss to its large fishing industry. Countless tropical fish, rarely seen, were washed up from the cold waters of the Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico. A low of 42 was recorded.

TRAFFIC IN KNOT; GERMANS LIGHT RAILROAD YARDS

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—In an attempt to untangle snarled traffic, Germany has abandoned the blackout in many key railroad yards.

At a number of points where a heavy volume of freight is handled lights shine with almost prewar brilliance and even in Berlin sufficient illumination is provided to enable workers to see what they are doing. In addition to striving to break the transportation jam, Nazis hope the lights will reduce casualties among railroad men.

No figures are revealed on the number of workers hurt while shifting cars in the dark, but it is believed that accidents have been several times the peacetime rate.

Stations Blacked Out.

Passenger stations continue blacked out, even tho in some cases nearby yards are illuminated. Compartments on thru trains continue to have heavily painted lights which glow dimly.

Lighting is being increased on Berlin suburban trains to the point where it is nearly possible to read a newspaper.

Snowstorms and extreme cold, with restricted activity of British and French flyers, are believed to have aided in easing the blackouts.

Hot Water Still Lacking.

The number of trucks delivering coal in Berlin seems to have increased in the last few days, but heated homes with a hot water supply continue to be the exception rather than the rule.

Sale of kerosene for lighting and heating is expected after Feb. 1. The kerosene will be sold to special lists of customers prepared by shopkeepers. To get on the list customers must prove their need for oil, whereupon they will be allowed a limited quantity.

STICK TO NEUTRALITY

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Jan. 28.—British pressure, which was exerted last week in an attempt to convince neutrals that the war was being fought for them and that it was therefore essential that they join the Franco-British front, has resulted in an increase in the neutral nations' determination to preserve neutrality.

The accusation of Winston Churchill, British first lord of the admiralty, that the neutrals were cowards trembling before the German crocodile, was followed yesterday by a statement by William S. Morrison, British minister of food, before a labor conference, that the neutrals' aid was essential to shortening the war. These speeches gave rise to indignation that has turned into a growing opinion that the war cannot be won by either side without imposing greater sacrifices of human life, suffering and money than victory could justify.

Calls Price of Victory Dear.

Gen. Albert Duval, chief of the French aviation in the world war and now military expert for the French Journal des Debats, yesterday told in a speech of the difficulties of victory. He said that despite the importance of the blockade against Germany the decision of the war rests on the battleground of either the Siegfried or Maginot lines. He estimated that a million men would have to be killed before victory for either side could be achieved. He added that the victors would suffer economic ruin.

Germany Builds Credit.

THE TRIBUNE learned from other sources that whatever effect the blockade may be having in Germany, her economic situation since the war, in relation to the several neutral states on her borders, has changed materially. Before September, Germany owed large sums to several of these countries. To these states Germany has exported machinery and other goods, paid her debts in full, and built up considerable credits in her favor. This particularly refers to Holland but is said to be true of Denmark and Switzerland. The Belgian balance with Germany remains at about the prewar level.

THE TRIBUNE also was told that the great British cash expenditures in Holland, Rumania, and Turkey for raw materials and other goods to prevent them from going to Germany have directly supplied Germany with foreign exchange, the money being spent on goods which only Germany now is able to supply to these states. For instance, despite the war, Germany still is exporting airplanes and munitions to the Balkan states for cash.

FINNS HAMMER STRAGGLERS OF FOUR DIVISIONS

Rear Guard Troops Suffer Big Losses.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 28 (AP).—Finns today conceded the hard pressed Russian forces on the vital front northeast of Lake Lagoda only a bare chance of escaping complete defeat despite a fresh show of resistance by the fragments of four divisions.

The high command reported the invaders had attacked weakly but Finns construed their action to be only a rear guard feint covering an attempt to reorganize their troops while waiting for supplies and reinforcements necessary for a real stand.

Tho scattered fighting continued, military analysts expressed the belief it was merely a question now of whether the embattled Red army forces would be able to withdraw in time to escape complete defeat in their thwarted drive to outflank Finland's main Mannerheim line defenses.

Heavy Shelling on Isthmus.

An indication that the Russians might attempt to blast the Finnish lines on the Karelian isthmus with concentrated artillery fire was seen when an officer there reported intense shelling for the last three days. The Russians would drop nearly 3,000 shells on one sector, then shift to another area and repeat the performance.

A reliable source said an officer captured when a soviet plane made a forced landing yesterday near Kitela, on the north shore of Lake Ladoga, said he had been sent to rescue the commander of the Russian units in the sector.

The Finnish communique merely said enemy attacks were weaker Saturday altho "the enemy's losses in killed mounted in the course of the day to some hundreds." This was regarded as official evidence that the soviet offensive had ended, at least temporarily, on this front. A column of about 200 horses was dispersed and three tanks were destroyed.

Believed Without Food.

Continued unofficial reports told of a large body of soviet troops practically encircled by Finns in the Kitela region where Finnish infantrymen were aided extensively by Finnish coastal artillery to the south and east.

This body of trapped soviet soldiers was believed to be almost entirely without food supplies, altho a Russian relief unit was reported attempting to fight its way in from the northeast.

Finnish forces were said to be blocking the path of the Russian relief unit at a point 20 miles north of Kitela where railway transportation has been cut. The relief men must cross a river to reach their trapped comrades.

Let Tanks Filter Thru.

Finland's tactics of permitting enemy heavy tanks and artillery columns to penetrate into the Finnish wilderness before being cut off piecemeal on the narrow highways were said to be bringing continued success on other sectors, too.

The Finnish communique said there was lively patrol activity in the Aittajoki sector where one Russian tank was destroyed. The Finns repulsed attacks of small Russian detachments in the Ilomantsi sector.

Red warplanes flew over northern Finland on Saturday, bombing Savokoski, Kuhmo, Sotkamo, and Lieksa. One civilian was wounded. Two Russian planes were shot down. Nine Red planes tried to bomb Viipuri [Vyborg] today, but were driven off by Finnish fighting craft. The planes were reported to have come from bases in Estonia.

The Russian Communique.

MOSCOW, Jan. 29, Monday (AP).—The Leningrad military area headquarters today issued this communique on the war in Finland:

"Jan. 28—Nothing of importance took place on the front."

COLDS CAUSE LOSSES

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIIPURI, Finland, Jan. 28.—Bronchitis is causing more casualties among the Finnish forces defending the Mannerheim line than any other cause, the chief surgeon of a field hospital of one Finnish division told me today. He showed me his ultra-modern hospital. It contained 160 patients, only 30 of whom were suffering from wounds.

Some rooms were filled with victims of bronchitis, influenza, and kindred illnesses which develop among the men whose army life now compels them to spend long periods of time motionless in the snow after relaxing in warm dugouts.

Since the war began this hospital has treated 2,000 patients, of whom only 300 were wounded. The more seriously wounded and dangerously sick men are removed to army hospitals 200 miles or more in the interior of the country.

Moved Without Accident.

The average time required in removing a man from the front lines to the hospital is from six to eight hours. Thus far all the wounded have been transported at night without accident.

"The most remarkable fact of my experience here since the war began," the surgeon said, "is that only one of the 2,000 patients we have handled has complained. The chief interest of all patients is how soon they will be well and can return to the front.

"In case of emergency our hospital can be removed from this building within eight hours. Our equipment is largely Swedish, but we greatly prize our incomparable American made rubber surgical gloves.

Work Without a Pause.

"During the last few weeks there has been a lull in our section of the front and the number of wounded is only a few a day, but during a heavy battle my assistant operated for 46 hours without a break and I operated for 42 hours.

"It is interesting to know that during the fortnight of severe weather when the temperature went lower than 50 degrees below zero Fahrenheit we treated only 45 cases of frostbite. Most of these cases were frozen feet, but no amputation was required. This shows that our men are adequately clothed and housed."

The physician said he could not find words to describe the heroism of his nurses, who begin work at 6 a. m. and continue until 10 p. m., with only a few pauses for rest during the day.

Auxiliary Gives Aid.

His staff consists of six doctors, most of them surgeons, 30 nurses, and 19 women members of the Lotta Svard organization who fulfill household duties, take care of the laundry, prepare food, and keep records. They prove invaluable assistants, the physician said. They thus enable the nurses to devote themselves entirely to nursing.

Both the nurses and the members of the Lotta Svard are paid eight Finnish marks, about 16 cents, a day, which suffices to cover their personal requirements. Soldiers get 10 marks [18.5 cents] a day and the government cares for their dependents.

Among the bronchitis patients are many members of Finland's special tank fighting troops. I watched a 33 ton Russian tank, which had been put out of commission, being loaded upon a flat car for removal to the rear for repairs. The tank once had a crew of a captain, five gunners, three men to handle ammunition, and a driver.

Get Equipment from Foe.

It had been put out of action by hand grenades and heavy iron crowbars which the antitank fighters used to halt the 33 feet long, 10 feet high war machine. Almost entirely without tanks at the beginning of the war, Finland today possesses enough of these captured weapons to equip several battalions.

One victim of bronchitis related how he had thrown a bundle of hand grenades beneath one of these tanks. The explosion blew him into a ditch, where he recovered consciousness some time later and was brought to the hospital with a cold.

ECUADOR SEIZES SOLDIERS; NIPS REVOLT ATTEMPT

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Jan. 28 (AP).—A number of persons including several soldiers were reported to have been arrested today in the northern coastal city of Esmeraldas, capital of Esmeraldas province, after an alleged attempt to foment a revolt.

Arrow locates city where plotters were arrested.

Advices from the city said municipal council sessions were forced to end when citizens invaded the council chamber accusing some members of using funds for their own purposes.

Provincial authorities said army officers then tried to bribe troops into revolting against civil authorities. The conspirators were said to be headed by retired Commander Benjamin Coronel. The newspaper Telegrafo reported that Velasco Ibarra, defeated presidential candidate and revolutionist now in Colombia, is expected to return here after 90 days when the extraordinary powers granted to the government expire.

Where Russian Troops Are Trapped

Parts of four Russian divisions have been trapped by Finnish troops in the Kitela sector, according to unofficial reports from Finland. Red troops moving to the relief of the trapped men have been blocked by Finnish troops north of Kitela. Coastal artillery southeast of Kitela helped Finnish infantrymen in encircling the Reds. The area covered by large map is shown in black on the smaller map.

VATICAN CLAIMS GERMAN TERROR STALKS POLAND

Charges Nazis Seek to Stamp Out Church.

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 28.—Charges of mass shootings, man hunts by GSP [German secret police] agents, plundering and persecutions were made in a memorandum published today describing what is held to be the situation of the Catholic church and of the Polish people in the archdiocese of Gniezno and Poznan, German Poland.

The memorandum, which was authorized by Cardinal Hlond, primate of Poland, was presented to the pope last week. On it the Vatican based several of its recent broadcasts of alleged atrocities in the German occupied portion of Poland.

The 11,000 word document contains seven reports covering conditions up to Dec. 30, 1939.

It charges Germany with deliberately seeking to destroy the Catholic religion and with the depopulating of all Polish nationals in the territories of Pomerania, Poznan, and Silesia, which she has annexed.

Close Many Churches.

To carry out this policy, the memorandum says, the Germans have closed the churches in several districts and are deporting Poles from every walk of life to concentration camps in Germany. They are said to be sending young Polish boys and girls, still in their teens, to Germany in order to imbue them with Nazi ideals.

Older people, the memorandum continues, are herded into railroad cars and dumped after several days' journey in towns within the area called "General Government Poland," where they are kept in unsanitary overcrowded barracks and where they sleep on vermin ridden straw mats.

Families are broken up, the memorandum says, the father usually being deported to a concentration camp, the mother abandoned to her fate with no money or belongings, and the children, if they have survived the hardships, sent to Germany.

The memorandum asserts that inasmuch as the forced Polish emigration from the German annexed districts must end by April 1, millions of Poles are expected to be packed into the General Government Poland territory in a few weeks. They will be completely destitute and therefore, the document says, famine and decimation by epidemics are expected.

Appeals for Foreign Aid.

"It will be a true extermination, conceived with diabolical cunning and carried out with unequaled cruelty," said the memorandum, which then appeals for Red Cross aid and other foreign relief.

The number of Poles shot, up to Dec. 30 last, runs into several thousands and those jailed into scores of thousands, according to one of the reports.

"In the jails appalling things take place," the report says. "At Bydgozcz, for instance, prisoners were forced to lie full length with their faces on the ice-cold stone floor, beaten till they were unconscious, and threatened continuously with death."

The memorandum asserts that the GSP agents raid houses during the night and seize between 500 and 1,500 people at a time.

The Germans, says another report, are "trampling on every liberty of conscience and religious right of the population. After having incorporated the dioceses of Poznan and Gniezno, the Germans began the extermination of the Polish element."

PARIS, Jan. 28 (AP).—A new burst of fighting between advance units in the snow and cold on the western front was reported tonight by the British-French high command. Its communique said:

"Today there has been renewed activity on the part of the advanced units at some points of the front."

"Nothing to report," said the morning communique.

RUMANIA CAUGHT IN SQUEEZE PLAY FOR OIL SUPPLY

British and Nazis Make Riches a Curse.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 28.—British and German rivalry for control of Rumanian oil has suddenly come to such a critical point that the Rumanians are having an anxious time. They fear trouble over it this spring and do not see what further moves they can make to placate either side without producing a dangerous reaction on the other.

From being a precious national resource, oil has come to be a dangerous possession. It is so coveted by others that it may bring disaster upon the country.

Germany wants to control the oil output to get as much as possible for her war machine. Britain wants to control it to keep it out of German hands.

See Capitulation to Germany.

In a showdown Rumania would almost inevitably have to give in to the German demands. A reassuring point so far has been that Germany can buy more than she can take away. If transport improves or sales are curtailed and Germany cannot buy as much as she can transport, the result looks like trouble for Rumania.

German troops are just across the border in the oil fields of Galicia—southern Poland—along the railway which leads from Germany thru Lwow into Rumania. Russia has left the gauge of this line unchanged so German trains still can use it. That railway continues southward thru Cernauti to Ploesti and Bucharest, roughly paralleling the oil belt which lies about 50 miles west of it.

The Rumanians fear that if they really annoy Germany an army will pour over the border along that railway.

Danube River Closed.

Dr. Karl Clodius, Germany's economic ambassador, is now in Rome after a visit to Bucharest. The object of his call in Bucharest was secret, but the belief is that he still is dissatisfied with the oil situation. Germany, with the Danube river closed to navigation, is getting less than one-fourth of the 117,000 tons a month she should get under the present quota, including arrears from last year.

Rumanians do not see what more they can do just now to boost oil delivery. But mild weather has melted much of the ice in the Danube and Germany is preparing for intensive efforts as soon as river oil barges can move again. Nearly every barge has been chartered at least until the end of next year.

Wide Power for Commission.

On Jan. 15 a royal decree created an oil commission with dictatorial powers over the oil companies. It can control all phases of production, storage, and distribution, including "sale abroad to the best interests of the country."

The creation of the commission immediately was seen here as a club to hold over certain companies which have been reluctant to sell to Germany. If they refuse to carry out the commission's orders, their plants will be turned over to a government administrator, who will carry out the order.

The British apparently won the latest round in the batle, however, when the Rumanian government denied that the commission was intended to force British controled companies to sell oil to Germany.

Results of British Anger.

British anger is less dangerous than Germany's, but it might cost Rumania precious financial support. If British controled companies were forced to sell to Germany against their will, a sudden epidemic of accidents to oil wells and refineries could be expected.

The Rumanians deny that the purpose of the law is to give more oil to Germany. They say the commission does not have the power to change export quotas, but according to the decree itself, the commission holds that power.

Refugees from Russian Poland have brought reports that soviet and German military units plan a joint invasion of Rumania when the moment is favorable. There is nothing to confirm the reports and diplomats in Bucharest are skeptical of them.

Too Busy Elsewhere.

They are inclined to think both countries have too many other things to think about to bother about Rumania at present. Some admit, however, that the Russians might make a move toward Rumania in the hope of regaining prestige damaged in Finland.

The ultimate aim of Germany and Russia, according to one version, is to cut Rumania so that Russia will get Bessarabia and the mouth of the Danube. This would give the soviets control of traffic on the river. Germany would get the western portion with the oil fields.

Rumania's total petroleum output in 1938 was 6,600,000 metric tons [49,368,000 barrels]. This is estimated to be about half of Germany's needs for a year of active warfare. Rumanian experts say that total could be doubled by drilling more wells and intensifying production.

Any German move into Rumania would bring instant destruction of the wells by the Rumanians, it is thought. There is very little chance that any army could move in quickly enough to prevent it.

The Rumanians hope there will be no resort to violence. But they are nervous. Sooner or later they feel war will come to them in some way.

Defenses Strengthened.

All the frontier defenses are being strengthened as quickly as possible, but talk of a Rumanian Maginot line is pure phantasy sponsored by British and French propaganda. Winter is impeding work along the Russian frontier, where a new line is being made along the Dniester river. The first strong line of defense used to be on the Pruth river. The new line in front of that cannot be built quickly because of the intense winter cold.

On the Hungarian frontier there are good trenches and tank traps, but nothing resembling a Maginot line. To the north there is a defense wall parallel with the old Polish frontier. Based on the foothills of the Carpathians, it is naturally strong and the Rumanians think they could hold it.

COLD IS BROKEN IN CITY; DIXIE CROPS RAVAGED

Maximum of 32 Degrees Expected Today.

The bitter cold wave which swept nearly all of the nation the last two weeks broke yesterday in Chicago while Florida fruit growers and farmers prepared for their third successive night of battle against the mass of cold air.

Chicago's temperature went from 4 above zero at 6 a. m. yesterday to 26 above in the afternoon. Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted that today's high will be 32 degrees.

Intense cold has been reported recently from Europe, with temperatures of 51 degrees below zero in Finland. Most of the nations which are at war have refused to release exact data on weather conditions for fear of aiding their enemies. The British, however, reported a cold wave in England in the last few days.

Air Movements Explained.

Government meteorologists said there is no way in which European continental cold can be related scientifically with the cold in Canada and the United States.

Meteorologists in Donnel's office yesterday explained the air movements which have subjected the nation to severe cold for the last fortnight. They said the temperatures in the southern states, which appear high to Chicagoans, are relatively severe in some areas.

On Jan. 13 the weather charts showed that an immense mass of cold air was beginning to pile up in the northwestern part of Canada. The meteorologists explained that this mass formed with great cold because the days had been clear and had allowed the earth to radiate its heat until the earth was unable to keep the air heated.

Mass Seeps South.

The cold air from this mass began to seep south and southeast. Temperatures at points near the center of the mass were 50 degrees below zero. The air was warmed to some extent as it passed over new ground, but not enough to prevent low temperatures here and in other parts of the country.

On Sunday, Jan. 14, the temperature here was 40 degrees above zero. Then the cold air reached this area and the temperature dropped to 14 above the next morning.

Meanwhile another high pressure area, or cold air mass, was forming in the southwest and central south. This mass was not as cold as the one in the northwest, and had no relation to the latter, but was effective in preventing the warm winds of the gulf from moving northward.

Mercury Drops in Chicago.

By Tuesday, Jan. 16, the creeping outposts of the cold mass in the northwest had dropped Chicago's temperature to 4 degrees above zero. On the same day Jacksonville, Fla., reported 33 degrees.

During the night of Jan. 17-18 the great cold mass itself began moving south. The temperature in Chicago dropped to 14 degrees below zero Jan. 18, the city's coldest day in four years. The cold wave extended south to Texas, altho the temperature in Houston was 53 degrees above. The temperature in Jacksonville, Fla., was 43.

On Jan. 20 the temperature here climbed back to 10 degrees above, aided by a relatively warm air mass to the northeast. Intense cold was reported from other parts of the country, however, with Jacksonville registering 22 degrees above.

The temperatures in Chicago continued low for several days. Jacksonville and the Florida fruit and truck growing areas obtained some relief when warm winds from the east raised the temperature to 50 degrees on Jan. 23.

The next day the temperature in Jacksonville dropped again to 35 degrees above, and on Jan. 25 to 26 degrees above. Temperatures in other parts of the country had remained low. In Houston it was 25 above.

The mercury dropped to 4 below in Chicago last Friday, but climbed Saturday as the cold air mass pushed on south. This move to the south dropped the temperature in Jacksonville and Houston to 19 above.

The temperature in Chicago climbed rapidly yesterday as the cold mass went far to the south of this area. The temperature in Jacksonville dropped another degree to 18 above, with temperatures as low as 12 above expected in some of the low areas of the fruit and truck gardening belt.

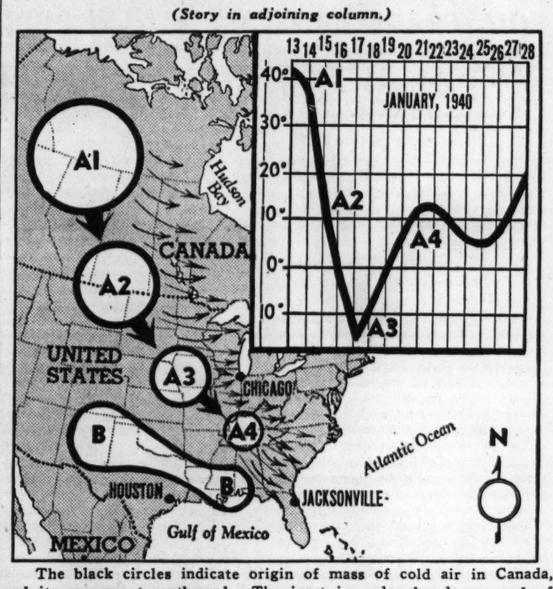

E. S. Ellison, meteorologist and chief of the frost warning service at the weather bureau in Lakeland, Fla., said yesterday that millions of dollars damage had been done to the fruit trees and vegetables in Florida.

Fire Causes $2,000 Loss to Park's Field House

Fire of unknown origin did about $2,000 damage last night to the three story gymnasium and fieldhouse in Blackhawk park, Belden and Lavergne avenues. The fire broke out in the gymnasium on the second floor and spread to the walls and to the roof.

Movement of Cold Wave

(Story in adjoining column.)

The black circles indicate origin of mass of cold air in Canada, and its movement southward. The inset is a day by day record of temperatures in Chicago, with the figures corresponding to location of the high pressure area bringing the cold. B represents another high pressure area moving up from the south. This cold area prevented warm gulf breezes from bringing relief, but it was blotted out by the spread of the high pressure area from the north, which gradually drove temperatures down from Texas to Florida in the south. The A area is now passing southeastward over Florida and the Atlantic ocean.

HUNT 5 WHO ROBBED ACTRESSES OF GEMS VALUED AT $33,095

The police were searching last night for five masked bandits who early yesterday robbed Miss Constance Bennett, stage and screen actress, and Miss Anita Louise, movie actress, of jewelry valued at $33,095. They were held up near Monroe and Market streets after the gang had curbed Miss Bennett's limousine.

The two actresses, accompanied by Richard Ainley, Miss Bennett's leading man in the play, "Easy Virtue," which closed in a loop theater Saturday night, were driving from a charity dance in the Union station to the Ambassador hotel. Miss Bennett lost a diamond bracelet and ring valued at $28,095. Miss Louise lost two rings and two bracelets valued at $5,000. The jewelry, they said, was insured. Miss Bennett's chauffeur, George Bayne, 822 Barry avenue, was slugged by one of the bandits.

Miss Bennett yesterday went to St. Louis, Mo., where her play now opens. Miss Louise will leave for Memphis, Tenn., today. They told the police that they will return to prosecute if the robbers are caught.

BAR WILL HONOR MEMORY OF CHIEF JUSTICE FULLER

The memory of Melville Fuller, the only Chicagoan to serve as chief justice of the United States, will be honored by members of the Chicago bar and bench at ceremonies in Graceland cemetery chapel Thursday. Justice Fuller, who died July 4, 1910, is buried in Graceland cemetery.

Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, and Tappan Gregory, president of the Chicago Bar association, are co-chairmen of the committee in charge of the ceremonies, which will coincide with the nation-wide observance of the 150th anniversary of the establishment of the United States Supreme court.

Congress has created a joint committee to supervise the anniversary of the court, and it has urged local committees thruout the nation to celebrate the occasion. Special ceremonies are to be held in each city which gave a citizen to the Supreme court bench.

Chinese Blow Up Trains; 400 Japanese Are Killed

HONGKONG, Jan. 28 (AP).—Semiofficial Chinese sources said today that Chinese guerillas had blown up two Japanese troop trains killing 400 Japanese soldiers. Three hundred were killed on one train Jan. 21 and 100 on another on Jan. 18.

TORPEDO SINKS SECOND FRENCH SHIP IN CONVOY

VIGO, Spain, Jan. 28 (AP).—Survivors of the torpedoed 2,769 ton French freighter Tourny disclosed today that another French freighter in the same convoy, the 3,810 ton Alsacien, also went down after being hit by a torpedo. The merchantmen sank last Thursday off the coast of Spain, they reported.

[The German high command communique of Saturday reported that a German submarine had torpedoed two "British" merchantmen in a convoy off the coast of Spain. The British issued a denial.]

Survivors of the Tourny did not know what happened to the crew of the Alsacien, believed to total between 25 and 30. The Spanish steamer Castillo de Monfourte landed 28 of the Tourny's crew in Vigo. Eight of the crew were missing.

French Naval Offensive.

PARIS, Jan. 28 (AP).—The French high command today reported renewed naval attacks against what was described as "a new wave" of German submarines preying on British and French shipping.

Depth mines already have produced results against the submarines, the high command said, tho the number of craft destroyed was difficult to determine. No further details of the antisubmarine campaign were disclosed.

French observers estimated that approximately 25 German submarines were taking part in the new drive against British and French shipping.

Two Weeks More.

They said the submarines put to sea about Jan. 22 and represented one-third of the 75 or 80 submarines the Germans now were believed here to have in commission.

These sources said they expected the submarine campaign to last for some two weeks more before they exhausted their supplies and had to put back into port.

NATION TREADING HIGHROAD TO WAR, TINKHAM WARNS

Neutrality Is Abandoned, He Maintains.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—The United States is slowly but surely treading the road to war, Representative George Holden Tinkham [R., Mass.], member of the house foreign affairs committee, warned tonight.

Rep. G. H. Tinkham.

He declared that the nation is walking the same path that led to its involvement in the last world conflict—first, furnishing arms; then credits, and finally men. He charged President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull are bringing the country into war by pursuing a course of parallel action with Great Britain.

Points to Last War.

"The United States has abandoned neutrality," the congressman said. "Neutrality, the rule of impartial treatment of all belligerents, is the only policy that has kept and can keep a nation out of war when war comes. It kept the United States out of war in Europe and Asia for 150 years, until the world war of 1914-'18, when abandonment of neutrality led directly to our participation.

"The United States has substituted political intervention for neutrality both in Europe and in Asia. Political intervention means war in the end."

Tinkham said the President and Hull have assailed in "offensive and provocative language country after country with which the United States is at peace."

Cites Case of Italy.

He pointed to hostile action taken against Italy in the Ethiopian war far in advance of the league of nations, which became a matter of humiliation in view of the hands off attitude of other nations and the subsequent Italian victory.

In 1938, the United States subsidized China in its war with Japan and thus allied itself with communist Russia and in the same year American officials were sent to Czecho-Slovakia to support Britain in the political crisis in that country, he asserted.

"The President and the state department openly and aggressively supported Britain every step of the way and at every turn up to the moment of the actual declaration of war by Great Britain and Germany," Tinkham said.

Mentions Aid to Finland.

On the outbreak of hostilities between Finland and Russia, he recalled, the President and Hull extended 10 million dollars in credits to Finland, sanctioned shipment of American planes, and proposed congress authorize a 30 million dollar loan to the Baltic nation.

"These acts are in flagrant violation of neutrality," Tinkham said. "They are hostile acts. They are acts of war.

"No matter how great are our sympathy and our admiration for Finland, the congress should not officially approve United States intervention on that war front, or on any other war front in Europe or Asia. To do so would be to commit the United States inescapably to war.

"In the present war between Russia and Finland, the President and Secretary of State Hull are having the United States pursue exactly the same policy as is being pursued by Great Britain.

Sees Proof of Alliance.

"In the Ethiopian war, in the Sino-Japanese war, in the Czecho-Slovakian crisis and the Munich settlement, and in the Russian-Finnish war, the 'parallel action' to which Secretary Hull has so often alluded when vehemently denying that there was any alliance between the United States and Great Britain is clearly evidenced and is compelling proof of the alliance of the ruling heads of Great Britain and the executive branch of our own government."

Red Caps Go on Salary; Fixed Fee Replaces Tip

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 28 (AP).—The Cincinnati Union Terminal company, defendant in a suit charging noncompliance with the federal wage-hour law, announced tonight that red cap service will cost 10 cents a bag after Feb. 1. The red caps will be paid regular salaries of 30 cents an hour. The company said it thus will "continue to provide efficient and economical porter service without the necessity of tipping." The wage-hour administration charged last fall that the company was forcing red caps to make false reports of tips received in order to show weekly wages equal to or in excess of the minimum prescribed by the law. The company denied the charges.

JAPAN BARS FOOD TO ANGLO-FRENCH AREA AT TIENTSIN

Electric Wires Enforce Tighter Blockade.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Jan. 29 (Monday) (AP).—The foreign office spokesman confirmed today that a second protest against the British seizure of 21 German seamen from the Japanese liner Asama Maru on Jan. 21 is being prepared. He added that in it Japan may demand formally that the Germans be returned.

TIENTSIN, China, Jan. 29, Monday (AP).—Electrically charged barbed wire barriers and Japanese sentries today retightened the blockade around the British and French concessions, creating a severe food shortage in the foreign controled areas.

Arrow locates Tientsin.

Japanese military authorities electrified the wires and imposed other measures which were first put into effect last June but had been relaxed gradually to permit passage of food supplies and some trade.

Market Supplies Depleted.

Military spokesmen said the tightening this time was due to activities of anti-Japanese elements within the concessions who increasingly were passing thru the barricades to the Japanese controled region outside. They denied that expiration of the Japanese-American friendship and trade treaty was a factor.

Import of all food was banned regardless of the nationality of those attempting to take it thru the barriers. Markets inside the concessions were depleted and prices skyrocketed.

Tightening of the blockade came shortly after British-Japanese relations were strained over Britain's seizure of 21 Germans from the Japanese liner Asama Maru.

Anti-British Drive May Be Opened.

The Japanese began their blockade last June in an effort to force the British to meet demands for the surrender of four alleged Chinese terrorists and the granting of other concessions. The Chinese finally were given up.

Japanese newspapers in Shanghai said an anti-British campaign probably would be started in Nanking, where they reported much ill feeling against the British.

THE SWISS DEVISE SAMPLE MART TO FOIL TRADE BANS

Tiny Packages Flow Toward Germany.

ZURICH, Switzerland, Jan. 28 (AP).—There's a big boom on the Swiss sample market these war days. It provides only lean pickings for Swiss merchants, but every little bit helps in the drive to compensate for war-lost trade.

Italy, for example, not only rations coffee, but places heavy import duties on it. Germany has similar duties on foodstuffs. And the Swiss themselves have an effective import-export control system.

A way thru the strict regulations has been found in the sample trickle—the mailing of samples from friend to friend without exchanging cash.

The Best Customers.

The 150,000 German nationals living in Switzerland and many others with relatives or friends in Germany are the best customers of the sample business.

They buy most of the gray cardboard boxes stamped "sample—no value" which Zurich department stores will fill with the 250 grams [about half a pound] of butter, chocolate, cocoa, or sugar allowed to go out without an export permit.

Nor is the sending of samples limited to food. The story is told of how a customs guard decided the number of shoes for the left foot passing thru his post was decidedly suspicious.

He got in touch with other guards who confirmed his suspicions by reporting large numbers of shoes similarly marked "samples" going thru to the same address in Germany.

All for Right Foot.

"They must be samples, tho," he was told. "They're all for the right foot."

Swiss guards keep on the alert not only for samples going to the same address, but goods going to the same city. They have been informed that many an enterprising German importer has commissioned his whole office staff to receive samples from friends in Switzerland at their home addresses.

Sample-sending naturally has its limits and probably shows little effect on the national import-export figures. Nonetheless Swiss frontier control guards have orders to watch particularly packages labeled "sample—no value" which contain other than foodstuffs.

Not a Harmless Powder.

Frequently what may look like a harmless powder in a 250 gram box may prove to be a chemical concentrate which will serve tons of war materials with a necessary content.

A guard inspecting a 250 gram package containing a piece of metal found a note written on the back of the postage stamp pasted above the "Sample—No Value" inscription.

"Slow work," said the note, "but I hope to deliver the whole ton within a year."

SERUM IS HAILED AS A NEW CURE FOR PNEUMONIA

Brings Quick Crisis and Shortens Acute Stage.

Late Friday night Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine was stricken in her home at 209 Lake Shore drive with a type of lobar pneumonia more serious than many types.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine.

Mrs. Valentine is the widow of Patrick A. Valentine and also of Philip D. Armour Jr. She has two sons—Philip D. Armour III. and Lester Armour—by her first marriage, and one—Patrick A. Valentine Jr.—by her second.

On Saturday morning, in Passavant hospital, she was treated with a comparatively new type, or improvement of antipneumonia serum. Last night—less than 48 hours after she became ill—she was pronounced apparently on the road to recovery, with the crisis already past.

Credit Given to Serum.

Physicians credited the serum with bringing about such a speedy turn in Mrs. Valentine's sickness. What the serum did, they explained, was to immunize her at once against further encroachment of the pneumonia germs; to bring about a quick crisis—the period in which a sufferer's life is in balance—and to shorten the acute stage of the illness, prior to the crisis, during which the germs have a chance to multiply and to weaken the sufferer's resistance.

"Without the serum," explained her doctor who, for ethical reasons desired that his name not be used, "it usually takes five to nine days for the crisis to come. The serum brought about the crisis almost immediately. Thus the germs had only a few hours, instead of many days, in which to spread thru the lungs and body."

The serum, according to another physician, is not generally known to the public, and has been in use less than a year.

There are 32 known types of pneumonia, the most common being Types 1, 2, 3, 4, 7, 8, and 14. The higher numbered the type the more dangerous the disease. Mrs. Valentine had type 23.

Serum in New Form.

Serum for that type was obtained at once from the Illinois state serum center, which distributes the medicines. The serum, it was explained, is a comparatively new form which is derived from rabbits.

Previously various serums were prepared from the blood of horses. It has been found that the serum from rabbits is more highly concentrated and better received in the human body. [To obtain the serum rabbits are inoculated with various types of pneumonia germs. In recovering, the rabbits build a certain immunity against the particular diseases with which they were inoculated. Their blood then becomes suitable for serum purposes.]

F. LYNDEN SMITH HIRED INSANE COP, INQUIRY REVEALS

Slattery Denies He Gave O. K. to Howe.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Two developments came yesterday in answer to Gov. Horner's question: "Who put John Howe, escaped insanity patient and accused robber, on the state police force?" The governor is reported to have demanded the facts regardless of whom they may hit, and designated T. P. Sullivan, chief of the state bureau of investigation, to dig them out. Yesterday's developments were these:

1. F. Lynden Smith, state director of public works, hired Howe, who had a record of crime as well as insanity and who is now under arrest as an accused jury briber. The name of any person who may have recommended Howe to Smith was not revealed.

2. United States Senator James M. Slattery, who was Cook county manager of the Horner reëlection campaign and Cook county Horner patronage dispenser at the time Howe became a state policeman and naturally would have o. k.'d the appointment, denied ever giving Howe his approval.

Seized After Vote Fraud Trial.

Howe's case came to light when he was accused of attempting to bribe a woman juror in the trial of Sam Orlando and Joseph Vinci, Democratic leaders in the 52d precinct of the 11th ward, who were acquitted of vote fraud charges.

It was disclosed then that he had been indicted in 1930 on four charges of armed robbery. The charges were stricken, with leave to reinstate, when Howe was declared insane and sent to the Kankakee hospital. A few months later Howe escaped. No effort was made to return him to the asylum.

He was a house detective in the Congress hotel in 1936. Gov. Horner lived there frequently and during campaign years maintained a headquarters there. On Aug. 1, 1936, the year Horner was reëlected, Howe was put to work as a state policeman.

Deny Knowledge of Past.

He lived at 8244 South Paulina street, in the 18th ward, where Peter Brady is Democratic committeeman. In 1936 Brady was city clerk. He was not openly for Horner in the campaign.

When Howe was arrested Jan. 20 and charged with offering $100 to the juror in the vote fraud trial, his superiors denied knowledge of his past. His superiors were Walter Williams, chief of the state police department, and F. Lynden Smith, who is Williams' superior.

Smith at that time denied major responsibility in giving Howe his job, and both Smith and Williams denied that the federal bureau of investigation had informed them of Howe's criminal record. The fingerprints of all applicants for state police jobs are sent to Washington to ascertain that their records are clear. Last week federal agents disclosed that the state had been informed of Howe's past.

Springfield Records Cited.

Yesterday, word came from Springfield that records in Williams' office indicated definitely that Smith was the man who told Williams to make a policeman out of Howe.

It was explained that such a political plum as a state police job is not bestowed without considerable red tape. Before Howe was given authority to carry a gun and wear a star, several letters had to be written. He had to be O. K.'d by Slattery, who was then Cook county political patronage boss and by William J. Walsh, employment boss at Springfield, Democratic jobholders explained. In this case it was said that Smith sent Howe's name on to Walsh with a notation that Howe was politically approved. Democrats said Smith would not have done this without Slattery's approval.

It was asserted in Horner circles that Smith and Walsh are not now on the friendliest of terms, and that Walsh has sided with S. L. Nudelman, state director of finance, against Smith. The Walsh-Nudelman partisans insisted yesterday that Smith, who spent considerable time with the governor in the Congress hotel in 1936, gave the word for the Howe employment, and that unless Smith can show that some one induced him to send Howe to Walsh, the responsibility is his alone.

Senator Slattery Comments.

Senator Slattery was called on the telephone at his residence in Washington yesterday and asked if he had anything to do with the hiring of Howe.

"I never heard of the man," the senator said. "I don't know how he got his job."

Senator Slattery said that John Owens, who now must O. K. any Cook county person placed on the state pay roll, did not have that power in 1936. Owens is assistant to Charles K. Schwartz, state tax commissioner, who is Gov. Horner's Cook county representative. Owens is also secretary of the state boxing commission.

Chief Sullivan, who has been ordered by Gov. Horner to get all the facts, said yesterday that he was not ready officially to report to the governor—that he would not report until he had the whole story.

Sullivan was asked why he did not go directly to Howe, who has been in the county jail since the four robbery charges against him were reinstated. Sullivan said he probably would go to Chief Justice John Prystalski's hearing today in the Criminal court on Howe's sanity and get Howe's story there. He added that he may seek an opportunity to speak privately with the prisoner later.

MILK DRIVERS VOTE TOMORROW ON WAGE SLASH

4,400 Will Act in Effort to Save Jobs.

The 4,400 members of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union will meet tomorrow night to vote on a proposal that they accept a wage cut of $8 a week. This is proposed as their contribution to the joint effort of the union and the dairy companies to save milk routes and drivers' jobs from the inroads being made by cut rate milk sold in stores on a cash and carry basis. The drivers' wage now is $48 a week, plus commissions.

Henry Weber, union president, announced the meeting yesterday. It will be held in Street Car Men's hall, Ashland avenue and Van Buren street. The vote was decided upon after conferences Saturday between representatives of large dairies and the union.

Price Reduction Expected.

If the drivers vote for the wage cut the dairies promise to pass the saving on to the housewife. Milk prices would be reduced possibly 2 cents a quart. The present delivered price is 13 cents a quart.

The dairies also would agree to guarantee the jobs of drivers who now are working and would promise to hire any new drivers they may need from unemployed union drivers. If the drivers agree on the cut they may also include a 15 day clause in the wage agreement which would give them the right to return to their former wage if the new arrangement proved unworkable.

"The meetings with the dairy representatives Saturday were brought about by the unanimous request of more than 500 members at the union's regular meeting last Thursday night," said Weber.

Seek to Boost Wagon Sales.

"They realize that the continued drop in home deliveries is endangering their jobs. They ordered me and the executive board to meet with the representatives of the dairies and to formulate some plan whereby they will be able to put the milk back on their wagons instead of in the stores. More than 53 per cent of the milk sold in Chicago is sold from stores, in comparison with only 15 per cent 10 years ago."

If the drivers vote the wage reduction and the dairies lower the price of milk to 11 cents, it is expected that the drivers' business will increase tremendously.

FARMER SAVES SON BY KILLING BOY'S ABDUCTOR

Paulding, O., Jan. 28 [Special].—Carefully aiming a rifle from an upstairs window of his home, Oscar Ball, a farmer, shot and killed a man holding his son, Richard Ball, 19 years old, at gunpoint to force payment of what he termed "blackmail money." The victim was Louis Strake, 33, a farm laborer of nearby Ney, with whom Ball said he had trouble over a personal matter.

While Ball was in town shopping yesterday afternoon, Strake and an unidentified companion went to his farm near Oakwood. At gunpoint, they forced Richard to accompany them. They went to Defiance, where Strake's companion got out of the car, then Strake and Richard returned to the Ball farm.

Strake shouted to Ball, who had returned home, to come out of the house or he would kill the farmer's son. Instead, Ball ran upstairs with his rifle. In the farmyard, 200 feet away, Strake was pointing his rifle at Richard. Ball drew a bead and fired, the bullet striking Strake in the head. As the dying man fell, he pulled the trigger of his own gun but his bullet went wild.

FASTER FLORIDA TRAINS FEASIBLE, CHICAGOANS SAY

Obstacles Overcome by Other Roads.

[This is the last in a series of four articles comparing passenger train service to Florida from Chicago and New York.]

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Fast passenger train service between Chicago and Florida is not only possible but feasible. This is the answer of Chicago railroad men to objections raised by operators of the southern lines.

THE TRIBUNE recently surveyed the service to Florida from Chicago and New York. A reporter rode the Dixieland, Chicago's fastest train, to Miami. The trip took 31 hours 40 minutes for 1,434 miles. He rode the Champion, a streamliner, from Miami to New York, 1,349 miles in 25 hours. Then he asked:

"Why don't the roads offer Chicagoans as good service as New Yorkers?"

Talks with Rail Chiefs.

He talked with southern business men. He called on Lyman Delano in New York. Delano is chairman of the Atlantic Coast line and the Louisville and Nashville roads, and a member of the executive committee of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Coast railroads that form links in Chicago's connections with the south. Back home he talked with Chicago railroad officials.

Delano told him that roadbeds in the south were inadequate for high speed trains.

But Chicago railroad men pointed to the western roads who prepared for high speed streamliners by making notable track improvements to care of their 100 mile an hour trains. Why, they asked, can't the southern lines do likewise?

Delano cited the hills and sharp curves between Chicago and Miami.

Country More Mountainous.

Chicago railway men said that, even after physical characteristics were improved, the western roads still had to contend with high mountain ranges and weather conditions far more severe than the southern roads. They compared the Dixieland's speed, an average of 45 miles an hour, with that of the Santa Fe's Chief. The Chief makes the 2,237 mile run from Chicago to Los Angeles, crossing two mountain ranges, at an average speed of 56 miles an hour. The North Western-Union Pacific's City of Denver streaks 1,048 miles from Chicago to Denver at an average of 66 miles an hour.

Delano pointed to the increase in operating difficulties involved in faster trains.

Chicagoans pointed to the New York Central's Twentieth Century, which averages 60 miles an hour for 960 miles from Chicago to New York, traveling thru one of the most densely populated areas in the country.

Road Must Get Together.

"One big obstacle to fast streamlined service from Chicago to Miami," Delano told the reporter, "is that four railroads in Chicago originate business to Florida—the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, Pennsylvania, Illinois Central, and New York Central. Each of these roads believes it is entitled to share in the operation of any fast train.

"Streamliners are expensive. Chicago has only enough business for one such train. New York has enough for five. The problem is to find a way to satisfy claims of the four roads in the establishment of a streamliner."

Chicago officials think this can be accomplished. They admitted operating problems are set up because there is no unified system from Chicago to Florida. The Dixieland, for instance, travels over six roads. It uses the Chicago and Eastern Illinois; Louisville and Nashville; Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis; Atlanta, Birmingham and Coast; Atlantic Coast line, and the Florida East Coast.

Chicago railroad men pointed again to the east, where three or four lines are employed to get to Miami. The Champion, on which the reporter rode, used the Pennsylvania; Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac; Atlantic Coast line, and the Florida East Coast.

Suggest Fewer Delays.

Chicago officials added that an essential to improved service is greater coöperation by the southern roads, especially during the summer, when the fastest service between Chicago and Miami is 39 or 40 hours. They suggested dovetailing schedules to end delays in railroad yards and terminals.

If Chicago trains must travel over flat country as the New York trains do, Chicago men suggested this potential route that would avoid mountains: Chicago and Eastern Illinois to Evansville, Ind.; thence via the Louisville and Nashville to Birmingham; from Birmingham to Albany, Ga., over the Central of Georgia; from Albany to Jacksonville, Fla., over the Atlantic Coast line, and from Jacksonville to Miami over the Florida East Coast.

NIGHT COUGHING CAN OFTEN BE PREVENTED
Your child's coughing at night—caused by throat "tickle" or irritation, mouth breathing, or a cold—can often be prevented by rubbing his throat and chest with plenty of Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. VapoRub's swift poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm, relieves irritation, clears air passages, tends to stop mouth breathing. This helps him relax into healing sleep. VICKS VAPORUB

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?
What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? It's little wonder you're constipated. You probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. Eat All-Bran regularly, and drink plenty of water. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

G. O. P. THRIVES ON DEMOCRATIC 3D TERM SPLIT

Rift Over New Deal Also Aids Republicans.

moment is the New York county prosecutor, Thomas E. Dewey, who is engaged in a tour of the country during which he is presenting his indictment of the New Deal. He has stirred Republican enthusiasm by his trenchant analysis of the New Deal as a socialistic movement founded on the premise that the capitalist system is a failure.

Dewey is young—only 38—too young, in the opinion of many Republicans, but he has the glamorous personality and golden radio voice rivaling Mr. Roosevelt's. Moreover, he came so close to carrying New York in 1938 that he demonstrated he could turn the trick, and the Republicans cannot win without New York. Dewey, in Republican opinion, must be on the ticket in first or second place.

Another Republican headliner is Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who is no less formidable as an assailant of the New Deal. What he lacks in glamor he makes up in intellect. He is an organization Republican, having risen himself from a precinct worker, and he is making a strong appeal to the Republican organization rank and file.

Vandenberg Backers at Work.

Less prominent is Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, who emphasizes that he is not seeking the nomination. A Vandenberg organization in Michigan has picked key men in every state, each of whom is free to proceed as he thinks best to gain delegates for the senator. The Vandenberg strategy appears to be to allow Dewey and Taft to fight the battle to a standstill in the convention, at which juncture the delegates might turn to the Michigan man as a compromise.

At such a juncture likewise there would be other compromises available, notably Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, who is today the outstanding Republican dark horse. He has stood aside in favor of Senator Taft, but the tacit understanding is that if Taft should fail to make the grade Taft will swing his strength to Bricker.

Frozen to Death in Home; $5,200 Found in Clothing

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 28.—[Special].—The frozen body of Mrs. Anna F. Cherry, 75 years old, was found last night in her home. Hidden in her clothing the police found $5,200 in coins and currency. She lived alone in the rambling house. The water pipes were frozen and huge icicles had formed on the ceilings.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 28 (AP).—Maris Wrixon, 22 years old, screen actress, and Rudolf Fehr, 28, film editor, were married today. Miss Wrixon, a native of Great Falls, Mont., was "discovered" by a studio talent scout playing rôles at the Pasadena Community playhouse. It was the first marriage for both.

FOUR HURRICANE BANDITS BECOME WEAK ZEPHYRS

Four bandits swept like a hurricane into the Bell Oil company office at 2517 Roosevelt road yesterday. They demanded money of Ticone Guisti, who had been left to serve the Sunday fuel oil customers, but he said he couldn't open the safe. The bandits began trying to move it out to their truck, pausing only to lock up the six customers who came in one by one.

In five minutes the hurricane bandits were subsiding to a gale, in 10 to a strong wind, in 15 to a moderate breeze, and in 20 to a gentle zephyr. Exhausted by their efforts to move the heavy safe, they wafted themselves sorrowfully out to their truck and vanished in it—and the thin air.

595 Army Deaths in 1939; 55 of Them in Air Corps

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29 (AP).—There were only 55 fatalities in the air corps in 1939 out of 595 in the entire army. Motor vehicle accidents caused 89 deaths. Surgeon General James C. Magee, in his annual report on the army's health, said today the death rate of 3.2 per 1,000 was the lowest on record, and the army had relatively less sickness, fewer deaths and discharges for disability than ever before.

SURVEY REVEALS SPENDING AS BIG CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Also Bares Tax Rebellion, Rep. Ditter Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—Government economy will be the foremost issue in the November congressional elections, according to Representative J. W. Ditter [R., Pa.], chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee. He based his prediction on the results of a survey of public sentiment in the 25 largest states.

Rep. J. W. Ditter.

"Two out of three voters contacted in this survey," said Mr. Ditter, "mention reckless federal spending as their first concern. The people of the United States are in revolt against burdensome taxes.

Oppose Higher Debt Limit.

"Secretary Morgenthau's recommendation that the national debt limit be raised to 50 billion dollars runs counter to the overwhelming sentiment of the nation, as revealed in the recent soundings of the national Republican congressional committee.

"In the 25 states, about 64 per cent of the voters declare the debt limit should not be raised to permit further New Deal squandering.

"Roundly 61 per cent of the voters declare that federal expenditures should be reduced this year. This popular sentiment is only feebly reflected in congress by the fact that during the first three weeks of the present session the house has cut 120 million dollars from President Roosevelt's so-called "rock bottom budget."

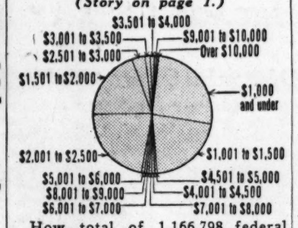

Predicts More Slashing.

"These reductions have been made in the first three spending bills to come from the appropriations committee. More savings will follow as the other spending bills come along.

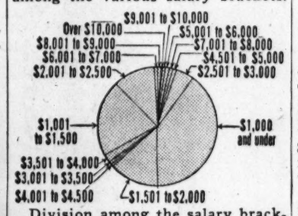

"If the United States should start next year to pay off the New Deal debt at the rate of 500 million dollars a year, it would be 1989 before the national debt would be reduced to the level of March 4, 1933. That is the half century job before the American people. Then we shall have finished paying for the New Deal."

WHOLE GALAXY OF FILM STARS FALLS ON CITY

Chicago contained a fine dash of Hollywood for a brief period yesterday. Madeleine Carroll, on her way to Europe, came in on the Super Chief, paused and went on. So did Gloria Jean, the little 11 year old singer, on her way to Washington to sing at the President's Birthday ball. So did Brenda Joyce, also on her way to the ball, and so did the 1940 king of the movies, Mickey Rooney. Mickey did more than pause. He rushed to a telephone booth and telephoned Highland Park 60. Romance? The telephone was that of Miss Beverly Roach, Northwestern university freshman and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Roach of Highland Park, whom Mickey met a year ago and called on earlier in January.

2 SURVIVORS TALK OVER SHERMAN'S MARCH TO SEA

Two civil war veterans, said to be the last survivors among the soldiers who marched all the way on Sherman's march to the sea, got together yesterday and talked about old times. One of them is John Andrew, 92 years old, of Quincy, national commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, who attended a reception of civil war organizations Saturday night in the Hotel Sherman. Yesterday he visited at the home of the other survivor, Capt. Arthur Dawson, 96, at 321 North Harvey avenue, Oak Park, and they had a lively time recounting their adventures.

At the reception given for Andrew and other national officers of affiliated civil war groups, there were 228 representatives of the Woman's Relief corps, the Ladies of the G. A. R., the Daughters of Union Veterans, the Sons of Union Veterans, and the auxiliary of the last organization. Fourteen G. A. R. members attended.

Andrew left yesterday afternoon for Washington, D. C., on a national tour of state G. A. R. organizations.

N. Y. OPERA HEAD STANDER AND HEIRESS IN CITY

Richard Allen Knight, a New York attorney, and his socially prominent wife, the former Dorothy Ledyard, arrived at the La Salle street station from the east yesterday. It has been reported they are thinking of going to Reno, Nev., for a divorce.

Mrs. Knight is the granddaughter of the late Lewis Cass Ledyard, personal attorney for the elder J. Pierpont Morgan. Her father, Lewis Cass Ledyard Jr., left an estate of $14,000,000 when he died in 1936. Her husband has been publicized for his unconventional antics. He entertained opera patrons once by standing on his head in the Metropolitan Opera house bar.

Mrs. Knight dodged questions about a divorce yesterday, but her husband said flatly: "Take it from me, no one is going to Reno." He refused to say where they were going. For the present, the Knights, their two children, Nora, 4, and Nina, 2, a maid, and two dogs went to the Ambassador hotel.

PUZZLE OF SATURDAY, JAN. 27, SOLVED

VOTERS' REPORTS FIND LAWMAKERS ON THE UPGRADE

But League Sees Room for More Improvement.

Improvement in the quality of state legislators was noted yesterday in a report issued by the Legislative Voters' League of Illinois on the work of outgoing members of the general assembly. Few senators and representatives were given unmixed praise, however, by the league, a nonpartisan organization.

The report was based chiefly upon work in the 61st session of the legislature held between January and July last year. Failure to vote on an important roll call opens a member who is present in the house or senate chamber to a charge of dodging responsibility, the league stated.

Assail Relief Handling.

Also, the L. V. L. asserted that thruout the six month session no real effort was made to place relief on a businesslike basis, and that no real reduction was made in comparison with the spending program for the previous biennium. However, more new laws were ground out than by any regular session in the last century, it said.

The L. V. L. comment on outgoing members in the first five Chicago districts follows:

1ST DISTRICT.

Representative Arthur T. Broche [R.]—Voting record complicated by important roll calls missed.

Representative Daniel M. Flanagan [D.]—Voting record badly mixed and further jumbled by failure to vote on measures of importance.

Representative Ernest A. Greens [R.]—Voting record mixed.

2D DISTRICT.

Senator Joseph Mendel [D.]—Exhibited some independence. Voting record mixed.

Representative James J. Adduci [R.]—Voting record not commendable.

Representative Frank Ryan [D.]—Active. Possesses ability.

Representative James J. Ryan [D.]—Mixed voting record.

3D DISTRICT.

Representative Charles J. Jenkins [R.]—Hard worker. His ability and zeal have earned him respect.

Representative George Garry Noonan [D.]—Voting record not what his lengthy experience and ability should produce.

Representative A. Andrew Torrence [R.]—Voting record spotty.

4TH DISTRICT.

Senator Frank McDermott [D.]—Long experience would justify better expectations.

Representative James P. Boyle [D.]—Died in 21st year of continuous and valuable service as legislator.

Representative John C. Kluczynski [D.]—Shrewd and active. Voting record mixed.

Representative Michael A. Ruddy [R.]—Fair voting record, tho failed to vote on some important measures.

5TH DISTRICT.

Representative Louis G. Berman [D.]—Able. Voting record mixed.

Representative James Weber Linn [D.]—Died in first term on threshold of promising legislative career.

Representative William J. Warfield [R.]—Should have more satisfactory voting measure.

Following are the L. V. L. opinions on outgoing legislators from four districts near Chicago:

8TH DISTRICT.

Senator Ray Paddock [R.], Wauconda—Earnest, steady attendance, with good voting record.

Representative Thomas A. Bolger [D.], McHenry—Capable but has mixed voting record.

Representative Nick Keller [R.], Waukegan—Energetic, earnest.

14TH DISTRICT.

Senator Arnold P. Benson [R.], Batavia—Efficient, active, constructive. Floor leader of G. O. P. minority.

Representative John C. Friedland [R.], Elgin—Fine voting record.

Representative Maude N. Peffers [R.], Aurora—Good voting record.

Representative Leon M. Schuler [D.], Aurora—Voting somewhat mixed.

20TH DISTRICT.

Senator Louis E. Beckman [R.], Kankakee—Not a vote dodger.

Representative George B. Allen [R.], Braceville—Mixed voting record.

Representative Benjamin W. Alpiner [D.], Kankakee—Fair voting record.

Representative Harry B. Topping [R.], Kankakee—Voting record good but failed to vote on some important issues.

41ST DISTRICT.

Representative Lottie Holman O'Neill [R.], Downers Grove—Strong friendship for schools affects otherwise good voting record.

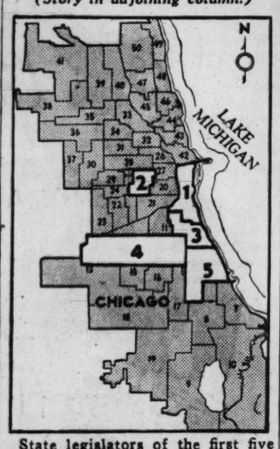

Representative Joseph Sam Perry [D.], Glen Ellyn—Active, energetic, with qualities for leadership.

Representative Warren L. Wood [R.], Joliet—Good voting record and ambitious.

Roll calls on a dozen important bills were included in the league report to support the findings listed above.

Legislators Rated

(Story in adjoining column.)

State legislators of the first five districts of Chicago were mentioned in comment by the Legislative Voters' League of Illinois in report issued yesterday.

URGES FEDERAL HOSPITAL LOANS OF $300,000,000

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28 (AP).—A $300,000,000 federal loan program for construction and improvement of hospital and sanitation facilities thruout the nation was proposed today by Senator James M. Mead [D., N. Y.].

The proposal was viewed at the capitol as embracing the national hospital program which President Roosevelt has been advocating.

Mead said he would introduce the legislation this week and that it would call for 50 year loans at 2 per cent interest, with one-third of the fund, $100,000,000, devoted to hospital projects. In addition to hospitals, the financing would be used for water and sewage systems and the reduction of stream pollution, he said.

EX-FELON SEEKS GOVERNORSHIP OF NORTH CAROLINA

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 28 (AP).—Mayor Thomas E. Cooper of Wilmington, president of the State Mule Dealers' association, and former convict, announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor of North Carolina today on a "Golden Rule platform." Cooper, 56 years old, native of Mullins, S. C., was connected with a Wilmington bank which failed in 1923, and he served a term in state prison and a term in federal prison after he was convicted of banking irregularities. Cooper represented his county in the legislature in 1935 and 1937 and was elected mayor of Wilmington in 1937.

DEMOCRATS HOLD PETITION RALLIES; 20,000 SIGN UP

Ward Workers En Masse Call for Nominations.

BY PARKE BROWN.

A clear cut demonstration of real speed by a political machine was provided yesterday by the Chicago Democratic organization in the complete filling out of two important nominating petitions—involving 20,000 signatures on each—in a few hours.

The task was simple under the plan adopted. Instead of sending circulators from house to house in the usual way, the petitions were signed at ward meetings thruout the city. In one ward, the 19th, it was impossible to rent the regular hall and the meeting was postponed until today, but in each of 49 wards there was a meeting of precinct captains, polls workers, and pay rollers. The average meeting included between 400 and 500 men and women. They all signed the petitions and the sheets were notarized on the spot.

Petitions 100 Per Cent Valid.

Not only was there a great saving of labor, time and expense, but at the Morrison hotel headquarters it was said the plan produced petitions that could not be attacked because of invalid signatures, lack of notarization or any other of the grounds available for contests.

The names on the two petitions were revealing in themselves. The first one was the petition to place the name of President Roosevelt in the Illinois preferential primary. This will be held subject to the President's decision whether he wishes his name entered.

The second petition was for five incumbents of county offices. They are Edward J. Kaindl, county recorder; Frank Lyman, clerk of the Probate court; John E. Conroy, clerk of the Circuit court; Victor L. Schlaeger, clerk of the Superior court, and Coroner Frank J. Walsh.

Courtney's Name Omitted.

Here the omissions furnished the chief cause of comment. State's Attorney Courtney's name was not included, it was said, because the prosecutor did not request the organization to handle his petition, apparently preferring to circulate it himself.

The other incumbents whose terms expire but whose names were not included were three trustees of the sanitary district, James M. Whalen, Joseph T. Baran and George Seif. It was said that Seif, who has not been regular in recent primaries, has not yet made his peace with the organization.

In the Republican arena, the chief activity was a more detailed demand by Richard J. Lyons, candidate for governor, that Gov. Horner force restitution of the funds collected from state employés thru the channels of the Illinoisans, a 2 per cent assessment device.

Dwight H. Green, another Republican candidate for governor, will spend five days downstate this week. He will be in Pontiac tomorrow and will go as far south as Harrisburg on Saturday.

FIRE ON NOTRE DAME CAMPUS.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 28 [Special].—Firemen battled a blaze in the administration building on the campus of the University of Notre Dame today. The fire apparently started in the basement from a short circuit. The damage was estimated at $3,000.

CONFRONTS HULL WITH OWN WORDS IN TARIFF BATTLE

Woodruff Asks Reasons for About Face.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—Representative Roy O. Woodruff [R., Mich.] today confronted Secretary of State Cordell Hull with his utterances in congress opposing the Republican flexible tariff plan because it delegated tariff making authority to the President. Hull now is advocating extension of the authority conferred on the President to negotiate reciprocal tariff agreements without ratification by the senate.

Rep. Roy O. Woodruff.

In a letter to Hull, Congressman Woodruff said: "Upon your responsibility as a lawmaker, in the house of representatives, you denounced the proposal to enlarge the powers of the President in respect to tariff making.

Termed Unwise and Unsound.

"You described this proposed transfer of power as 'unwise,' 'unsound,' 'impracticable,' 'undoubtedly unconstitutional,' 'subversive of the plain functions of congress,' and 'burocracy run mad.'

"You demanded that congress should retain full control of tariff making. You declared, in behalf of yourself and your Democratic colleagues, that the proposed extension of executive authority in tariff making would 'practically vest in him [the President] the supreme taxing power of the nation, contrary to the plainest and most fundamental provisions of the constitution—a vast and uncontroled power.'

Demands Explanation.

"Will you kindly advise me, Mr. Secretary, why you now champion a procedure which you then insisted was 'undoubtedly unconstitutional?

"How can you reconcile these views with your present position? I submit that this outstanding reversal of opinion, unless explained and justified by you, cannot fail to mystify and perplex the public, and throw doubt upon the stability of any position you may take on this and other vitally important questions."

AMERICAN RADIO MAN CUT OFF THE AIR WHILE TALKING FROM LONDON

New York, Jan. 28 [Special].—The London correspondent of the Columbia Broadcasting company, Erlin Echlin, was cut off the air tonight while discussing with Eric Sevareid, CBS representative in Paris, the status of the communist party in the two countries.

Sevareid had just told of the abolition of the communist party as a legal party in France. He asked Echlin what had happened to the communist party in England.

"I will if I can," replied Echlin, "and as far as we and the world can see, nothing has happened to the British communist party."

At this point the line was cut off.

A spokesman for the press department at CBS, who refused to give his name, said that it appeared like direct radio censorship. "But, of course, there's no way of telling definitely," he concluded.

MECHANICS EXPLAINS HUMANICS

By CALEB

WE HAD been discussing the influence of founders upon institutions. Particularly, the way in which their personalities, ideals and ideas can continue deeply to motivate an enterprise long after their own dissociation from its activities. Perhaps I was the more interested in my friend's point of view because he is a technician—an engineer. "What's the answer?"

"Let me ask, in return, if you've ever noticed the remarkable analogy which exists between the mechanics of things, and that which we call the humanics of business? Between these two the relations and resemblances are at times uncanny. Take this matter we've been considering: the founder's effect on his business . . . its continuance for generations after such influence should have been dissipated.

"Engineers have a term which you may have ofttimes heard mentioned—prime mover. Webster defines it as 'A natural agency applied by man to the production of power.' He then points to the water wheel and the steam engine as such 'prime movers'; and explains the figurative use of the expression as, 'The original or the most effective force in any undertaking or work.'

"In my opinion, the moment one analyzes why the principles, practices, and policies of the founder of a business can be reflected in its conduct twenty, forty, fifty, a hundred years later—we run into this mechanical idea embodied in a humanics fact. I think of the originator of a successful business as a 'prime mover'—and of 'the natural agency' by which he transmits power to it as the quality of probity.

"Probity, for example, was the outstanding characteristic of your own organization's founder. Nearly fifty years ago, when he was in his prime, John J. Flinn wrote of him: 'Marshall Field never gives a note; he never bought a share of stock on margin; he never borrows; there is not a dollar's mortgage upon any piece of real estate or other property which he owns; he does business on a cash basis; he buys for cash and sells on shorter time than any of his competitors.' He might also have added that in every customer transaction he saw to it that that customer received full-measure quality.

"Such business practice of any founder ultimately immortalizes the man in his work. His influence and record become a 'prime mover,' on whose communicability and permanence time can put no limit." "Probity, then," I suggested, "is the one factor of humanics by reason of which a business can realize perpetuity." "Right," he replied. "And if its founder hasn't it, the business will stop as surely as any mechanism deprived of its 'prime mover.'"

LICENSE FOUND UNDER BODY OF HIT-RUN VICTIM

Police Seize Autoist After Fatal Accident.

A mother was killed and her son was seriously injured last night when they were struck by a hit and run auto at 69th street and Indiana avenue, but the driver was soon caught.

His victims, Mrs. Martha Eichin, 62 years old, and Robert Eichin, 35, both of 6829 Indiana avenue, were crossing the street to their home when he ran them down. He did not stop. Mrs. Eichin was killed instantly. Her son suffered head and other injuries and was taken to St. Bernard's hospital.

The only clew to the driver appeared to be a broken headlamp. As Policemen Thomas McCarthy and Joseph Maurovich of the Woodlawn station picked up Mrs. Eichin's body, they found a license plate under it. It was the front plate of the hit and run car, broken off in the crash. A few minutes later Policemen Curtis Minogue and Earl Cook arrested Clarence Klemp, 23, of 6349 South Justine street. Police said he confessed.

With Klemp was Miss Marie Snow, 614 Cunningham street, Rockford, Ill. She told police the Eichins "hesitated and then walked in front of our car." She also admitted, police said, that she and Klemp had had several drinks. Klemp told police he fled because he became frightened.

Another Drive Captured.

Another hit and run driver, Ralph Riddle, 28, of 1501 East 65th place, was in custody of New City police last night. Shortly before 9 a. m. he struck Joseph Skarba, 60, and Skarba's grandson, Eugene Lesniak, 6, both of 5102 South Sawyer avenue, in front of St. Gall's church, 55th street and Sawyer avenue.

The driver was seized three blocks away by Policemen William Berglund and John Danford, who gave chase. Police said he was drunk. They charged him with drunk driving, reckless driving, and leaving the scene of an accident. Meanwhile the Lesniak boy was in a serious condition from a skull fracture in Holy Cross hospital.

John Garbaciak, 23, at 4733 South Springfield avenue, was killed last night by an automobile in front of 4892 Archer avenue. The driver was Raymond Kujawa, 3042 Farrell street.

2,261 Illinois Deaths in 1939.

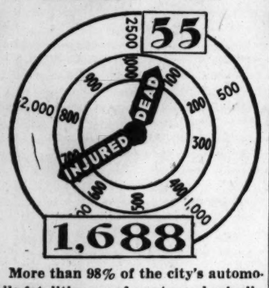

John C. Efflandt, 64, a member of the Northfield village board, died in the Evanston hospital of injuries suffered Saturday when his car collided with a Milwaukee Road train in Glenview. Efflandt, a retired farmer, lived on Sunset road in Northfield.

Traffic accidents in Illinois took 2,261 lives during 1939, according to a report issued by state safety engineers. The toll exceeded that of 1938 by 84 lives, but was lower than in six of the last nine years. Engineers said fatal accidents are occurring with decreasing frequency in relation to traffic volumes. Last year Illinois motorists drove 20 billion miles, with an average of but one fatal accident for each 7,475,000 miles. In 1938 they drove a billion miles less and had fatal accidents more frequently—at an average every 7,206,000 miles.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 74 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 55 were killed in Chicago, where 1,688 were injured in the same period.

GARAGE GROUP'S DIRECTOR FACES NEW QUIZ TODAY

Emil Mermall, executive director of the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, a garage owners' organization, today again will appear before the grand jury investigating the goon slaying of Marinus Hvid, a north side garage owner.

Hvid was fatally slugged on Dec. 27. Since then police and State's Attorney Courtney's investigators have failed to uncover a clew to the identity of his attackers.

Mermall first appeared before the grand jury last week. He refused then to explain withdrawals totaling $14,000 from his association. Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford said the investigators want to know who paid the cost of picketing Hvid's garage at 3514 North Halsted street. This admittedly was $4,000.

The garage was picketed by the Auto Livery Chauffeurs, Taxicab Drivers and Garage Helpers' union after Hvid had been expelled from the owners' association. A reported working agreement between the union and the association is being investigated.

ROAD EXPOSITION PUTS MOUNTAIN MOVERS ON SHOW

The vast arena of the International amphitheater looked yesterday like a jungle of giant machines—monsters designed to move anything from a molehill to a mountain. The machines are part of 300 exhibits in place for the convention of the American Road Builders' association, opening today.

An example of the mechanical monsters used in road building is one great yellow thing, 75 feet long and 15 feet high, labeled: "The World's Largest Excavator."

Scraper Weighs 40 Tons.

It is described as a carryall scraper. It weighs 40 tons and gouges up 55 tons of earth at a single gulp. It is pulled by a 160 horse power Diesel engine and pushed by a 95 horse power Diesel tractor, each operated by one man. Its four pneumatic tires are 9 feet high and 2½ feet in diameter. Each tire costs $2,300. The entire outfit comes to $35,000.

The machines on exhibit were valued at $5,000,000 by Charles M. Upham, engineer-director of the association. Upham said his convention is the biggest—or at least the heaviest—in the United States. Advance registrations for the five day show ending Friday total more than 40,000. This means that attendance will be 20 per cent larger than at the previous record convention, which was held in 1930 in Atlantic City, N. J.

Mayor to Address Session.

Sessions will open this afternoon in the Stock Yard inn, with speeches by Mayor Kelly, Murray D. Van Wagoner, president of the association; Congressman Wilburn Cartwright [D., Okla.], chairman of the house roads committee; Thomas H. MacDonald, federal commissioner of public roads; Henry F. Cabell, president of the American Association of State Highway Engineers, and Ralph Burke, chief subway engineer of Chicago.

A meeting on public relations will be conducted by Robert E. Harper, association public relations director, in the morning. Sessions for county highway officials and for highway contractors, and a safe highways conference, will be held tomorrow. At a session Wednesday road builders will be urged to join in the campaign for national expansion of airports. The amphitheater is at 43d and Halsted streets.

"I GET EXTRA MILDNESS EXTRA COOLNESS EXTRA FLAVOR in slower-burning Camels," says Bill Corum, famed sports writer and columnist

LIGHTNING-FAST in the press-box! Why, Bill Corum's been known to file 3,000 words of sizzling copy during a single big sports event. But no speed for him in his smoking—slower-burning Camels are Bill Corum's cigarette. He likes that extra mildness, coolness, and flavor.

BILL CORUM'S sports news isn't just printed... it's sprinted... at lightning speed from press-box to press and the Five-Star Final. But when the candid camera catches Bill in his office with a cigarette—well, "No speed for me in my smoking," he says.

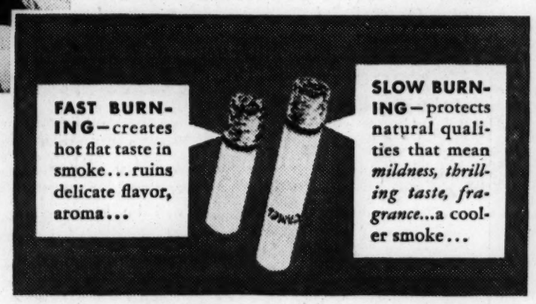

His own common sense and smoking experience tell him what scientists have confirmed in their research laboratories—that "slow-burning cigarettes are extra mild, extra cool, fragrant, and flavorful."

Cigarettes that burn fast just naturally burn hot. And nothing so surely wrecks the delicate elements of flavor and fragrance in a cigarette as excess heat. You don't want a hot, flat, uncomfortable smoke.

The delightful mildness, coolness, fragrance, and flavor of Camels are explained by this important finding—Camels proved to be the slowest-burning cigarette of the sixteen largest-selling brands tested! (The panel below explains the test.)

So take a tip from Bill Corum—and find out for yourself how Camels give you more pleasure per puff. And... more puffs per pack... a plus equal, on the average, to five extra smokes per pack!

Here's Bill at work in the quiet of his office. Bill... typewriter... books... pictures... and Camels—slow-burning Camels. "I find them milder and cooler—and thriftier," he says. And, being a Camel fan of many years' standing, he ought to know.

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to

A. F. OF L. SHAPES ELECTION POLICY IN SESSION TODAY

Executive Board to Seek Changes in NLRB.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Jan. 28.—Political policies of the American Federation of Labor in this momentous election year—particularly the form of renewed legislative attack on the National Labor Relations board—will be shaped at the session of the federation's executive council which opens here tomorrow.

While it is the A. F. of L. policy to avoid blanket endorsement of any national party ticket, it is expected that resentment against the labor board's favoritism for John L. Lewis' Congress of Industrial Organizations will result in condemnation of the Roosevelt administration.

The recent institution of antitrust suits by the department of justice against several building trade unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. is on the agenda for consideration. The filing of these actions, coincidentally with C. I. O. efforts to invade the building trades field, is regarded as another administration thrust against the A. F. of L.

Calls It "New Doctrine."

"Labor is deeply stirred over these suits," said President William Green. "Application of the Sherman antitrust law to cases where two unions are in a jurisdictional dispute is a new doctrine."

Green will preside at the sessions. Other members of the council are the 15 vice presidents and George Meany, secretary treasurer. This group is the governing body for the federation's membership of more than four million.

A few of the council members indicated today that they are skeptical of Lewis' repudiation of the New Deal and his opposition to a third term for President Roosevelt. Lewis made this announcement last week at the Columbus, O., convention of his United Mine Workers of America.

The skeptics said this statement might be a camouflage of Lewis' real intentions and that he may swing back to Roosevelt. Others said they believed Lewis to be sincere.

Seven Point Program.

President Green, who testified last week in Washington before the house committee investigating the labor board, will present to the council the federation's proposed amendments to the Wagner act. They are:

1. Abolition of the present labor board of three members and creation of a new board of five members.
2. Remove the board's discretionary authority to determine the appropriate bargaining unit in unionization of an industry and compel the board to consult the workers on their preferences.
3. Set definite time limits for adjudication of complaints to the labor board. Present delays work hardships on employers and employés.
4. Limit the board's right to abrogate a legitimate contract between employer and employés.
5. Permit court review of cases in which the board determines what organization shall represent workers.
6. Permit the employer to express his view, if he does not use intimidation, on what union his workers should join.
7. Give employers the statutory right to petition the labor board to hold an election when two or more unions are fighting for the right to be declared collective bargaining agent.

KEEP OUR MONEY OUT OF POLITICS, MINERS DEMAND

Object to Big Gifts to Democrats.

Columbus, O., Jan. 28 (AP).—The use of union funds for political purposes tonight appeared likely to become a lively topic in the United Mine Workers' convention, now entering its second week. Several resolutions now in committee demand that the U. M. W. contribute no more money to political campaigns.

One, from the Holden, W. Va., local union, reads:

"Be it resolved that the international board shall not take our money to finance political campaigns, regardless of what political faction he [any candidate] may belong to."

Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the U. M. W., said that this organization alone contributed approximately $450,000 to the Democratic national campaign in 1936 and loaned $50,000, which was repaid. A source close to John L. Lewis, president of the mine workers and of the Congress of Industrial Organizations of which U. M. W. of A. is an affiliate, emphasized, however, that the contribution was authorized by the 1936 convention.

Some delegates hold that any funds which the union can spare could be better spent to relieve indigent miners. Headquarters of the U. M. W. receives hundreds of letters appealing for aid.

One informed source expressed belief the resolutions against political contributions reflected Lewis' resentment at the Democratic party, which he accused of breaking faith. He declared that labor furnished money, speakers, party workers, and many millions of votes to keep the Democrats in power.

"Why give money to a party that turned against you?" this source asked.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

THE LABOR BOARD AMENDS THE CONSTITUTION.

There may still be in this country some citizens who think that the New Deal presents no menace to civil liberty as guaranteed in the constitution. To such persons a reading of the latest decision of the labor board, denying freedom of the press, is recommended.

The decision was rendered in a case brought by the automobile workers' union against the Ford Motor company. Printed matter setting forth Mr. Ford's opinion that his employés might lose rather than gain from joining a union were distributed to workmen at the Ford plant at Somerville, Mass. The labor board found that this constituted a violation of the Wagner act. Accordingly, the company was ordered to "desist from . . . disseminating among its employés statements or propaganda which disparage or criticize labor organizations. . . ."

The constitution of the United States says in so many words that congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press. The labor board has amended the constitution to read, "Congress shall make no law, except the Wagner act, abridging the freedom of the press." It need scarcely be added that if the labor board can amend the constitution at will, all the other administrative agencies can do the same, with the result that freedom of the press and, indeed, all the other liberties specified in the bill of rights, will be nonexistent.

The labor board decision devotes several pages to quotations from the cards and pamphlets in question. It is unnecessary here to reproduce all this material, but a few examples may be taken at random as typical. Under the caption, "Fordisms," a number of aphorisms were published, among them being:

"We have always made a better bargain for our men than an outsider could. We have never had to bargain against our men and we don't expect to begin now."

And another: "Figure it out for yourself. If you go into a union they have got you—but what have you got?"

In a pamphlet entitled "Ford Gives Viewpoint on Labor; Cautions Workers on Organization," this passage occurs:

"If union leaders think that they can manage an automobile factory better than we can, and pay better wages under better working conditions than we can, why don't they build a factory of their own and show us up? They have the capital—they have all the money they need and a lot more. The country is big; they have the men; and think of all the union customers they would have! . . . If they have thought out a better way to manage business, let them demonstrate what it is. If they can't do that, why do they pretend that they can? . . . They don't want that. They want control."

The labor board says that the printing and distribution of these and kindred remarks restrained and coerced employés in the exercise of rights guaranteed by the Wagner act. The answer which free men will make is that the freedom of the press is a far more fundamental right than any which congress can create. This country could remain a free country without the Wagner act, as 150 years of history prove, but America cannot remain free for 15 minutes if the right of citizens to print and distribute their opinions can be taken away by burocratic zealots.

It cannot be said too often that the freedom of the press is not the freedom to state agreeable things, for no guarantee would be required for that; it is the freedom to say disagreeable things, and in particular things which will be disagreeable to the officers of government and disrupt their pet projects. Freedom of the press is not confined to publishers of newspapers, books, and magazines. It is a right which belongs to every citizen, employers, employés, and everybody else. If a precedent is found for depriving Mr. Ford of his rights under the constitution today the same precedent may be turned against the unions tomorrow.

It is the theory of the Wagner act that strikes result from the opposition of employers to the unionizing of their employés and that these strikes interfere with the flow of interstate commerce. That is all stated in the preamble to the act. Another act might have for its preamble the statement that strikes result from the existence of unions and that these strikes impede the flow of interstate commerce. Accordingly, all unions or perhaps all closed shop contracts or all strikes would be outlawed. If Mr. Ford can be forbidden in the name of the Wagner act and interstate commerce to tell his side of the story today, the leaders of the unions could with equal propriety be forbidden to tell their side of the story tomorrow.

Even if Mr. Ford's use of the press promoted disorder and so interfered with interstate commerce—a most dubious proposition—the danger from this kind of thing is negligible compared to the danger implicit in denial of the right to publish. When men cannot present their arguments by peaceable means they are likely to resort to violent ones, as any reader of history knows.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the labor board threw out as unfounded a complaint of the union that the company had interfered with the distribution of union pamphlets. Evidently, then, both sides were using the press to present their story to the men concerned. It is precisely that kind of thing which the guarantee of the freedom of the press was intended to promote: the appeal to reason rather than force. To close this avenue of persuasion is to invite all the evils arising from dictatorship and oppression.

MR. DEWEY AT BOSTON.

Thomas E. Dewey in his Boston speech made an effective presentation of the essential facts regarding the national budget. He disclosed not only an understanding of the problem expected of any candidate for high office but an ability to marshal facts and conclusions in striking and memorable form. Mr. Dewey's success as a prosecutor no doubt derives to no small degree from just this skill in analyzing complicated material and reducing it to understandable order.

Mr. Dewey started with a pointed statement of the disparity between the government's intake and outgo. If this process is allowed to continue—as it will be if the New Dealers are returned to office—the country will be faced shortly by a choice between ruin by unexampled taxation and ruin by inflation.

If any one believes that the rich can be made to carry the burden he is going to be disappointed. Even if all the incomes above $5,000 were confiscated by the government the deficit this year would still be 3¼ billions. The government is already taking billions each year in hidden taxes from the poor and the longer the spending spree continues the greater must this drain upon the less fortunate elements in the population become.

Present high taxation and the certainty of even higher taxes in future to pay the interest and principal of the accumulating debt are brakes upon business and employment. At this point Mr. Dewey found another opportunity to denounce the defeatism which permeates the New Deal. If the unemployed men and women, and especially the young people, are ever to find work, the government's extravagance must be checked, for only in that way can private capital be released for productive enterprise. He supported this argument with figures showing the tremendous decline in investment under the New Deal, a decline which the administration's fiscal policies promoted, but which is used by the administration to justify a continuance of those policies.

Mr. Dewey concluded on a hopeful note which is deserving of quotation because it seems to summarize his viewpoint. "Only a new administration," he said, "can reopen the gates of boundless opportunity for the people of this young and growing nation. Beyond those gates lies the natural heritage of the American people."

It may be assumed that this speech is not Mr. Dewey's last word on the subject, but rather an introduction. Many details remain to be filled in. The fiscal policy of the federal government is certain to be one of the two or three most important questions to be debated in the forthcoming presidential campaign. The country will expect every candidate, and particularly every Republican candidate, to revert to the subject again and again.

A RACKET CONGRESS.

The National Rivers and Harbors congress is soliciting cities to send "representative citizens" as delegates to its 35th annual meeting in March at Washington.

The congress is nothing but a pork barrel lobby. It has "approved" projects calling for the expenditure of more than a billion dollars in public funds on wholly wasteful and useless projects. Its manner of doing business was disclosed at a recent convention when a request for a list of rejected projects brought an explanation from an astonished attaché that the congress never rejects any project.

The congress is composed almost exclusively of contractors and politicians whose interest in the projects advanced is solely that of personal profit. Any representative citizen who got into this aggregation by mistake would find himself out of place, for the members of the congress represent no one but themselves.

WATER DIVERSION TO THE SUPREME COURT.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

An old and vexatious problem of this area will go before the United States Supreme court when Attorney General Cassidy of Illinois asks the Supreme court justices to increase diversion of Lake Michigan water into the Illinois waterway from 1,500 to 5,000 cubic feet per second.

It seems a strange thing that the precise amount of water sent into the Mississippi system via the reversed Chicago river should be dependent on a decision of the Supreme court, and yet that is the case. In 1929 the court, speaking thru Chief Justice Taft, unanimously rejected the Chicago sanitary district's plea for 8,500 cubic feet, and 1,500 cubic feet was set as the maximum.

But a lot has happened in the intervening 11 years. In the first place, Great Lakes states, which complained that diversion at Chicago had lowered the level of the lakes, soon learned that drouth and scant rainfall were the controling factors in the lake level, not diversion. With normal rains lakes returned to their old levels.

Second, Joliet and other communities along the upper banks of the Illinois waterway have found that the water which now comes down is not enough to protect the stream against pollution by sewage. Finally, it seems altogether certain that the Supreme court's maximum of 1,500 cubic feet is not enough to meet the demands of navigation.

Justice Brandeis once wrote in a Supreme court opinion that the bench on which he sat should be ever ready to reëxamine its rulings in the light of new evidence and new information. Illinois' presentation of this long standing diversion problem will provide the Supreme court with such an opportunity. The interests of the Mississippi valley make it urgent for the court to use that opportunity as resolutely as it has used other chances to correct mistaken conclusions.

LINCOLN AND THE DRAMA.

"Our American Cousin": A comedy in three acts by Tom Taylor [English], first staged in 1859.

Its story: The daughter of a baronet is betrothed against her will to the attorney who drove her father into bankruptcy. If she marries him, the attorney promises to cancel all the baronet's liabilities. She is saved from this marriage by a humble clerk in the attorney's office.

President Lincoln saw this play in Ford's theater, Washington, up to 10:15 p. m. April 14, 1865, when he was shot in the head by—

John Wilkes Booth, an actor, son of the famous Anglo-American tragedian, Junius Brutus Booth. He was born in Hartford county, Maryland, in 1839, and went on the stage in 1856. He was a popular leading man and guest star with resident stock companies until 1864, when he gave his last performance in New York as Mark Antony in "Julius Cæsar," with his brothers, Edwin and Junius Brutus Booth Jr., in the rôles of Brutus and Cassius, respectively. He appeared occasionally in Chicago. Twelve days after the assassination Booth was shot and killed by a Union soldier near Bowling Green, Va.

At 7 o'clock on the night of the assassination Booth asked a hotel clerk if he was going to Ford's theater, and added, "There will be fine acting there tonight."

Laura Keene: The star of the "Our American Cousin" company that Lincoln saw. She was an Anglo-American actress-manager, and a favorite in this country, to which she came in 1851, at the age of 25. She made a world tour, and then opened her own theater in New York, producing light comedies and dramas. She died in 1873.

Ford's theater: 511 10th street, N. W., Washington, D. C. Now a Lincoln museum, containing many relics. The old interior has been changed almost beyond recognition. Free; open every day. Lincoln died in the house across the street, No. 516, the girlhood home of the mother of George Rector, food expert and former Chicago restaurateur. A pillowcase from her bed, stained with Lincoln's blood, is among the relics at the Chicago Historical society.

CAUSEUR DE LUNDI.

(Charles Augustin Sainte-Beuve, 1804-'69.)

Ah, Monday glimpses with the door ajar,
Into the chamber where the famous stand
Beneath the golden dome, before the bar
Where Venus and Minerva both command;
When shall there come another advocate
To plead the cause of letters half so well,
To sort the moods and foibles of the great
And of their greatness classically to tell?
When shall the celebrated have their worth
So notably assayed, so deftly weighed,
With judgment tolerant as the belt of earth
And sharply pointed as a two edged blade?
If patron saint the critics could approve
They'd give that signal honor to Sainte-Beuve.

Portrait of an Unknown Millionaire.

George Firmenich, Chicago's unknown millionaire [Jan. 25] inherited a part of his fortune from his father, who owned a glucose and starch mill in or near Buffalo, N. Y. This grew into a large industry which was consolidated with the Corn Products company. George built a glucose and starch mill near Chicago, which was leased to the Corn Products company. After the expiration of the lease it was destroyed by fire.

He owned a building on Randolph street, at the corner of Dearborn, or close to the corner. [The Reaper building?] He had a small office there, simply furnished with an old desk, a few chairs and a filing cabinet, total value not more than $50. He had no clerk or stenographer.

He was retiring, reticent, kind hearted. His contributions to charity were frequent, but always anonymous.

About his only amusement was Saturday afternoon sessions in the Congress hotel with a group of his friends. He would listen for hours without saying a word. Occasionally he would give a dinner for the bunch, but would always ask one of us to make the arrangements. The guests were not supposed to know that George was the host.

On the Trail of a Mystery Writer.

We're slowly catching up with that English girl who is our favorite "mystery" writer of the moment, by name Ngaio Marsh. She was born in New Zealand, and Ngaio is a Maori word. Maybe it means "pretty girl," for Ngaio takes a good picture. "Nigh-oh" will serve as an English pronunciation, but the Maoris work the "g" into the word in their strange South sea way.

A CASE OF MIXED SIGNALS.

Once Paw seen a pretty girl wavin' her hand
Into the direction where he was at,
An' he sez to himself, "Gee, ain't that grand?"
An' he patted his hair, and tipped his hat,
And fixed up a wrinkle in his cravat—
But he soon quit fixin' an' stopped his blab,
For she was only hailin' a taxicab.

Lore of Lost Banners.

Regarding confederate flags [Jan. 26]:

The battle flag is also called the "Beauregard flag," because it was designed by Gen. Beauregard. The fourth and last flag in the series [a modification of "the stainless banner"] is called "the unborn flag," because it was ratified by only one branch of the confederate congress. The surrender at Appomattok prevented final legislative action. The first use of "the stainless banner" was to drape the coffin of Gen. Thomas J. ["Stonewall"] Jackson.

These flags are now used as follows: United Confederate Veterans, the battle flag; Sons of the Confederacy, the "unborn flag"; Daughters of the Confederacy, the first national banner, called "Stars and Bars"; Children of the Confederacy, the "stainless banner."

CONTROLING ACNE.

ACNE may occasion much unhappiness, as a pimply face often subjects the possessor to thoughtless jibes on the part of schoolmates. In consequence, self-consciousness may leave a permanent mark upon the disposition. No growing girl—budding into womanhood—can face her mirror with complacency when the reflection reveals the skin of the cheeks dotted with blemishes. It would not be so bad if this miserable affliction confined itself to some region of the body that is covered routinely. Unfortunately, the chin, cheeks, and forehead are the preferred sites although the chest and the area between the shoulder blades may be involved.

The disorder does not arise because of an infection, but bacteria are usually introduced later thru scratching or squeezing the lesions with soiled fingers. The true seat of the trouble lies in the oil [sebaceous] glands and these structures become hosts to pustules and blackheads. In a full blown case—at one and the same time—we may observe all stages of inflammation as well as yellow-capped pimples.

Handling the parts makes the situation worse and rarely will a victim escape without some scarring. The mystery of the whole business is that no matter what is tried some examples will prove stubborn and resistant to all forms of treatment. On the other hand, the condition may disappear even tho nothing is done. Usually a disease of the adolescent years, it may persist into early adulthood.

Formerly it was considered a dietary manifestation but this theory has been proved erroneous. Rich foods may—at times—apparently increase its virulence but exert no influence at others. Limiting the intake of starches and sugars has been discontinued because many afflicted persons do better with meals high in these elements. The thought that allergy [sensitivity] may be responsible has neither been confirmed nor discarded. Certain it is, however, that something happens to the sebaceous glands which weakens their resistance to organisms and starts them producing oily secretions at a rapid rate.

The suggestion that a low output on the part of the thyroid gland has some influence has been accepted in many quarters. Sutton believes that if the sufferer exhibits signs of depression, lack of energy, wants to sleep late in the morning, and feels and acts tired on arising—dried thyroid substance is indicated regardless of the metabolic rate. Under this plan, digestion is improved. Numerous victims have made an about face with the cautious use of this drug. But accurate control is demanded, as we are dealing with a powerful remedy.

The rôle of X-ray has been studied for several years and this force has aided many patients materially. It must be admitted, however, that much damage has followed careless application. The procedure can destroy the skin glands, but this is not the end desired. What we wish to accomplish is merely to decrease their activity and—with very light doses—excellent results have been obtained. With some regulation of the diet, and the employment of thyroid extract, radio therapy supplies just enough help to bring healing. The menus recommended are spare in fats with even cream and butter omitted or reduced to a low level. If vitamin D is essential, viosterol —instead of cod liver oil—may be used in generous doses without injurious effects.

It goes without saying that the general health must be studied with great care. Focal infections—involving the tonsils, teeth, or sinuses—while not positive causes—may bring about enough lowering of reserve to usher in acne. Constipation, and all forms of indigestion, should be corrected and sufficient exercise in the open air provided to bring a healthy glow to the skin. Sweating, on the other hand, is inadvisable and violent games which will stimulate perspiration may be actually harmful.

Local treatment consists in washing the face gently with a nonirritating soap and lukewarm water two or three times daily. Sulfur is thought to be beneficial and—if applied to the surface—may be dusted on or used in a bland ointment. It is well recognized that greasy materials massaged into the skin are without value.

DRUG SENSITIVITY.

C. F. C. writes: What are the toxic effects of belladonna? This substance was prescribed in a case of false angina. Almost at once the patient was seized with a desire to sleep and the pupils of his eyes became so dilated that he could not see. After he fell asleep he could not be aroused for a long time. When he stopped taking the capsules his symptoms disappeared within two days. Is this person sensitive to the drug?

REPLY.

Yes. Some individuals are exceedingly sensitive to belladonna. Drowsiness is a common symptom, with dryness of the mouth, dilated pupils, thirst, and weakness. The physician should be told of this experience. A smaller quantity will probably produce no ill effects.

OIL INJECTIONS.

M. E. writes: In your article on constipation you say: "With stubborn cases the injection of an ounce or two of warm olive or cottonseed oil into the rectum just before retiring has the effect of easing spasm." Does the oil injection have to be followed by an enema of any kind?

REPLY.

No. In order to initiate the call to stool and to acquire a daily morning stimulus, a small, plain water enema [a few ounces to a pint] may be used after breakfast. The amount of water is gradually reduced until a daily evacuation becomes a habit.

MILK AT NIGHT.

M. J. H. writes: If a person takes a quart of milk at night before retiring, instead of at noon, as previously, will the weight be affected? I maintain that a specified number of calories will have the same effect regardless of the time of the day it is taken.

REPLY.

You are right. Weight changes are merely differences between the total expended energy and the total absorbed calories. Using the food at night will make little if any difference.

PUTREFACTION OF FOODS.

B. A. writes: I am suffering from putrefaction in the colon. Would a vaccine made from the organisms found in this organ be helpful?

REPLY.

Since putrefaction is due to the bacterial breakdown of proteins, a vaccine is of no particular value. We suggest that you rearrange your diet, omitting meats temporarily and cutting down on proteins generally. Add buttermilk to your diet.

IODINE TASTE.

J. K. writes: What causes a person's breath to smell of iodine? I can also taste it.

REPLY.

Unless you are taking iodine the likeliest cause is a slight infection in the nose or throat, or some disturbance in your sensations of taste and smell. Indigestion should be considered.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY QUENTIN POPE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand.—As the time for the departure of New Zealand's first expeditionary force approaches, the Socialist government here has to face the issue of the draft and how soon to introduce it.

New Zealand's contribution to the British empire armies will be at least one division of 15,000 men, and may be well over that strength. But today that fact is undisclosed to most New Zealanders. The only number mentioned in the government's recruiting drive is the 6,000 which formed part of the so-called "first echelon" of the expeditionary force.

That force was recruited in one day, but government critics claim the air of secrecy with which the recruiting was surrounded caused interest to wane. Especially unpalatable was the condition of enlistment that after training the men might be sent back to their civil occupation and mobilized at 24 hours' notice for departure abroad.

The recruiting figures began to drop off and in the last few weeks have been small. With the first echelon completing its training, the recruiting for the second echelon, of slightly smaller size, has not been fast enough for that body to reach full strength.

This means the government will have to act promptly if it is to keep its military preparations on schedule, and that even if the recruiting for the second echelon picks up on announcement of the fact that men are needed, the third section of the force may present a difficult problem.

It is thus no surprise that antidraft organizations have become very noisy and that from various leftists there have come demands that the government pledge itself more definitely not to begin drafting men into the army.

This fear of the draft was plainly written into the resolution of the powerful Trades Union congress on the west coast of the South Island, traditional home of radicalism. The resolution declared the European war an imperialist struggle between Great Britain, France, and Germany, and demanded New Zealanders should not be compelled to take part in it. The congress also asked an assurance from the government it was not considering the draft.

Prime Minister Savage's reply to this, in the government newspaper, the Standard, was that while there was no need for the draft "at the moment," "prosecuting the war to victory was the paramount concern of the government" and that he was prepared to admit that every detail of domestic policy must be subordinated to it. No recent statement of Savage has caused such excitement as this qualifying phrase "at the moment."

The split over conscription, it should be made clear, is one in the ranks of the government itself. Military leaders seem quietly certain it will come, and from one source it is learned that the necessary forms for putting in the draft have recently been run off at the government printing office. Nevertheless the system will not be introduced without a struggle between the cabinet and the members of the powerful left wing.

How Our States Got Their Names

19. MASSACHUSETTS.

Massachusetts derives its name, apparently, from the Indian words "massa" [great] and "wachusett" [hill]. The name was applied previously to the colony and bay, and to a tribe of Indians living near the bay. Massachusetts was one of the original 13 states, and was first settled by the Puritans in 1620 at Plymouth.

Massachusetts state seal [Sigillum Reipublicae Massachusettensis]. It consists of shield bearing Indian with bow and arrow, above which is arm holding sword, and below which is motto: "Ense Petit Placidam sub Libertate Quietem."

The state motto is "Ense Petit Placidam sub Libertate Quietem" [With the Sword She Seeks Peace Under Liberty]. The state flower is the mayflower. Nicknames for Massachusetts include the Baked Bean, Puritan, Old Colony, and Bay state. Boston, of course, is famous for its baked beans. The Bay state appellation is said to come from the fact that some of the state's early settlements were on Cape Cod bay. Old Colony traces to the early date at which settlers came.

THE SPILLING OF THE BEANS.

Elmhurst, Ill., Jan. 25.—I see where communist No. 1 in the United States exposes what your paper has maintained right along of the partnership of the New Deal with communism. They can't blame this on Republican propaganda. I'll bet the New Deal face is red. Let them try to laugh this off!

Regarding the charge that the New Deal has arrayed class against class, which was denied, what have they to say about Browder's statement: "In the days when they did want to rouse the masses we had the peculiar experience of having to restrain them."

Let the voters remember the Browder statement when they are about to mark the ballot next November. What's the use of damning communism and then voting for the New Deal or its successor? And to top it off, comes the Lewis bombshell. All in all, it's been a bad day for the New Deal. COMMON SENSE.

BRIGHT BOYS.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—For nearly five months my wife has been stranded in Poland. I have received three letters from her asking me to help her return home. I have sent many letters to Washington asking for advice and assistance, giving all details that could possibly be of any help in this matter.

After nearly four months of efforts I am finally informed that the state department has succeeded in communicating with my wife and has established the fact that she desires to return home. In all my letters to Washington I have stated the same fact — so now that we have reached an understanding I am wondering where we go from here, and in the meantime I will receive more letters from my wife asking for my help in returning home. CHRIS HANSEN.

DELINQUENT TAXES.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—In your columns of Jan. 18 there appeared a list of loop properties delinquent in taxes. The names of some of the owners were hidden by the names of the trusts or real estate organizations under which they conduct their business. One or two of these delinquents are social lions in their suburban bailiwicks and have recently appeared very prominently in the society columns. Their taxes now run way up in the six figures and go back over 8 or 10 years. All thru this time they have been steadily collecting their rents and when their tenants get behind in rent payments these owners do not hesitate to give the delinquent a five day notice of eviction.

It would seem that you could aid the city in the collection of these hundreds of thousands of dollars by having one of your star writers compile a story giving full names of these sitdown taxpayers. CITIZEN.

DID THE DOCTORS OBJECT?

Chicago, Jan. 24.—The other morning I stepped into the obstetrical ward in one of Chicago's finer hospitals. It was feeding time for the sweet little babies that were from a few hours to a few days old. It was a beautiful sight, except for one thing — the air was blue with smoke from the cigarets of the nursing mothers. If memory serves me correctly, it was just a few years ago that smoking was prohibited in our street cars as a public health and sanitary measure. If it be necessary to protect the adult public from such a noxious poison, why not protect the bodies of helpless babies from the same? Where should sanitation begin, in our street cars or in our hospitals? CLIFTON LE ROY.

CORRECTIONS.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—In today's TRIBUNE I read the Editorial of the Day, "An Ill-Fated British Swap," and find that the statements therein are not quite correct. Helgoland became English in 1814 and in 1890 the Britons exchanged it for the small island of Zanzibar in the Indian ocean at the east coast of Africa off the former German Southwest Africa colony, now Tanganyika territory, and not for the territory of Uganda, which never was German. WALTER BOCK.

POLITICAL POSTERS.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Will they or will they not? That is the question. Well, anyway, we'll soon find out if our poles will again be decorated with the pictures of aldermanic candidates. Time will tell. REALTORUM FULLERTONUM.

TOO MUCH TO SHOVEL.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—I have just read the letter by Mrs. C. W. S. relating how in Milwaukee if one fails to clean the snow off the sidewalk the cost of doing so is added to the taxes on one's property. That is one discouragement to the ownership of property with which we are not afflicted in Chicago. Undoubtedly it must work serious injustice and hardship under many sets of circumstances.

Where I come from we did not shovel off our sidewalks except in April when the snow was melting. That was Calumet, Mich., about four miles from Lake Superior and about five miles south of the northernmost point of Michigan. If we had kept the sidewalks shoveled off we would not have had time to do anything else, and in that case there would have been no object in living there.

When we went outdoors in the winter, and it was winter most of the time, we put on our overshoes, called galoshes here, or rubbers; except the Finlander boys, who wore shoepacks. The snow, most winters, covered the fence tops. On the sidewalks it was tramped hard enough to walk on without sinking down in it. Shoveling off sidewalks is a luxury and not by any means a necessity. CHARLES M. RODI.

POLICE PROTECTION.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Recently I read that the 165 existing vacancies on the police force would not be filled and that no vacancies would be filled during 1940, which will mean approximately 330 less policemen by the end of this year to protect the people of Chicago.

I lost two loved ones due to traffic accidents in Chicago. My brother was killed by a hit and run driver at Karlov and Lake street, and my first husband was killed by a drunken driver at Clark street and Grand avenue. I am wondering if it will be safe for me, a lady of 57 years, to take a daily walk in my neighborhood this year. CITIZEN.

THE MOST NORTHERLY STATE.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—May I point out that in "How States Got Their Names," you state that Maine is the most northern state in the United States. The state that is farthest north is Minnesota. Four other states are farther north than Maine, viz.: Washington, Idaho, Montana, and North Dakota. Am I right? Consult the Tribune Travel Bureau. F. B.

ESTATE ASSETS.

Chicago, Jan. 17 [Legal Friend of the People].—My mother passed away over three years ago and left a will which read as follows: that my sister and niece and nephew get the two story building that we were living in and my brother $200 and myself $50. This matter went to the Probate court and we did not get anything as yet.

1. Now my sister lost the home to a real estate man for not paying the taxes.

2. Who has to pay us, my sister, or the real estate man? W. K.

1. Two years are allowed for redemption from a tax sale; fifteen months for redemption from a foreclosure sale. It is not clear which is involved in your case.

2. If there are no assets in the estate, then presumably your legacy will not be paid. We do not have sufficient facts to advise you to advantage.

SUBSTITUTE FOR WILL.

River Forest, Ill., Jan. 16 [Legal Friend of the People].—I own a small piece of real estate. 1. Should I die, leaving a request in writing but no legally drawn will, [2] could the heirs sell the property and give a clear title without court proceedings?

3. What should be the fee for drawing up a will?

4. How many witnesses are required? E. C.

1. Such a request would be legally ineffective.

2. In general, probate proceedings are necessary in order to produce a readily salable title to real estate regardless of whether there is a will.

3. Depends on its complexity and on the attorneys who have been employed.

LAWTON TO TAKE MILITARY IDEAS TO PAROLE BOARD

Society His Chief Concern, Says New Appointee.

Some idea of military discipline will enter into any decisions of Brig. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, who was appointed to the Illinois parole board last week, he said yesterday in outlining the views he will take with him into parole board conferences. He has had 31 years' experience as a soldier and is brigadier general in charge of the 58th Artillery brigade of the Illinois National Guard.

Brig. Gen. S. T. Lawton.

Gen. Lawton, who is 55 years old, is also a practicing attorney, but has never practiced criminal law. He started in the National Guard as a private, served on the Mexican border in 1916 and was a captain of artillery in France during the world war.

"I served as court officer in Belgium after the armistice," Gen. Lawton remembered. "Perhaps I was a bit lenient. I knew all the men were eager to get started for home and so, when they came before me charged with minor offenses, I couldn't be severe with them.

"But thinking it all over since then, if I had the job to do over again the results would be the same, but I'd be more hard-boiled in the way of doing it.

"No one should get the impression that I have any preconceived ideas of leniency or severity to be imposed on the state prisoners. I start with an open mind and the purpose of protecting the state.

"With me the disposition of the case of an individual will hinge on what is best for all the people, not just one.

"I have not studied the subject of parole, but I have watched the developments of the system in this state since I began the practice of law in 1905. I watched with interest the proceedings in two sessions of the legislature regarding the so-called Ward-Schnackenberg police reform law.

"I am not prepared to say whether the indeterminate sentence law is better than a definite sentence law. I am not experienced enough in the matter to pass upon the merits of the plan.

"I have been appointed to the committee having jurisdiction at the Pontiac prison, where the younger convicts are kept. I shall sit there on Feb. 5 with Michael Howlett, my fellow committee member, and Chairman W. C. Jones will sit with us the first day or two."

HOLDUP VICTIMS VIEW 2 BANDITS CAPTURED IN ROBBERY OF STORE

Two bandits captured Saturday night thru the courage of Park Policeman Frank Clay were viewed by holdup victims at the detective bureau showup yesterday. One of the bandits, a parolee from the Indiana reformatory at Pendleton, confessed having robbed several stores in the last month.

Policeman Clay.

The two, who were captured while robbing a haberdashery at 1604 Roosevelt road, are Augustine Di Sabato, 6914 South Paulina street, and Dominic Le Pore, 1640 West 71st street. Di Sabato was paroled in December, 1938, after serving five years of a ten year sentence for robbery in Crown Point.

Policeman Clay saw the two herd Herman Simon, the store owner, and five customers into a back room with revolvers. He sent his partner, Albert Marik, to the back door and went in the front door. While the bandits were in the back of the store he told them the place was surrounded and to surrender. They were seized without firing a shot.

Last night a third bandit, Michael Eppalito, 917 South Winchester avenue, was seized. He is an ex-convict, having served six years in prison for robbery. Eppalito was in the store, posing as a patron, but acting as a lookout, when his companions attempted the holdup. He walked out with the victims. He was arrested when his pals told police his name.

DRIVE PROVIDES JOBS FOR 111 CHICAGO BOYS

Jobs for 111 Chicago boys were found thru the Boys' Brotherhood Republic in a campaign that ended Saturday. The campaign was the first the brotherhood sponsored since 1916. In one week that year it placed 1,200 boys in jobs because of the industrial boom developing from the world war.

This year 612 boys between the ages of 14 and 20 registered with the brotherhood's employment bureau. Joe Saruk, mayor of the brotherhood, said the bureau will continue its work.

"We are satisfied with conditions in the city," he said. "The campaign is over, but the jobs keep coming in every day and we will continue to fill them."

BURNS TO DEATH IN HOME.

Kankakee, Ill., Jan. 28 [Special].—William Noe, 63 years old, Kankakee mechanic, was burned to death early today in a fire which burned the interior of the small dwelling where he lived alone. The blaze originated from a kerosene stove explosion, firemen said.

BANDIT SETS OUT ON HOLDUP TOUR IN A STOLEN CAR

A slim young bandit dressed in gray robbed two places in the loop, almost next door to each other, last night, and then started out on a round of holdups in outlying areas.

He first held up Jack Compton, attendant in the parking lot at 232 West Randolph street, and robbed him of $4, and forced him to give him the keys to a parked car belonging to a patron, William P. Blance, 1528 Rosemont avenue.

Then the robber drove out thru an alley and into a parking lot at 222 West Randolph street, which is separated by a building from the other lot. There he got $5 from John Gillesple, the attendant. Within the next hour he held up filling stations at 1800 Washington boulevard, Damen avenue, and Augusta boulevard, and Wabansia and California avenues.

MYSTERY WAVES FROM SEA BUFFET PACIFIC SHORES

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 28 (AP).—Mysterious, thundering breakers battered the southern California coastline today in the midst of calm summer weather. The big waves which came in from the outwardly calm Pacific ocean have been explained in various ways. One theory is that they came in under the surface from distant Pacific storms. Another is that they oscillate between near by islands and the mainland.

UNION LEAGUE SPENDING ITS 2D MILLION ON BOYS

Union League club members are beginning to spend their second million dollars in character building work among boys in Chicago's underprivileged districts. And the members believe it will be as good an investment as the first million, according to Elliott Donnelley, president of the Union League Foundation for Boys' Clubs.

Donnelley reported yesterday that the club has spent $1,080,000 in the last 20 years on its boys' clubs at 19th and Leavitt streets and at 524 Wolcott street. The advantages the Union League funds provide are going to a second generation of boys, as many of the present boys' club members are sons of boys who were helped in the early days.

Averaging more than 1,000,000 net paid, Chicago Tribune total daily circulation last month registered a gain of more than 141,000 over December, 1938. Think of the additional power which this increase gives to your advertising—and then consider that this gain of 141,000 is on top of a gain of 36,000 in December, 1938, plus a gain of 37,000 in December, 1937.

HERE is progress that will interest every manufacturer out to get more sales in the Chicago market. Think what this increase in circulation can mean to you in terms of more units sold and faster turnover. And then remember that it is a plus added to the huge total which year after year has built for the Tribune its reputation as the most productive advertising medium in Chicago.

Increasing circulation means decreasing milline cost. Frogskin Styles the Smart New Beige Footgear

BY REA SEEGER.

Come spring and every pond and puddle boasts the bullfrog choristers! If there seems to be a decided lack of volume blame the shoemakers. For the newest footgear in town is the rather startling display of oxfords, tie pumps, and sandals covered with the skin of former bass singing frogs.

No tadpole will escape from now on, since these beauties have taken the fashion spotlight. The color alone of the specially processed skins justifies the shopping excitement, for it's a real beige, dark, handsome, and wearable with any and every color.

The texture is different and interesting, it looks like blistered kidskin with the blisters under control. Not the rugged, crusty formation of alligator, but smart, casual puffings such as those of seersucker cotton.

This frogskin footgear is perfect with street tweeds, with wool suits of mixed pattern and with the rough, pebbly textured crepes in silk and novelty weaves. Good, flattering biege shades that accent wool and silk ensembles have been difficult to find, but here is the solution of the problem.

A lot of the newest models are combined with contrasting sections of beige lastex, ideal combines for the step-in street pump. Smart street and suit oxfords have interesting walking heels and the sandals with straps and high heels are just what you want for the newest long wool coat that companions a silk dress.

Frogskin footwear should be tremendously popular. If you squirm over the snakeskin models, dislike the heavier alligator leathers, this smoother, distinctively blistered and flattering beige stuff has everything! Belts and matching bag of the same new leather complete the accessories for any of the sandals, pumps, and tie pumps.

Church League Hears 1939 Work Reviewed Today

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph Wakefield, president of the Chicago Church federation, will make his annual report today on the work of the federation, which coordinates activities of 1,060 local churches of a score of denominations. The meeting, which will be the 32d annual one, will be held in the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street.

The Rev. Ralph Wakefield.

Dr. Wakefield's report will stress the federation's part in bringing first hand accounts of discussions and findings of world meetings of churchmen in Madras, India, and in Amsterdam, the Netherlands, and the commemoration of the silver jubilee of the women's department of the federation.

Social service activities conducted by the federation will be reported as forming the basis for lecture courses on social problems. Hundreds of pastors and social workers from the churches heard series discussions of "The Therapeutic or Healing Value of Religion" and "The Minister and Social Worker Serving the Person in Need."

Nearly three thousand persons will be reported as registering in 297 schools of Christian living.

Dr. Wakefield will be nominated to head the federation for the second one year term. Walter R. Mee will be renominated executive secretary for the 22d year.

Cliff Dwellers' Tea.

Vita Vronsky, in a dark dress and hat adorned with white wings, and Victor Babin were among the guests at the Cliff Dwellers' tea in honor of Nathan Milstein at the Cliff Dwellers after the Chicago Symphony concert Friday afternoon. They were in town on their way to Winnipeg on a concert tour. The brilliant young Russian concert pianists recently played in Fayetteville, Ark., and motored over to Van Buren, home of Bob Burns. They bought a couple of postcards and addressed one to Bing Crosby and one to Burns.

"O, you know our leading citizen?" reverently asked the girl who sold them the cards.

When they said they did she added, "You're musicians? O, I know. You must be going to play for Tommy Dorsey on Bob Burns' hour." The Babins—Miss Vronsky is Mrs. Babin—enjoy telling the story.

The Cliff Dwellers is one of the famous organizations in the city that believes in tradition—not change. The chess board standing on a table ready for playing, oil portraits of members in the entrance—Hamlin Garland, Ralph Clarkson, Henry Kitchell Webster, Carter Harrison, Karleton Hackett, the late beloved Tom Talmadge, and others; the art exhibit of members' work at the end of the main lounge, all help create the atmosphere. Carter Harrison has sat at the same table for some 30 years. So has Dr. Frederick Stock. He brought Nathan Milstein there for luncheon Saturday and they sat talking music over their meal. Every Tuesday for a quarter of a century there has been a huge cold salmon on the buffet table surrounded by cold meats and delicacies, and a hot wagon with spareribs and similar sturdy fare. Matthews, the club steward, has been in charge for 30 years, and was a bus boy before that. The tea after the Friday concerts is another of the club's traditions. Present president of the Cliff Dwellers is Ralph Fletcher Seymour.

Gladys Brantley Will Be Watson Newhall's Bride

BY JUDITH CASS.

A PARTY the Talcott Griswolds gave at home in Winnetka on Saturday afternoon turned out to be especially gay, for at it the news was told that one of Chicago's popular young bachelors, Watson Newhall, and Miss Gladys Brantley are to be married.

The engagement of Mr. Newhall and Miss Brantley was announced a few weeks ago by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brantley of Kite, Ga. Mr. Newhall's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Newhall, entertained for their son and his fiancée when they visited the Newhall home in Palm Beach recently. The Chicago friends of Mr. Newhall and Miss Brantley, who has been living here, were not told of the romance until Saturday, however.

Miss Brantley, who has done specialized work in nursing and anasthesia, is a licensed airplane pilot, as is Mr. Newhall. They both spend many hours in the air.

Mr. Newhall was educated at the Shattuck school in Faribault, Minn., of which his father was the headmaster for 20 years and a master before that for 25 years. Young Mr. Newhall received a degree in engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a graduate degree in finance at Northwestern university. The wedding will take place in May.

Lucille Wright Engaged to Norman McClave Jr.

Several other engagement announcements make interesting news this morning. At a family dinner at home in Bannockburn on Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Harry Terry Wright announced the engagement of their daughter, Lucille, to Norman McClave Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman McClave of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Miss Wright was graduated from Miss Choate's school in Boston and from Smith college, in the class of 1937. Mr. McClave was graduated from the Hill school and from Princeton university, class of 1934. He was a member of the Quadrangle club at Princeton.

The wedding will take place in the early summer, and Mr. McClave and his bride will live here. Mr. McClave now is sharing a house in Glencoe with several other bachelors.

Shirley Adams to Wed Detroiter this Summer.

From Sewickley, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Benning Adams, who formerly lived in Chicago, have sent word of the engagement of their daughter, Shirley, to Charles Town Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland Barker Alexander of Detroit, Mich.

Miss Adams made her debut at the Bachelors' cotillion in Baltimore in 1937 and is a member of the Pittsburgh Junior league. She attended the Carnegie Institute of Technology and the University of Chicago.

Mr. Alexander is a graduate of Andover and of Yale university. The wedding will take place this summer.

Barbara Anne Crowe Engaged to Ohioan.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Allan Crowe of Kenilworth are announcing that their daughter, Barbara Anne, is going to marry Frederick Loomis Aydelotte, son of Wade V. Aydelotte of Fairlawn, O. Miss Crowe is a graduate of Briarcliff Junior college at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., and the National College of Education in Evanston. She now is a member of the faculty of Old Trail school in Akron, O.

Mr. Aydelotte attended the Wassookeag school in Dexter, Me. He is in business in Akron. He and Miss Crowe plan to be married in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil C. Hurley of River Forest announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Richard E. Joyce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Joyce of 1410 Thome avenue. Miss Hurley is a graduate of St. Mary of the Woods in Indiana and Mr. Joyce of Loyola university.

Miss Jane Fay of Joliet, one of a trainload of winter sports enthusiasts who journeyed to LaCrosse, Wis., yesterday for a day of thrills, lost her balance for a moment.

Trainload of Chicago Skiers Zip Around La Crosse Bowl

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 28 [Special].—There is nobody so little affected by lack of sleep, snow, cold, delay, and bruises as an enthusiastic skier. More than 100 of these hardy sportsmen arose before dawn today to board Chicago's first snow train of this or any other season.

The special six car train left the Union station at 7:15 a. m. and steamed into La Crosse, Wis., a half hour late. The buses that had been chartered to take the skiers to the snow bowl for a day of sport were too heavy to cross a wooden bridge en route, so the sports lovers hiked. When the merry group reached its destination, the ski tow wasn't running. It was luncheon time. Shortly, however, the rope tow was running and the slopes, both gentle and steep, were covered with flying figures.

Montgomery Orr flashed by in a pale blue jacket. His wife followed more cautiously, "snow plowing" her way down.

Miss Barbara Hobart's bright red jacket made it easy to follow her downward progress, while waiting one's turn at the foot of the tow. Miss Hobart's graceful stem turns and Christianas were the envy of the William W. Millers, who never before had worn skis.

Mr. Miller came down the slopes with greater success than some of the many other novices. Mr. Miller explained his technique before a roaring fire in the warming house, where hot soup and sandwiches were served.

"When I see I'm about to fall, I hold myself up with a snow plow on one side and a telemark on the other," he told his admirers.

"I can't telemark from another," punned Mrs. Miller.

Half way up the tow was about as far as most skiers went. However, some of the better skiers—Lawrence Denman, Jack and Bob Wallace, Stewart Boal, and Richard Burke among them—schussed [glided] all the way down from the top in less time than the minute or two it took the tow to carry them up.

The first casualty of the afternoon was Mrs. John B. Wing's fracturing an ankle. The Wings, the Lee Jacksons, the Jack Carsons, and the Charles Weeds, who live in Highland Park, as well as the Orrs, Mr. Burke and Mr. Denman, who live in Wayne, boarded the train at Aurora.

An accordionist in Alpine costume furnished music for songs and dancing. The junior Francis G. Fabians and the Prescott Millers brought playing cards along and bridge games sprang up all along the coach that was occupied by members of the Snow Chase club.

Two other coaches carried others and some skating enthusiasts, who went over to Pettibone park to watch the finals of the thrilling national speed skating championships.

The warming hut at the snow bowl was enlarged during the summer, and a new station has been built to the east of La Crosse, nearer the snow playground. The station was opened on Saturday, and anything more unlike a railroad station could not be imagined. The waiting room has a woodburning fireplace at one end, under a mural depicting winter sports. The furnishings are modern and arranged as if in a private home. The tables were laden with flowers.

This warm and inviting interior welcomed the skiers back from the snow bowl and furnished a cozy refuge until the special train started back to Chicago. It was with regret that every one piled his skis in the baggage car and climbed aboard to dine and sing and dance away the four and a half hour ride home.

Capacity House Hears Marian Anderson Sing

BY CECIL SMITH.

Capacity audiences are no novelty to Marian Anderson, but the Auditorium theater has never looked quite so full at any of her previous recitals as it did yesterday afternoon. Extra chairs were placed in the orchestra pit in such numbers that those at the remote ends of the pit had to be set at right angles to the stage in order to command a view of the singer. Since the "Hot Mikado" settings were in place behind some only partly concealed flats, the stage could not be used for a further overflow audience. Because many were unable to obtain seats for this Northwestern university subscription event, Miss Anderson will sing a return recital in the Auditorium theater on April 21.

Once again Miss Anderson impressed her audience with the deep seriousness with which she approaches her artistic task. Her program followed a familiar pattern—three initial Handel arias, a group of Schubert lieder, a 19th century operatic aria [this time the card scene from Bizet's "Carmen"]—a miscellaneous group including two compositions by her accompanist, Kosti Vehanen, and a closing series of Negro spirituals.

Whatever the reason may have been, Miss Anderson was slow in reaching her stride yesterday. The Handel arias and three Schubert songs passed by rather lifelessly before any particular spark of communication became evident. In Schubert's little comic song, "Die Männer sind mechant" [translated "Men Are All the Same" in the program], her style brightened and her singing remained interesting from this point forward.

I suspect that the curious aloofness of her early songs was the result of subtle vocal difficulties. In the last two seasons she has sought to develop greater intensity and concentration in her upper voice, and she has now completed this process effectively. This new emphasis upon the higher part of her voice has, however, left the lower range less voluminous and less solid, and a noticeable tremolo makes her lower and middle tones flicker and at times drop below pitch.

When her voice is fully warmed up, this defect is less evident, tho it is still there. No doubt this is only a transitional period in her vocal development, and she will regain the elemental simplicity of her low voice.

Most of the audience would not, I am sure, agree in placing so much emphasis upon so purely technical a matter. They were, rightfully, deeply moved by the sincerity of her musical intentions and the noble majesty of her tone. Perhaps the highest point of the recital was her vividly colored performance of Sodero's "Amuri, Amuri," the song of an Italian teamster.

Recital Proves Boy Pianist of 13 a Genius, Says Critic

BY EDWARD BARRY.

In an afternoon recital at Orchestra hall yesterday Julius Katchen, 13 year old New Jersey pianist, gave an astounding display of a musical talent which amounts to genius.

Yes, this is the Julius Katchen who was so tepidly reviewed earlier this month on the occasion of his Chicago debut with the Civic orchestra. Either Julius or I had an off day that day. Probably Julius.

The most amazing thing about yesterday's performance was not its mechanical excellence [almost anybody can acquire a certain keyboard facility] and not its wealth of nuance [almost anybody can learn to stop and start, linger and hurry, whisper and shout]. The incredible thing was that young Master Katchen's musical speech was direct, living, and overwhelmingly eloquent. Dexterity and nuance he used not for their own sakes, but simply to communicate to his audience what he found in the music.

In short, the things that can be taught he has been competently taught. The things that cannot be taught he knows anyway.

In a program of Bach, Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin, and Liszt he played in a commanding, flexible, unhurried, intelligible manner. He laughs at technical difficulties. Even in such things as the Schumann symphonic etudes, where most young pianists [and old ones, too] are apt to become tentative and careful, he confidently achieved a magnificent sonority and a broad, bravura sweep.

Such claims are fantastic, incredible, says the antiprodigy faction. They are fantastic and incredible, certainly, but nature can still surprise us—and she has in Julius Katchen.

And were there no faults to be found in the playing of this wonder child? Of course there were—but none of any importance. The boy's pianissimo lacks a certain refinement, his balance between the hands is often imperfect. Once in a while he just pounds the piano in youthful glee. In the Liszt rhapsody was at least one fraudulent, manufactured rubato. And there were one or two memory slips—altho the one in the rhapsody was certainly covered up skilfully.

600 Dine at $25 Each to Expand Charity at Mount Sinai Hospital

More than 600 persons attended the 20th anniversary $25 a plate dinner of Mount Sinai hospital last night at the Drake hotel. The feature of the program was a pageant showing the development of the hospital over the two decades. The pageant was directed by Mrs. Abbie Shoen.

From small beginnings at 2750 15th place, Mount Sinai was described in the pageant as having attained eminence in the hospital and clinical fields with widely recognized medical and surgical staffs.

The proceeds of the dinner will contribute to the expansion of the charitable work of the hospital. This was announced by Morris Kurtzon, president of the hospital. Mrs. Edwin Romberg, 1640 East 50th street, was chairman of the dinner.

The Girl in the Shadows

By Roy Vickers

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage, Cynthia Brentiford is sentenced to prison. An innocent scapegoat of the crook, Rory Clarke, she hides her plight from her fiancé, Michael Alloway. At Honebyker, Cynthia's childhood playmate, Bessie Stockley, is a prison wardress. Bessie manages to change places with Cynthia and let Cynthia have her two weeks' leave of absence to marry Michael. Then Cynthia persuades Michael to go back to his job in Malta alone. She goes back to prison. There she discovers she is going to have a baby and manages to break prison. Explaining her silence as a lapse of memory, she goes to stay with Michael's mother and sister Marion at Cloutleigh. Rory Clarke trails her there and blackmails her. Thru a phone call, Scotland Yard connects Cynthia with Rory Clarke. Detective Stevens comes down to Cloutleigh. Marion, pretending to be young Mrs. Alloway to the detective, learns enough to arouse her suspicions. Planning to fly to Malta with Gen. Sir William Merrowbridge, Cynthia is arrested at the airport and taken to Scotland Yard for questioning.

INSTALLMENT XIX.
CAN FINGERPRINTS LIE?

Rason had followed the other man out of the room and the general and Cynthia were left to their thoughts—for nearly an hour.

From time to time the general made a laborious remark about the aeroplanes that they might catch and the time he might arrive at the conference and she at Malta.

At last Rason returned and escorted them to the chief superintendent's room.

The chief superintendent rose from his desk as they entered. He spoke to the general but ignored Cynthia.

"Good morning, Sir William," said the chief. "This is a very unpleasant situation and I—"

"I profoundly agree with that remark, sir," said the general.

Deliberately, Cynthia seated herself. In the last hour she had grappled one conviction firmly in her mind—that if she thought of herself solely as Mrs. Michael Alloway somehow the danger would pass.

"The fingerprints were taken in your presence, Sir William," the chief superintendent was saying. "Here is the report from records. This young lady's prints are identical with those of the convict Clara Brown."

"So much the worse for the fingerprint system!" snorted the general. "A lot of mess—and now the thing has given the wrong answer."

"The mathematical chances of any two sets of fingerprints being the same are one in many millions, Sir William."

"Mathematical chances!" bellowed Sir William. "What about the fellow who won first prize in the Paris lottery three times running, eh? You tell me that my god-son's wife is an escaped convict and then want to talk to me about mathematical chances!"

The chief was prepared for something like this.

"Mrs. Alloway—" he looked straight at her for the first time— "will you be good enough to face—this way?"

Cynthia shrugged her shoulders and turned in her chair.

Thru a door on the right appeared "The Walters"! The wardress looked straight into Cynthia's face, then with interest at her furs, and back again into her eyes.

"Do you recognize this lady?" asked the chief.

"Yes, sir."

"Who is she?"

"Number sixty-three, Clara Brown, sir."

"Thank you. Go out that way, please." He indicated the door on the left.

The general gave an explosive snort.

"The woman, Sir William," said the chief, "is a wardress at Honebyker prison, from which the convict escaped last week. But I haven't finished yet."

A moment later, thru the door on the right, appeared the lady governor.

Cynthia looked at her, looked thru her. The chief asked the same question he had asked "The Walters" and received the same answer, after which the lady governor added:

"I am sorry you have done this, Brown, because it means you will be longer in prison and under stricter discipline."

"Really—!" protested Cynthia.

"That is a grossly improper remark, madam," fumed the general.

The lady governor spoke to the chief.

"I am sure I am not making a mistake," she said. "This is the woman who was sent to me from the Central Criminal court under the name of Brown on August the fifth last."

"What!" shouted the general. "Kindly repeat the date, madam, for I am under the impression that my ears are deceiving me."

"August the fifth last." It was the chief who answered.

The next moment every one, including Cynthia, was startled by a roar of Homeric laughter from the general. He patted her on the shoulder while he continued to laugh.

"Fingerprints! Mathematical chances! Ho, ho, ho! What about the fellow who won the Paris sweepstakes three times, eh? And I suppose this lady—" he indicated the lady governor—"and the other one, increase the mathematical chances into mathematical billions?"

"I confess I don't quite follow you, general," said the chief superintendent.

The general had had a successful career but it may be doubted whether he had ever enjoyed himself as much as he was enjoying himself at this moment.

"You will pardon me, sir, and you, madam," he said with boundless good humor, "but a minute ago all this fingerprint nonsense and the rest of it was beginning to make things very uncomfortable for Mrs. Alloway."

He turned to Cynthia and asked formally:

"Mrs. Alloway, at what date were you and your husband married?"

"Saturday, August the 23d," said Cynthia. "At St. Seiriol's church by the Reverend George Rennington." She was trembling.

The general beamed on the chief.

"Will you kindly take a note of that, sir? And you, madam. I think you said that your convict was brought to your prison on August the fifth and that she escaped last week. I know young George Rennington quite well. If you will allow me I will ring him up and ask him to come here."

Cynthia's trembling stopped. It was true—she was saved! Of course the date saved her! O, thank heaven she had admitted nothing when disaster seemed so certain!

"And we spent the next fortnight at the Parnassus hotel," she added faintly. Then, gaining strength as she proceeded—"It's just around the corner, you can easily get lots of witnesses. There's the head waiter and the two waiters who actually looked after us. Two chambermaids—and I had a lot to do with the reception office and I'm sure at least three of the girls there will remember me. O—and Doctor Treadgrove came to attend me there, the day before my husband left for Malta. It was he who told me I must not make the journey."

The lady governor looked helplessly at the chief. He remained silent.

"Half a minute!" chortled the general. "Lets see how the mathematical chances stand now. I'll cover your fingerprints and the two witnesses with a clergyman of the Established church, a doctor, and a head waiter. And I'll swamp you with the other witnesses."

Cynthia began to laugh. Rather hysterical laughter.

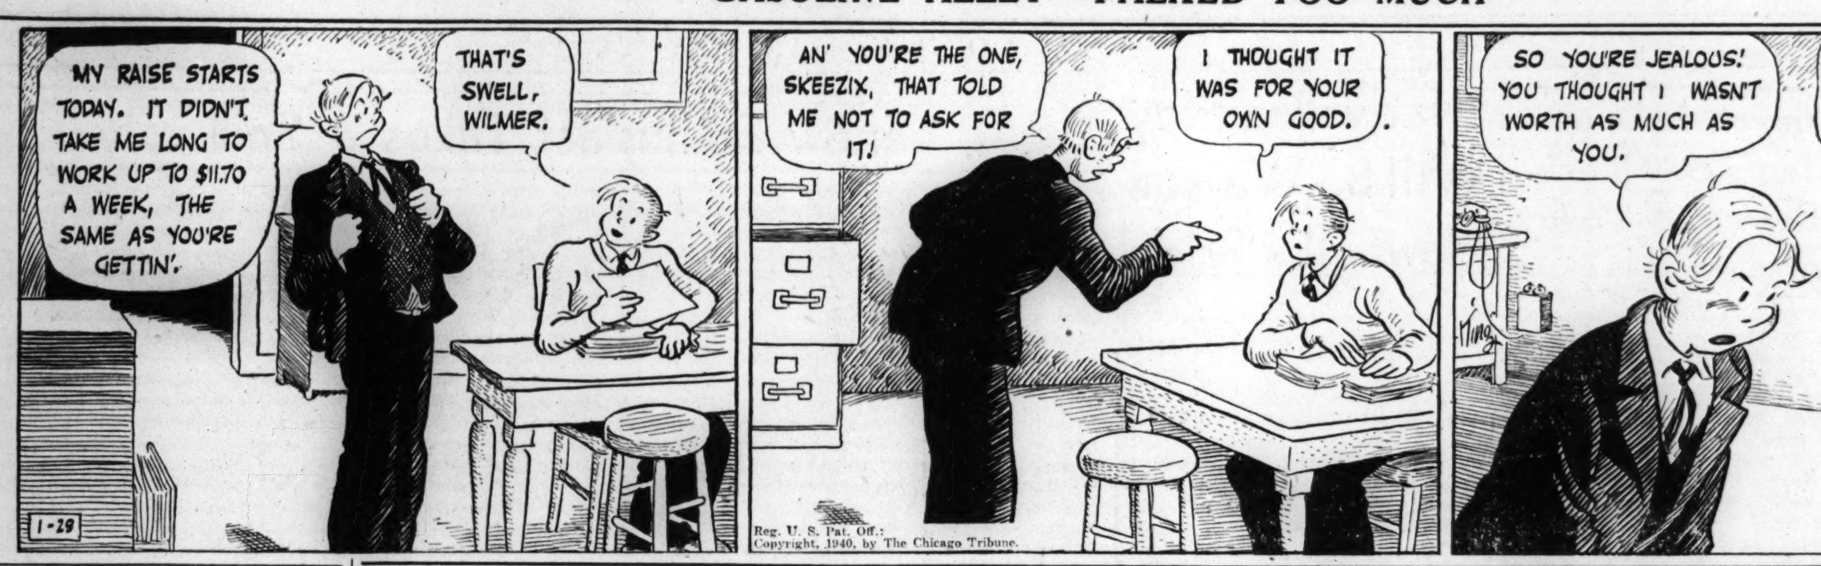

"And there's my mother and sister-in-law, who were present at the ceremony—but they're in Devonshire and we don't want to trouble them if we can help it. There's the porter at my flat. There's everybody I've spoken to for the last three months—but I don't have to produce the lot, do I?"

"Er—we will begin with the clergyman and a couple of witnesses from the hotel," said the chief.

With a huge effort Cynthia conquered her hysteria of relief. Mrs. Michael Alloway, well dressed, secure in the present and happy in the future, must feel no more than an impatient annoyance.

GASOLINE ALLEY—TALKED TOO MUCH

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Misplaced Interest

Talking About 'Olden Days' Is Unyouthful

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

There are certain things that "date" a woman which she ought to avoid assiduously unless she wants to be identified with the old guard. Even then they aren't appealing, charming, or even pleasant.

An obvious one is using slang phrases of world war vintage.

Another is referring to the "good old days." You aren't really sure down in your heart that they were such good old days. You just like to speak of them nostalgically. Recalling old times isn't any crime or vice, you understand, but harking back to them as if life were easier and smoother and sweeter merely indicates that you aren't up to today's program.

Besides, you know as well as any one else that the spirit of youth is never engaged in looking back, and there's nothing to be gained. The old dead days are beyond recall, but the new ones are here waiting to offer what you bring to them.

Sticking to the same coiffure style for decades or years without granting that something more modern might be tried, at least, is a way of dating one's self.

But for really dating one's self we think the unmistakable sign is seen in the woman who "paints" her face instead of making it up cleverly. There are women who rub on the high toned cheek discs and use powder that is too light and lipstick that isn't the right shade for them at all. This type of makeup—the painting kind, that is—makes one look years older because of the contrast in skin pigment which changes with the years and the old type coloring.

16th Hoosier Salon To Be Opened Today in Loop Galleries

The 16th annual Hoosier salon opens today in the Marshall Field & Co. galleries and continues thru Feb. 10. Among the artists represented are Wayman Adams, Walt Louderback of Santa Fe, N. M., whose "Morning Concert, Aix Les Thermes, France," won the $500 John C. Shaffer prize for the most outstanding oil, and Lily Fry Fisher, Terrace Park, O.; Glen Mitchell, Minneapolis, Minn.; Elton Krafft, Milwaukee, and Frances Johnson Moody, Abingdon, Ill., who also won prizes in oil, water color, or sculpture.

* THRU THE LOOKING GLASS *

In the east, and to a lesser degree here, exercise salons are opening at such a rate they're hard to count. The reason? It's become the fashionable thing to exercise systematically.

But for once a fashion is not flighty. The women who have learned the value of exercise are its most earnest advocates. They tell their friends about it. More often than not they don't have to tell them. Improved posture, silhouette, and general sense of well being are so obvious that friends notice the change.

Right now the silhouette emphasizes the slim waist and the flat diaphragm. The "elongated torso" is the term some fashion writer thought up. It does convey the idea of the long, slim center line that's so important.

That's a silhouette you won't achieve by wishing. You'll have to work for it, and you'll feel lots better for having done so. Posture correction will be automatic with the exercises, and the hip and bust lines will improve as the waistline changes are effected.

One of the best features of this new vogue for corrective exercise is that the demand has created a supply, and individual lessons and courses are less expensive now than they have been in years past.

If there's a spring suit in the offing, now's the time to do something about the spring silhouette. Include silhouette improvement in your beauty budget and then do your shopping for a course you can afford.

Despite the wealth of new materials being developed, plaster holds its time honored position in interior construction. It can be resurfaced again and again and patched for any minor ills.

Often a home owner refrains from having his plaster patched because he thinks it will make a sad mess. But the modern plasterer works efficiently and it probably wouldn't take long to get a new, smooth, sealed finish for those walls which may have developed small cracks or large bulges.

There are many exciting new finishes for plastered walls. You can have your final plaster coat a colored coat.

Cheese cakes, pies, and tortes aren't popular with everybody, but to "them as likes 'em" they are "tops" in desserts. Cottage cheese is the usual chief ingredient, but cream cheese desserts of this kind are just as delectable.

Graham cracker crusts, bread crumbs or pastry crusts are suitable, and the filling may be flavored with vanilla or lemon. Sometimes nuts or currants are added to cheese cake recipes.

There should be a cheese dessert to please every cheese dessert lover in this group.

Cottage Cheese Torte.

½ cup sweet butter
6 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
2 cups cottage cheese, sieved.
½ cup almonds, chopped
1 teaspoon flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
Graham cracker, bread or zweiback crumbs

Cream butter with egg yolks and sugar until the mixture is very light. Add remaining ingredients, folding in stiffly beaten egg whites last. Grease a torte pan generously and sprinkle finely crushed crumbs over the bottom. Pour in the filling, sprinkle a few more crumbs over the top, and bake at 350 degrees, moderate oven, until the torte is firm in the middle, about an hour.

Cream Cheese Cake.

¾ package zweiback, crushed fine
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons sugar
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 pound cream cheese, or 5½ packages.
2 teaspoon vanilla
4 eggs, separated
1 cup cream

Blend zweiback crumbs with butter and the 2 tablespoons sugar. Mix the half cup sugar with flour, salt, and cream cheese. Add vanilla and beaten egg yolks. Mix well. Add cream, mix well, and fold in beaten egg whites. Grease 9 inch spring form and press crumb mixture over the bottom of it. Pour cheese filling over the crumbs and bake at 325 degrees for about 1 hour and fifteen minutes, or until firm in the center.

Cottage Cheese Cake.

[7 Inch Square Loaf.]

BASE:
½ cup soft butter
6 tablespoons sugar
1 egg, beaten
½ tablespoon lemon juice
1½ cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder

FILLING:
2½ cups cottage cheese, strained
1 egg, beaten
½ cup flour
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup buttermilk
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons currants [may be omitted]

Place all ingredients for base in a mixing bowl in order given and blend well, about 60 strokes, to make a soft dough. Spread about two-thirds of this dough in a greased cake pan. Combine filling ingredients and beat until smooth. Pour over the dough. Roll remaining third of dough on a floured board, cut into strips, and place them lattice fashion over the filling. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for an hour.

Cottage Cheese Pie.

1 cup sugar
3 eggs, beaten
2 cups riced cottage cheese
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Grated rind of 1 lemon
Pastry for one crust

Cream sugar and butter together thoroly. Add eggs, beating well. Add cottage cheese mixed with cornstarch and grated lemon rind. Beat until smooth and pour over pastry in a pie plate. Bake at 425 degrees for 10 minutes, reduce heat to 325 degrees and bake half an hour or more longer. Serve cold with whipped cream.

"Bunny" Is Infant Companion

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A soft cuddly, pink and white "bunny" and a tiny pink and white baby are an irresistible team. The crocheted bunny may be made from pink pompadour wool in a comparatively short time. He is stuffed with kapok, with an engaging blue ribbon tied at his neck. His dancing blue eyes indicate he is happy and ready for play.

For instructions in crocheting the "cuddle bunny," No. X-117, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Among the gifts of the good bridge player is the power of abstraction. Especially when playing a hand at a trump contract is this power necessary. It frequently happens that the declarer's hand must be used as the dummy and that the dummy be made the master hand. Players who have not learned to consider the 26 cards in their own hand and dummy as a unit are likely to be at a loss when a hand such as today's occurs.

South, dealer.

NORTH
♥ K 3
♦ A 10 7 6
♣ Q 10 6 4

WEST

EAST

♦ Q 9 4
♣ J 9 7 2

SOUTH
♠ Q 10 7 3
♥ A 7 6 5
♣ A K 5 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	1 heart	3 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	4 spades	Pass
5 clubs	Pass	6 clubs	Pass
Pass	Pass

The manner of arriving at the final contract was, perhaps, not of the best, but the final contract was a reasonable one for the combined hands. With a normal distribution of the adverse cards a grand slam is quite likely, but even a small slam required careful play, since the trump suit failed to break.

West led the queen of hearts and dummy won with the king, and at once led another heart, which South took with his ace. There was a chance that this would be ruffed by East, but then South still would have his ace and the ruff hardly could do much harm at that stage.

In order to understand the rest of the play it is necessary only to imagine that North is declarer. On winning the second heart trick, South laid down the ace and king of trumps, West discarding a diamond on the second round.

At this point declarer can mark East with an original holding of two hearts and four trumps, in which case the rest of the hand probably was split 4-3. The ace of diamonds was cashed, therefore, and a low diamond ruffed by South. The king of spades was followed by another diamond ruff and the ace and a low spade followed.

When East followed, declarer did not care who had the jack of spades. If West, the jack would fall; if East, the ten of trumps could be made by ruffing the fourth spade. He won with the queen of spades, therefore, and when West showed out, continued with a fourth spade, ruffing with dummy's ten, and subsequently making the queen of trumps for the 12th trick.

Good Morning!

Here's a prize winning French film, well worth the patronage of those who love a thoughtful story, artistically presented.

It's sad—no doubt about that—a tale of closing hours and dependence for people who have lived gayly and fully in the glow of footlights and amid the clatter of applause. . . . Elderly stage folk who have spoken their last lines in public are completing their days in an institution maintained by private charity and, you are to learn, just about on its last legs. This the inmates do not know.

The outstanding personalities are a one time matinée idol—a sort of perpetual Don Juan—who, even as a dependent, has a strange charm which could drive a girl to suicide; a malicious, homely pathetic clown of a fellow, who, yearning all his life to be a great actor, never has risen above the station of great actors' understudy: a sad and gentle chap whose wife has left him for the Don Juan, and a devoted couple who, tho great-grandparents, never have married. . . . They have seen, they explain, so much unhappiness among married folks that they've been afraid to risk a ceremony.

Shrewd knowledge of human nature is displayed in the working out of the main theme, sprigged with its vivid, contributory veinings.

Convincing is the work of all the players. The film is intensely atmospheric and most effectively costumed and staged. It is a deeply satisfying piece because its characters are all so real.

French dialog, English titles.

A Child's Irritating Behavior of Today Is Forgotten Tomorrow

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

In March he said "No—no!" to every request you made. Just as you were desperate in the merry month of May, he dropped that, only to embarrass you by pulling toys from his young guests or slapping them.

All this you forgot several years later when he horrified you with a "swear-word." This in turn was relegated to limbo in your memory when at 11 soap and water were anathema to him, and you tore your hair over his dawdling. I hope you've learned that many things which filled you with despair vanished only to give place to another [and perhaps equally disturbing] kind of behavior.

But in case you haven't been many years a mother, I hope I won't discourage you by telling you that you must make up your mind to put up with certain behavior at different stages in your child's life.

About all we can do at those times is to observe, to study, to try to understand, to have real patience, and to be loyal and loving to our children. In doing this we can accomplish a great deal, but not, remember, an ideal of perfection.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 28.—Sonja Henie's big heart-throb in New York has been George Windsor, the Arthur Murray dance instructor. They met originally on a Normandie cruise to South America. . . . Judy Garland's pash is Jimmy Castcarte, of Ray Noble's swell crew. . . . Nancy Kelly is being beau-ed by Irving Cummings, Jr. . . . Hank Greenberg, Detroit slugger, is trying to get to first base with Betty Allen, one of the eyefuls in "Du Barry Was a Lady." . . . Hal Roach Jr. and Dolly Hunt are looking up a preacher. . . . Joan Blondell's kid sister, Gloria, has returned to Hollywood and Cubby Broccoli. . . . In her next picture, Marlene Dietrich will warble some of Cole Porter's tunes. It won't go to the cameras before the spring.

Chaplin's new film has a pie-throwing sequence in it, with Benito Mussolini [Jack Oakie] as the pie tosser, and a newspaper man as the target. . . . Young Gloria Vanderbilt may upset her mother's plans by eloping! . . . M-G-M's Sam Katz will ask Ilona Massey to marry him. . . . Greer Garson and Benny Thau, one of the Metro bosses, are making it a habit. . . . If the religious differences can be reconciled, Will Rogers' daughter, Mary, will become Mrs. Edmund Grainger.

Harry Brandt of the independent theater owners answers the Edward Arnold excerpt in this column with a four page night letter and I reprint excerpts: "The first sign of a fading star is reflected at the box office and, as a matter of policy, the exhibitor is going to let Hollywood know about it just as we did in our trade paper advertisment 'poison at the box office,' printed in the trade papers on May 3, 1938," says Brandt. "If the exhibitors' word goes unheeded, we'll get our story across even if we have to resort again to paid advertisments. We know stars are important, because we build them up to importance by means of our marquees, advertising, publicity, and exploitation. But when they no longer carry the public with them, and their pictures are placed in the top rental brackets only because they are highly paid, then they are box office poison. If this be treason, then theater owners have no say over their own business."

He continues: "We can present you a list of current stars who are 'box office poison,' whom we hope would take a voluntary vacation from the screen so that exhibitors would not have to play their pictures. We hope that you are correct about Garbo and Dietrich climbing back into the public's affection, for we need more money-making stars. But we think that the public is seeing their two current pictures because of curiosity aroused by Dietrich being cast as a horse-opera glamor girl, and Garbo, the great tragedienne, as a comedienne. Edward Arnold, as a star, was a flop; today, as a featured player, he is in his proper métier.

"You state that the new pictures of Miss Crawford and Mae West are headed for success. But again we must first let the box office speak. Remember that in our advertisment of May 3, 1938, nowhere in that statement was it said that the stars we named were thru, that they could not make a comeback, or that exhibitors would not be glad to play their pictures if the public wanted to see them. The point we made was that the show must go on, and that only those persons who can deliver box office pictures should make them. We think in all fairness to the theater owners that this wire should be carried in your column."

FREISINGER, MISS HORN WIN NATIONAL SKATE TITLES

LEAVE RIVALS FAR BEHIND IN POINT SCORING

2 Other Chicagoans Capture Honors.

La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 28 [Special].—Leo Freisinger of Chicago, scoring 130 points, today won the national men's title in the speed skating championships of the United States in Pettibone park, along the upper Mississippi. He dethroned Don Bartholomew of Minneapolis.

Maddy Horn of Beaver Dam, Wis., defending women's champion, shared top honors with Freisinger by again winning the title with 140 points. Miss Horn, the only girl skater who was to have represented the United States in Finland on the 1940 Olympics team, lost only one race, the 220 yards.

Freisinger Wins Four Races.

It was a decisive triumph for Freisinger, who represented the C. Y. O. He won four events—the 220, 440, 880 yards, and the mile. Three tied for second place with 60 points—Del Lamb of Milwaukee, Chuck Leighton of Minneapolis, and Bartholomew. Freisinger had a close call in the 440, just beating Bartholomew over the line. Miss Horn, who announced her retirement from competition after her victory, won the 440, 880, and mile races today. Louise Herou of Minneapolis was second. It was Miss Horn's fourth national title.

Victory came to two other Chicagoans. Lorraine [Bonnie] Lawler, also of the C. Y. O., captured the intermediate girls' title, scoring 70 points. Don Laser of Riverside, Tribune Silver Skates winner, took midget boys' honors and set a new record in the 440 yards, making it in 46 seconds and clipping 5½ seconds off the old mark.

Two National Records Fall.

Two national records were shattered today. Dick Yost of Cleveland, O., clipped 12 seconds off the intermediate boys' two mile record, being timed at 5 minutes 51.5 seconds. Eddie Dobbratz of Watertown, Wis., who scored a slam in every event in the junior boys' class, negotiated the three-quarter mile race in 2 minutes 5 seconds. Summaries:

Kokomo Sue.

Susie picked up with a gink
At a local skating rink,
And he promised he would teach her how to skate;
She believed it very wise
To take lots of exercise,
For she realized that she was overweight.

When they went out on the ice
He advanced this sage advice:
"Don't give up however jittery you feel";
With a sentimental grin
Sue went into a tail spin
And she landed almost squarely on her keel.

As he jerked her to her feet
He could hear her softly bleat:
"I'm afraid these skates you gave me are too loose."
But before he could find out
What the trouble was about,
Sue was double-parked again on her caboose.

As she sat there on the ice
He reeled off some more advice,
But by that time Sue was in her
stocking feet;
And with skates beneath her arm
Where they couldn't do much harm,
She began a most inglorious retreat.

HOSTAK AND ZALE MEET TONIGHT IN STADIUM BATTLE

Middleweight King and Gary Foe Ready.

Tony Zale, member of the 1934 intercity Golden Gloves team, and now recognized as No. 5 middleweight contender by the National Boxing association, will meet Champion Al Hostak tonight in a 10 round nontitle bout in Chicago Stadium.

Zale will be trying for his eighth consecutive victory. In case he scores an upset triumph Tony will earn a return contest in Seattle, Wash., with the title and a $10,000 purse at stake. The Gary challenger will collect 15 per cent of the net of this evening's gate receipts, which are expected to exceed $20,000. More than 10,000 spectators will contribute that amount.

This is unusual inasmuch as Hostak has beaten more prominently known boxers than Zale. One reason for such interest is the fact that the champion is making his Chicago debut. Another is that Tony can punch hard with either hand and fans are hoping the 26 year old Gary slugger will land often enough to make things interesting.

Hostak Terrific Puncher.

Zale knocked out his last five foes, but Hostak is not letting that worry him. Al is a terrific puncher in his own right. His last three opponents were sent spinning to the canvas for the count, including Solly Krieger, from whom he regained the championship. Hostak will be paid $5,000 and expenses for the encounter. However, this money is a small item. He is looking forward to a proposed light heavyweight title match with Billy Conn.

Hostak will enter the ring a 1 to 6 favorite. These odds are justified in view of the fact that Al is the division champion. In addition his record is superior to that of Zale. In 76 contests he never has suffered a knockdown. Hostak emerged victorious in 72 of these encounters, most of them by knockouts.

Zale Always Dangerous.

On the other hand, Zale has suffered knockouts three times in 48 fights. Jimmy Clark of Jamestown, N. Y., was the last fellow to knock out Zale in Marigold Gardens Feb. 21, 1937. In a rematch Tony obtained revenge by stopping Clark in the eighth round the following June 13. Zale has a record of 37 victories, 19 by knockouts.

Tony's ability to throw powerful punches will be a predominating factor, however, and as long as he remains standing he will be dangerous. In addition, Hostak's backers are worried. They are not as confident of Hostak's winning as when they arrived in Chicago three weeks ago. The champion appeared lackadaisical in his final boxing drill with Bobby Millsap on Saturday.

To increase the possibilities of an upset by Zale, Eddie Marino, manager of Hostak, revealed the champion contracted a cold while doing roadwork in Lincoln park a few days ago which almost caused further postponement of the match. Original date of the bout was Jan. 19.

Knox Meets Wacker.

There will be four supporting matches, one at eight rounds, two at six, and one at four rounds. Principals will report at the Illinois boxing commission in the Steger building at noon today to be weighed in and examined.

Buddy Knox, Dayton, O., heavyweight, will be making his first Chicago appearance in more than two years in an eight round semifinal contest against Henry Wacker. The bout first was set for 10 rounds. On the occasion of his last local start Knox scored a nine round technical knockout over Eddie Coderre in the Park casino.

Contestants and their probable weights follow:

Al Hostak, 161, vs. Tony Zale, 162 [10].
Buddy Knox, 192, vs. Henry Wacker, 193 [8].
Bob Sikes, 189, vs. Bob Ray, 190 [6].
Tony Motisi, 146½, vs. Tommy Pallatin, 147 [6].
Booker Beckwith, 168, vs. Luther Brent, 161 [4].

Busy Day on the Sports Front

Chicago's main portion of a heavy winter sports day was a hockey game between the Blackhawks and Montreal in the Stadium last night. Chicago won, 8 to 1. Bill Osmanski Does Contract Shopping Early

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Bad news is arriving early for National Football league coaches this year. Bill Osmanski signed his Chicago Bear contract yesterday.

Bill Osmanski.

Taking a recess from examinations at Northwestern dental school, Osmanski walked over to the loop, dropped in on Owner George Halas, and, with no more commotion than a milkman leaving an extra pint, asked whether it was too early to get in line. Halas makes a practice of ignoring contract matters until midsummer, but these were extenuating circumstances, and in five minutes negotiations were completed.

The contract was for one year, but beyond that Osmanski and Halas declined to discuss its terms.

Signing of Osmanski is the first and one of the more important steps in assembling the team which National league coaches predict will be the eleven to beat next fall. As far back as last November it was the consensus among coaches that the combined forces of the league might be unable to keep the Bears out of the 1940 playoff.

Osmanski, the league's leading ground gainer in 1939, figured prominently in these forecasts. Others were Sid Luckman, Bob MacLeod, and Jack Torrance, who late in the season gave promise of becoming one of the league's leading tackles. It was Torrance who opened the holes thru which Osmanski sprinted on his two longest runs of the year. Both were approximately 80 yards.

Osmanski was introduced to Chicago fans last August in The Tribune's All-Star game against the New York Giants. Altho the All-Stars were beaten, 9 to 0, on three field goals, Osmanski, a product of Holy Cross, gave a superb exhibition of ball carrying and was named the most valuable player in the All-Star lineup.

Football was in the spotlight, too. Bill De Correvont (left) was reported as ready to quit Northwestern unless there was a change in coaches, but the star ball carrier, deep in exams, said there was nothing to it. He is shown with Tug Wilson, Northwestern athletic director.

Another Fugitive from Tiger Chain Gang Gets $5,000 Bid

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 28 (AP).—Gene Markland, former Detroit high school star and one of the 91 baseball players granted free agency by Commissioner K. M. Landis, said today several teams had made bids for his services in 1940. He said the top offer was a $5,000 bonus and a contract for $400 a month. Among major league teams negotiating with him, Markland listed Washington in the American league and Boston, Brooklyn, and Chicago of the National league. Markland, 19 years old, played third base last season for Henderson of the East Texas league.

De Correvont and Waldorf Losing Faith in Radio

A radio program originating far from the campus disrupted cramming for midyear examinations at Northwestern university last night. The announcer told the world that Bill De Correvont, sophomore half back star, had given Wildcat athletic authorities a choice between getting a new coach or a new De Correvont.

The former Austin High school touchdown maker was astonished when confronted by Athletic Director Kenneth L. Wilson, several other members of the athletic association and reporters.

"It's ridiculous," he said. "I'm coming back next semester, going to Pop Vance's camp in the north woods this summer and returning to Northwestern next fall. I never heard such a silly thing. Orson Welles wasn't putting on another of his Martian broadcasts, was he?"

Vance is freshman football coach at Northwestern and runs a boys' camp in northern Minnesota.

Coach Lynn Waldorf, who returned yesterday from a vacation in Florida, was equally surprised.

"I haven't heard about it," he said. "Somebody must have made a mistake. I know of no ultimatum, trouble—or good things in the third race."

The cramming was resumed almost immediately without speculation on the possibility that there will be an addition to the coaching staff next fall. Are you listening, Mr. Wesley Fry?

Planes Scatter Feed to Hungry Duck Flocks

La Salle, Ill., Jan. 28 [Special].—Three airplanes were used today in dropping paper sacks of shelled corn to feed more than 50,000 wild ducks facing starvation in the ice locked sloughs and back waters of the Illinois river in the 25 mile section between Peru and Henry. Nearly six tons of grain were distributed.

Hundreds of the birds have died of starvation since their sources of food were cut off by the severe cold and snow of the last 10 days. The birds, most of them mallards, remained here unusually long during the abnormally warm weather of the early winter and then found themselves without food in the sudden severe cold wave. Now they are too weak to fly any distance.

More than one-third of the six tons of corn was thrown from the planes into the frozen sloughs and corn fields where the birds have been seeking food and shelter. The balance was distributed by volunteer parties of sportsmen who braved the freezing temperatures on foot.

Three La Salle flyers, Bill and Fred Vogel, and Julius Corsini, made several trips down river from the La Salle-Peru airport this morning and afternoon, dropping bags of corn where they spotted ducks.

One hundred bushels of the corn were purchased thru funds contributed by local sportsmen and farmers while the balance of 100 bushels was bought thru a fund raised Friday in a pass the hat collection at a Chicago meeting of Illinois members of Ducks Unlimited.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Blackhawks last evening conducted a special Boys' night in the course of lambasting the Montreal Canadiens, 8 to 1, in a National Hockey league game before a highly pleased clientele of 13,298 in the Chicago Stadium.

The Boys referred to are six of the young men upon whom the Hawks have founded a new youth movement. They accounted for eight goals and six assists to more than salve the smart of that 8 to 2 licking the Canadiens inflicted on them in Montreal back there on Nov. 5.

Only Toe Blake, the league's leading scorer last year, prevented Goalie Paul Goodman of the Hawks from collecting his third shutout of the year. Toe delivered in the third period while Jack Portland, newly acquired from Boston by the Hawks, was languishing in the penalty box.

Allen Starts Scoring Parade.

Now about the Hawk lads. George Allen started it with a first period goal and Phil Hergesheimer made it 2 to 0 at the end of the second. That looked comfortable enough until Les Cunningham started the rampage which was to give him two goals and three assists, as well as to earn a place in the scoring lists for his two 20 year old colleagues, Bobby Carse and Johnny Chad. Just to top it off for Manager Paul Thompson his speediest boy, Doug Bentley, clicked for the eighth goal with only 35 seconds remaining.

Until Allen delivered his first period goal the entire session was on the verge of establishing a record for unproductive diligence.

Dazel Doran was sent off for holding at 17 minutes, and had served just 78 seconds of his sentence when the Hawk forward line set up their goal, Allen batting the puck home after passes from March and Bill Carse.

Protest Goodman's Stick.

Highlight of the evening, from a nonplaying standpoint, was a special trial of Goodman in the fifth minute of the second period. The Hawk goalie was summoned to the side lines upon the Canadiens' charge that he was using a stick with a blade more than 3½ inches in depth. Paul eventually returned with the same stick with which he had started.

The Hawks continued to press the attack until nearly ten minutes had elapsed. At this point Bentley shoved the puck to Dahlstrom, who relayed it to Hergesheimer, who fired a long shot past Bourque.

Hawks Turn on Power.

The final period was five minutes old when Cunningham fell to the ice. His left eye had been flicked by Drouin's stick, but he stayed on the ice and shortly after his accident, the blond center sailed up to Bourque's shoe tops to take Earl Seibert's pass and drive the puck into the cage. Cunningham then decided to give his young associates a lift. He and Cooper maneuvered the puck until Bob Carse took it and drove it past Bourque.

Portland was penalized for checking Blake into the boards, but this did not deter the Hawks from making the score 5 to 0, Chad and Cunningham stealing the puck and the former taking Les' pass.

Canadiens Get Lone Score.

Portland was still in the jailhouse when Blake took passes from Summerhill and Goupille for a close up shot.

Cunningham then decided to inject himself into the scoring again, and made it a double order. First he batted home a long shot from Bob Carse. Then, 24 seconds later, Les passed to Chad, the latter flipping the puck past Bourque from 10 feet out.

Bentley's assiduity was rewarded in the last minute of play and the rookies' big night was climaxed at 19:25 when little Doug blasted the disc thru Bourque.

SO M'COY WILL TAKE THE $50,000 TODAY—AND SIGN

Even That Offer from A's May Be Topped.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 28 (AP).—A dollar has always been just one buck to Benny McCoy, but now they're going to start stacking up for him in a big way. McCoy is expected to come to an agreement with a major league club tomorrow which may mean as much as $50,000 to him in one bunch.

Benny McCoy.

Upon midnight tonight McCoy's free agency, as recently declared by Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, takes formal effect. Tomorrow the sturdy second baseman will select which bid he deems best.

McKechnie, Mack on Scene.

Tonight Bill McKechnie, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, emerged from a consultation with McCoy,

"I have talked with the boy and we'll have another talk tomorrow," McKechnie said.

Earl Mack, representing the Philadelphia Athletics, was in town, too, but Larry MacPhail of the Brooklyn Dodgers failed to appear. He had canceled an airplane reservation. His reason was unexplained here.

The Scotch-Irish lad, reared in modest circumstances and in his 23 years never in position to be free with his cash, virtually walked into a fortune when Landis ordered him away from the Detroit Tigers.

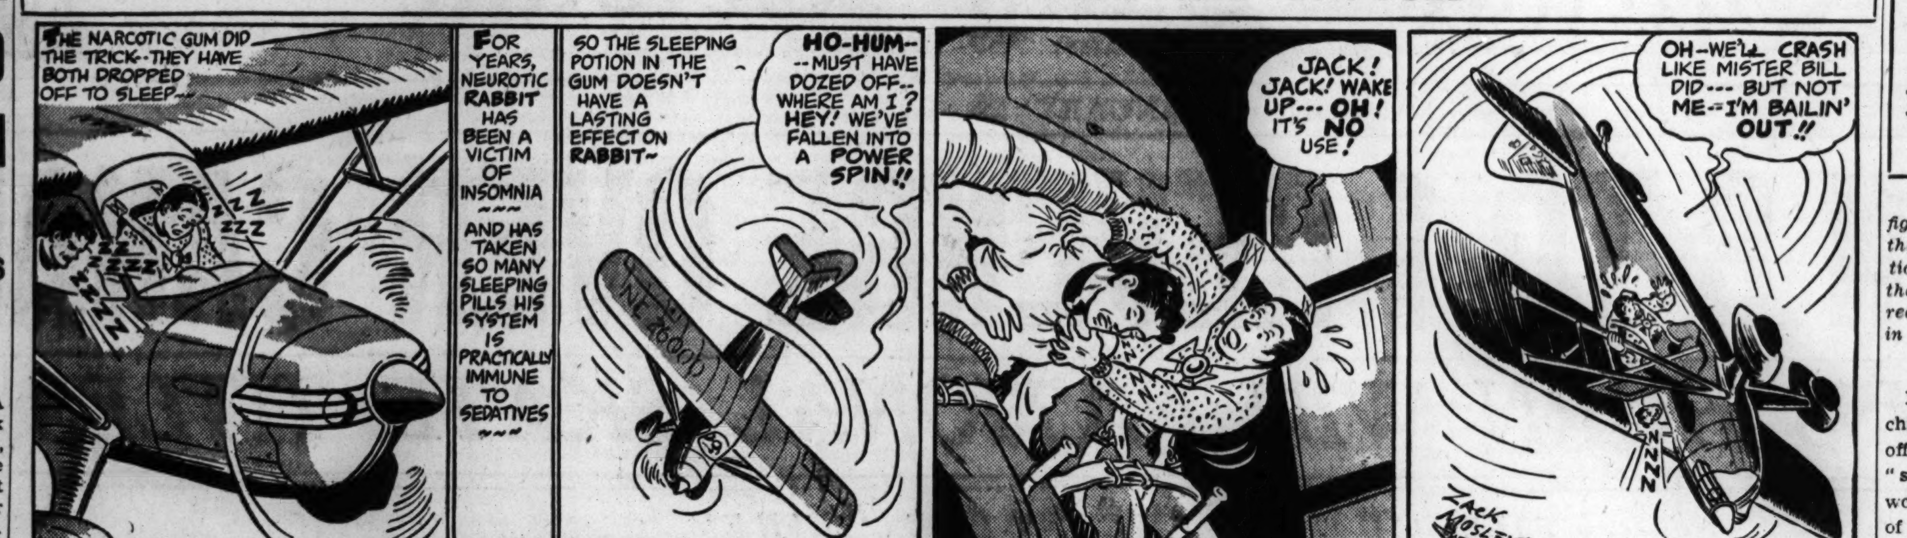

Clubs Battle for Benny.

Landis, ruling Detroit had violated baseball laws in its farm deals involving McCoy, started a bidding race by major league clubs when he named him a free agent.

The reported top offer is a $40,000 bonus and a $10,000 yearly salary contract from the Philadelphia Athletics. This was said to have been made McCoy after Pittsburgh reputedly offered him a $35,000 bonus.

McCoy, in organized baseball since he was 16 years old and before he finished high school, lives with his mother, Mrs. Winifred McCoy, 61, and two brothers and a sister in a modest Grandville, Mich., home. His income goes to the family. His father, Elmer McCoy, has been a semi-invalid for two years.

Chicago's Fighting Men

Police Often Interfered But One Chicago Fight Crowd Outsmarted the Law

[Chicagoland's greatest all-time fighters? This is the sixth of a series that will attempt to answer the question, tracing the topnotchers from the gay '90's to the present time, and recalling some o fthe famous battles in the city's ring history.]

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Boxing's record books, in faithfully chronicling results of old time fights, ofttimes add the explanation—"stopped by police." Those three words are a complete story, the story of bouts arranged in secrecy, of principals fearful of the law arriving just when the gladiators were getting down to business and calling a halt.

Such a "sneak" bout was arranged for Nov. 14, 1904 between William [Buddy] Ryan of Chicago and Billy [Honey] Mellody of Boston. They were to box in Gaden's hall, Harlem avenue and Madison street, a section then known as Harlem and since changed to Forest Park. Ryan and Mellody were welterweights and that division was in a confused state, so much so that each, along with many others, laid claim to the championship.

Shortly after the program started, deputies from the sheriff's office, tipped off in advance, entered the arena and announced that the law would not be violated. Some of the more enthusiastic proponents of boxing intercepted the uninvited guests and whisked them off to a loop hotel, to remain there until the entertainment was completed.

George Siler, Hurrying Out, Has His Pocket Picked.

Ryan, who had a fine left hook, required only a round to dispose of his opponent. After counting out Mellody, Referee George Siler hurried thru the crowd, anxious to get away from the scene as soon as possible. Perhaps because of deep concentration on this one thought, he didn't discover until reaching the dressing room that his pocket had been picked. To make it worse he had been paid in advance for officiating.

Mellody, in 1906, beat Joe Walcott and won a place in the record books as champion. Four years before, fans in Apollo hall had seen Walcott, a welter, go up against Frank Childs, a Chicago Negro heavyweight. Childs proved such a tough foe that in the third round Walcott claimed his hand was broken and refused to fight further. Childs was awarded a technical knockout.

Those gusty days are far behind, but Chicago's welterweights have carried on in zestful fashion. Altho he did not get his early training in Chicago or engage in many fights in the area, Jimmy Clabby's exploits could be claimed in the name of the city. Born in Norwich, Conn., he lived for many years in Hammond, and died there a few years ago.

Jimmy Clabby Lost Welter Title in Australia.

Clabby knocked out Guy Buckles in 13 rounds in Sheridan, Wyo., in 1910, the bout being advertised for the welterweight title. After making a triumphal tour of Australia he became a middleweight in 1914. That division was snarled in one of its frequent mixups and Clabby was one of the six claimants as its leader. In 1914 he and Jeff Smith were jointly recognized as champions. Les Darcy defeated the transplanted Hoosier the following year in 20 rounds in Sydney, Australia, and won championship rating.

Jack Britton, New York born, came to Chicago in his youth and after a few bouts returned to the east where he became a topnotcher. He was 31 years old when he won the welterweight title from Ted [Kid] Lewis April 24, 1916 in 20 rounds in New Orleans. At that time Jack had been boxing a dozen years. He continued until 1924, making 20 years in all, the longest career of any Chicago ringman.

Britton perhaps is best remembered for his 17 fights with Lewis. It was even said they fought each other in their sleep. Theirs was the most famous feud in boxing history. In 1917, Lewis regained the title from Britton, but two years later Jack won it back by knocking out the Englishman. He held the crown until 1922 when Mickey Walker came along.

Out of Chicago's Ghetto came Jackie Fields in the late '20s. After winning national reputation as an amateur he turned pro and took the welterweight title from Joe Dundee in Detroit on July 25, 1929, the champion fouling out in the second round.

Four months earlier the handsome Chicagoan had won the National Boxing association's recognition as champion by defeating Young Jack Thompson in the Coliseum before a $45,000 crowd. During the eighth round, a Fields partisan in the balcony yelled an uncomplimentary remark about Thompson. Two men advanced on the heckler, one with a razor, the other with a gun. A woman screamed. Fans began a wild scramble. Seats were overturned in the darkened arena. Spectators plunged over the balcony railing into the crowd below. One man was killed. After a few minutes' delay the bout went on.

Barney Ross Double Champion and One of City's Greatest.

Barney Ross, who combined a great heart and endurance with sharp boxing and punching ability, became a double champion on May 28, 1934, when he relieved Jimmy McLarnin of the 147 pound title in 15 rounds in New York. On Sept. 17 of the same year McLarnin regained the championship by winning a 15 round decision. The third 15 round battle between the two, also in New York, resulted in a decision for Ross on May 28, 1935. The three contests drew $472,711, the first a record for welterweights, $194,329.67. The sleek Chicagoan, who had resigned as lightweight champion in 1935, came to the end of a long and profitable career when he was beaten by Henry Armstrong, present champion, on May 31, 1938.

A bout scarcely a month in the past belongs in this story of the welters. Milt Aron, son of an Iowa rabbi, showed all the storied gameness of his predecessors the night of Dec. 27, 1939, in the Coliseum when he survived four knockdowns and finally stopped Fritzie Zivic to attain rating as chief challenger for Armstrong's crown.

The Chicagoan was down three times in the second round and was completely out when the bell rang. He was dragged to his corner and came out of the fog just before the third round started. Zivic's seconds ordered him to box but emboldened by his success he waded in with more knockdowns in mind. Milt dodged harm in the third, rallied in the fourth, fought the Pittsburgher to a standstill in the fifth and sixth, but had the worst of it in the seventh. In the eighth, Zivic landed a right to Aron's swollen nose, but the battle took a sudden turn when Milt's right exploded off his foe's chin. Fritzie went down, scrambled back to his feet, then ran into a left and right that brought the battle to its hysterical climax.

Spiked Shoes vs. Rubber Tires

HERE'S WHERE A HORSE LAUGH IS TO BE EXPECTED

The automobile hasn't replaced the horse yet—anyway not for speed on the ice when the horse wears spiked shoes and the car has to get along without chains.

They've been speculating about it around Grayslake for some time now. Yesterday they got ready to settle the argument.

Peg Behning put the spiked shoes on his horse, Hollyrood Lad, and hitched Hollyrood Lad to a racing sulky. State Policeman Tony Seisser tuned up his car. A quarter mile straightaway course was laid out on the lake ice.

Well, they got off to a perfect start in the first heat. That is, Hollyrood Lad dug right in, the wheels of the car spun, and the crowd began to cheer. Eventually the wheels stopped spinning and the car began to move. It won by half a radiator.

Hollyrood Lad dug in with the same determination at the beginning of the second heat. This time the car wheels spun longer before the car could get moving on the ice and the horse was so far ahead at the finsh line that he thought the car had given up.

The car looked rather grim when the starter began calling off "One for the money, two for the show, three to make ready and four to go" for the third heat. Hollyrood Lad looked confident.

He was leading when he lost a shoe. Then the crowd got in the way and he and the car both had to stop.

By that time it was dark, and Hollyrood Lad went home to put on the nosebag.

Reindel and Robinson Win Squash Titles

John Reindel of Detroit won the Western Squash Racquets association singles championship yesterday, defeating Joe Hahn also of Detroit, 11-15, 15-13, 8-15, 15-10, 15-11, in a hard fought match in the Lake Shore Athletic club.

Earlier in the day Reindel won his semi-final match from Jerome Taylor of Detroit, 15-11, 15-13, 15-11, while Hahn eliminated the defending champion, J. Dudley Pope of Chicago, 12-15, 15-6, 18-14, 15-12.

Robinson Veterans' Champion.

Reindel, who is 29 years old, graduated from the University of Michigan in 1932. He has been playing the game for ten years, and during this time has held the Michigan State title twice. He is a member of the Detroit Athletic club.

Jimmy Robinson of the Lake Shore A. C. annexed the title in the veterans' division, limited to players over 40 years old. Robinson is 50 years old and in 1937 won the national veterans' title.

Robinson won both his semifinal and final matches in straight games. In the morning he turned back William O'Rourke of Chicago, 15-9, 15-10, 15-11, and in the finals won over Edgar J. Hartney of Chicago, 15-6, 15-3, 15-10.

Minneapolis Team Wins.

A default because of illness forced the John Marshall club of Chicago to forfeit the team championship to Minneapolis, 2 to 1. Jeffrey Short of Chicago was forced to default to Charles Pillsbury of Minneapolis. The other two members of the new championship team are Lucian Strong and George Hoke Jr.

Chicago, defending titleholder, was eliminated by Minneapolis, 2 to 1, in one of the semifinal matches, while John Marshall beat St. Louis No. 1 team, 3 to 0, in the other.

ZION WINS PIN MEET ON 1,750; RECEIVES $3,000

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

Frank Zion of Detroit won first prize of $3,000 in Louis P. Petersen's $8,800 singles bowling tournament which came to an end last night on the Archer-35th Recreation alleys.

Five squads of 32 bowlers each failed yesterday and last night to approach the 1,750 total which the Detroiter had posted on Friday's first shift. His total was seven pins higher than that which Eddie Zajac posted to win last year. Zion's individual counts for the eight games were 264, 192, 204, 196, 268, 183, 247, and 196.

Best score rolled yesterday was the 1,724 count with which the veteran Adolph Carlson of the Joseph Gills team of Chicago took fourth place and $500. W. C. Stecky of Cleveland was second on 1,745 and received $2,000, and an Indianapolis entrant, Carl M. Hardin, third with 1,737, good for $1,000.

Leo Beaten; St. George Quintets Win

Catholic Central High school of Fort Wayne, Ind., national Catholic champion, defeated Leo of Chicago, 35 to 27, and St. George's junior and senior teams triumphed in Catholic league engagements in Chicago prep basketball activity yesterday.

Catholic Central whipped Leo in the finals of the Loyola tournament last year and repeated the triumph yesterday before a capacity crowd on the strength of a third period scoring drive. The Fort Wayne quintet registered 22 points in this period while holding Leo to 11 to go ahead, 32 to 25, and protected this advantage during a tight defensive final period. Leo led, 14 to 10, at the half.

The St. George seniors, with a 36 to 25 triumph over Loyola, moved up into a tie with St. Philip for the leadership of the Catholic league's north section. Each team has won four of its five games. The Dragon juniors whipped Loyola, 30 to 18, for their fifth straight and remained in a first place tie with St. Patrick. Lineups:

16 CITIES SEND GOLDEN GLOVERS TO KANSAS CITY

The Battle Front

FOLLOWING is a list of the out of town Golden Gloves tournaments which will be contested tonight:

Cleveland Plain Dealer [semi-finals].
Vincennes Sun-Commercial [preliminaries].
Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette [preliminaries].

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Sixteen sectional tournaments, a new record for the competition, will send their Golden Gloves champions to the bouts sponsored by the Kansas City, Mo., Star beginning Friday evening. The tournament continues the following night and concludes Feb. 9. The Kansas City championship matches will be held in the municipal auditorium which seats 13,000.

The Kansas City tournament draws amateur boxers from western Missouri, Kansas, and Colorado, the tournament in Pueblo, Colo., in turn attracting boxers from Utah. The Ogden team this year competed in Pueblo. During the first two nights three rings will be used. The winning team of eight will represent the Star in the Tournament of Champions and also will be designated as Missouri Valley A. A. U. titleholders. They will box in the national A. A. U. meet in Boston.

Bouts Attract Crowds.

Everywhere during the preliminary stages of sectional competition there has been crowded entry lists and shattered attendance records. The tournament staged at Hutchinson, Kas., under the auspices of the News and Herald drew 7,000 fans in three nights to break all attendance records for that city of 20,000. A sectional tournament, held at Joplin, Mo., required two rings during the first two nights and drew capacity crowds, despite the coldest winter weather in many years. Other sectional tournament in Missouri were held in St. Joseph, Brookfield, Sedalia, Springfield, and Kansas City. In Kansas tournament competition was conducted in Topeka, Pittsburg, Fort Leavenworth, Goodland, and Kansas City.

More Examinations Tonight.

Tonight at the Catholic Youth organization gymnasium, 31 East Congress street, the second group of Chicago contestants will be examined for the sectional novice tournaments and the Chicago championships, which will be held in the Coliseum Feb. 20, 21, and 22. Any boy who was assigned to first physical examination last Friday evening and was unable to attend, may come to the C. Y. O. tonight. Examining hours are from 6 to 8 p. m. Each contestant, in order to qualify for the examination, must present a consent card signed by his parents or guardian.

Five boxers have been entered in the Chicago championships in the Coliseum by Lieut. A. J. Strak, athletic officer of the 124th Field artillery. They are Stanley Murczek and Joe Preston, welterweights; Ray Maher, lightweight; Pete Altizer, bantamweight, and LeRoy Thompson, middleweight. Five boxers also have been entered in the novice tournament.

Playground Enters Team.

Another team entry has been received from James Watts of the Harding Community playground. Home addresses were not given for the boxers, however, and consequently the instructions and parental consent cards, which will be mailed today, must be distributed by the instructor.

The last examination for novice boxers will be held Wednesday evening in Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street. Boxers in the open division, Chicago championships, may enter until midnight Feb. 4.

Massin Skates to Victory in Rand Races

Armin Massin, winner of the Tribune's senior Silver Skates last year, yesterday scored 50 points to capture the men's class A title in the annual speed skating races of the Bill Rand A. C. in Jackson park. A victory in the feature five mile event and a second place in the one mile race gave Massin a 20 point margin over his C. Y. O. teammates, Marshall Klemundt and Max Kargol, and Harvey Moore of the Northwest S. C.

In the team standings the C. Y. O. also finished first, scoring 390 points, while Northwest was scoring 240 points for second, and the Glen Ellyn A. A. A. 130 for third.

The five mile open event proved a thriller, Massin, who beat Olympic Champion Leo Freisinger for his silver skates, taking the lead with three laps to go. Frank Brilando of the C. Y. O. was a double winner in the junior boys' events, Ted Tilden of Glen Ellyn earning second in both races.

Bessie Laga, N. W. S. C., won the senior women's 880 yard event over Helen Swierkos, another Silver Skates champion, with Sid Steffen of the C. Y. O. coming up for a close third. The fastest race of the day was skated by Paul Johnson of Glen Ellyn, who won the class AA one mile final in 2:55.8 seconds. Summaries:

North Central College Faces Carroll Tonight

The marksmanship of two sophomores, Bill Shatzer of Mooseheart and Walter Anderson of Aurora, both forwards, is North Central's chief hope of evening its season with Carroll college tonight when the two quintets meet in Waukesha, Wis. Carroll defeated North Central, 39 to 38, in Naperville in the first game. John Pauler, veteran center, will be playing his last game for Carroll.

DE PAUL MEETS TOLEDO; LOYOLA BATTLES BUTLER

Renew Double Header Card in Coliseum.

Games Tonight

Butler and Loyola in Coliseum.
Toledo and De Paul in Coliseum.
Michigan State at University of Baltimore.
Morningside at Iowa State.
South Dakota State at Iowa.
Illinois Normal at Ball Teachers.
North Central at Carroll.
Drake at Washburn.
Oklahoma at Missouri.

De Paul and Loyola universities, Chicago's basketball double header twins, will resume activities in the Coliseum tonight, when the Blue Demons battle the University of Toledo Rockets, after Loyola has met Butler university's Bulldogs.

Aside from the dual program in the Coliseum, basketball in the central states will enter a comparative lull. Only three other games are scheduled tonight. These send Iowa against South Dakota State on the Hawkeyes' floor, Morningside against Iowa State at Ames, and Michigan State against the University of Baltimore on the latter's court.

The midyear scholastic examinations are responsible for this crimp in the schedule for most schools, particularly members of the Western conference, but those Big Ten schools which have finished their classroom tests will return to action Saturday night.

Five Big Games on Saturday's Card.

Five games, all of them promising real battles, are on the Saturday schedule. Notre Dame will entertain Illinois, with the Irish attempting to avenge a previous defeat at Champaign. De Paul, which already has defeated Purdue, present Big Ten leader, and has lost only an overtime game to Southern California, will invade Indiana. Wisconsin will journey to Michigan State, and Loyola and Chicago will meet in the Midway fieldhouse.

Coach Tom Haggerty of De Paul feels that his Blue Demons may have quite a problem continuing their excellent record tonight at the Coliseum, for Toledo will send out one of the tallest teams De Paul has faced this season. The Rockets average 6 feet 2½ inches, the tallest member of the team being 6 foot 4 inch Bob Berger. Berger sports a mustache, but the added equipment apparently has not handicapped him, for he has scored 182 points in 12 games this season.

Loyola, Butler Matched in Size.

De Paul, however, won't feel stunted, for all of its players are 6 feet or more.

Loyola and Butler are evenly matched in height, which will not be exactly displeasing to Coach Lennie Saohs. The Ramblers have been losing well played games all season to teams of taller players.

The Ramblers also are feeling much better because of the acquisition last week of Mickey Rottner, who has just become eligible.

AMERICA SPELLS FREEDOM FOR POLISH BARITONE

Czaplicki to Be Heard on W-G-N Tonight.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

George Czaplicki, the robustious baritone of the Chicago City Opera company, who is to make a guest appearance on W-G-N and the Mutual network this evening, greatly admires America and intends to become a citizen.

"Nothing is impossible to the American people," explained the blond, blue eyed Polish opera singer. "I like that especially about them.

"I like the 'live and let live' spirit in America. Here one can think and do as one wills. In the artistic world there is competition, but not that intense jealousy that one finds in Europe. There is room enough for all."

Likes American Music.

Czaplicki insists that Americans do not sing and play enough of their own music. He intends to do something about that. As soon as he conquers English [and he is making good progress], he expects to present more native songs in his concert.

This evening, when he appears on the Pageant of Melody [9:30 o'clock] Czaplicki will include Vincent Youmans' "Through the Years" as a representative American song.

His other numbers will be "Vision Fugitive" from "Herodiade," by Jules Massenet, and "Trepak," by Moussorgsky.

Czaplicki was born and grew up in Warsaw. He made his debut in 1922.

Czaplicki sang in a score of opera houses in Europe before he came to the attention of Paul Longone, then manager of the City Opera.

One of Concert Series.

The Czaplicki concert is one in the W-G-N series designed to stimulate interest in the Chicago Civic opera and the best in music. Another new W-G-N coast to coast series, called "Fifth Row Center" and with stars of the stage, radio, and screen as guests, was opened yesterday.

Andy Devine of the gravel voice and Pinky Tomlin, composer, orchestra leader and actor, were the guests. Andy gave a discourse on politics, in the vein of "Pa says it's smart to be on all sides at the same time." Pinky, wiry, with shining blond hair, sang his latest song, "If It Wasn't for the Moon." Harold Stokes and the W-G-N orchestra played a medley of Tomlin songs.

Three other well known actors who will appear in the W-G-N series arrived in Chicago last night. They are Simone Simon, Mitzi Green, and Mary Brian, all of whom will play in "Three After Three," which opens in Chicago today. Miss Simon will appear on W-G-N next Sunday.

He was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa honorary society, Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, and of many clubs, having at one time been president of the Hamilton club. He also was a director of the Evanston free public library.

He moved to St. Petersburg two years ago, and had been ill for the last three months. His widow, Mrs. Katherine Hay Humphrey; a son, Merrill, and a brother and a sister survive. Funeral services will be held Wednesday in St. Petersburg.

[ADVERTISMENT]

Eno at 7 A. M. -relief by 8!*

Feel like a new person in 60 minutes

When plagued by sluggishness and headachy heaviness... when colds hang on and on... you may rightly blame constipation. Then you want speedy relief... a thorough, gentle, quick flushing out... the kind Eno gives.

Speedy results in 60 minutes—Take Eno before breakfast and within the hour you're usually* relieved. This pleasant-tasting "saline" laxative acts by concentrating fluid bulk in the intestines, gently flushes away accumulated wastes.

Help in fighting colds—Many physicians especially favor a "saline" laxative like Eno during colds. Take Eno also to "alkalize", to help neutralize excess stomach acids.

For speedy results when you're constipated, remember: Eno at 7 a. m., relief by 8! Get Eno now, at any drug store!

BIG COMPANIES GET BENEFIT OF TVA CUT RATES

One Industrial Firm Buys 35 Per Cent.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 28.—Bargain counter rates for electricity seem to make four wealthy industrial companies and one private utility leading beneficiaries of the Tennessee Valley authority's half billion dollar experiment in a planned society.

Biggest customer of the TVA in the last fiscal year was the Aluminum Company of America. It bought about 35 per cent of the total energy sold by TVA.

The annual report recently issued for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1939, shows TVA sold 1,618,286,000 kilowatt hours during the year, bringing in $5,445,198 in revenue including interdepartmental sales. The aluminum company bought 577,671,000 kilowatt hours for which it paid $1,512,136. A large proportion was secondary and interruptible power, which cannot be used by municipalities and coöperatives. The average rate paid by the company was 2.62 mills a kilowatt hour.

Average Rate 3.36 Mills.

The average rate TVA got from all its sales was 3.36 mills.

When TVA was launched, the valley was to be one spot where the brain trusters were to knock rugged individualism out of its socks. Now critics say TVA is a sort of fairy godmother for the aluminum company.

The company has assets of 253 millions. Its sales in 1939 were the largest in its history, but the figures are unavailable. Net income in 1937 of $27,623,000 was highest since 1926. The company produced 287 million pounds of aluminum in 1938 worth $56,659,000, and 293 million pounds in 1937, worth $55,609,000, prices being lower. It takes 12 kilowatt hours to produce one pound of aluminum. So says a poster at Alcoa, some 20 miles from here, where the company has its largest reduction plant.

Begins Work in 1910.

The aluminum company discovered the valley and the water power almost a quarter century before TVA was born. In 1910 it began its development on the Little Tennessee river where three hydro-electric plants now produce current for the Alcoa electric furnaces removing aluminum from ore. The plants have a rated capacity in excess of 240,000 kilowatts. About 5,000 workers are employed at Alcoa.

In 1936 TVA entered into a contract with the aluminum company to furnish 100,000 kilowatts a year of firm and secondary power at low rates for use at the plants at Alcoa. The contract was amended a year later. The agreement provides for the sale of 30,000 kilowatts of firm power, which is power good all the year round, and 30,000 kilowatts of run-of-stream secondary power, which is defined as power available 75 per cent of the time in a 10 year period. Additional is a block of 40,000 kilowatts of dump power, or surplus with no other immediate market.

Dump Power Cheapest.

The price for the firm power is $24 a kilowatt year. This, TVA says, is its standard rate to municipalities adjusted to a 100 per cent load factor, which means it is used 24 hours a day. The run-of-stream secondary power is priced at six cents a kilowatt day, or 2.5 mills a kilowatt hour, while the dump power has a price of 2.27 mills a kilowatt hour.

To deliver the bargain rate juice, TVA built a 35 mile transmission line from Norris dam to Alcoa at a cost of $400,000.

Ironically enough, in the same week when TVA announced its amended contract with the aluminum company, the department of justice at Washington announced it would file suit against the company on charges of violating the Sherman Antitrust law. While the company was being belabored in Washington as a monopoly, down here it was becoming ace customer and beneficiary of the subsidized electric rates established by TVA in the New Deal Utopia.

Good Bargain, TVA Holds.

The TVA took the ground it had made a good bargain in the contract, and set forth that 70,000 of the kilowatts are a class of power which municipalities and other public agencies could not use because it is run of stream power, available only part of the time.

The Aluminum company, which finds TVA's adventure in planned economy a source of profit thru cheap power, is controled by the Mellons of Pittsburgh.

One criticism which has been raised from time to time is that no provision is made in the contract for the benefit of subsidized TVA power to be passed on to the consumers of the products made by the industrial concerns using TVA juice. Of the great blocks of power used by the Aluminum company last year, 262 million kilowatt hours were prime power; 237 million were secondary; 78 million were dump power. The company paid $718,790 for its prime power, $616,049 for secondary, and $177,267 for dump power.

As to what 100,000 kilowatts mean, engineers say it's as much power as is consumed in the ordinary city of 250,000 people by all the domestic, commercial, and industrial consumers.

While some critics have been declaiming that economic royalists, as the New Deal dubs them, are getting the cream, the argument of TVA has been that it did a good stroke of business by selling the secondary or part time power to large industries which can use it in their furnaces, as otherwise a market would not easily have been found. Municipalities require firm power, good every hour in the day.

Norris dam, keystone of TVA, built at a cost of 36 million dollars, has an installed capacity of 100,800 kilowatts. It indicates the dimensions of the Aluminum contract with TVA. At times Norris dam has been called Aluminum dam by some. It generates secondary power, being a reservoir dam. The plant is not running now as the reservoir is filling up at this period of the year.

Some Generated by Steam.

At present about 40 per cent of the output of TVA is generated by steam. J. A. Krug, chief power engineer, reports that much of the steam power is being sold at special rates to neighboring private power systems to help them maintain their supplies. Commonwealth and Southern has been taking over 50,000 kilowatts of steam generated power from TVA. The Aluminum company also is buying steam power from the authority.

Other large industries with TVA contracts are the Electro-Metallurgical company, the Victor Chemical works, and the Monsanto Chemical company. Largest utility customer last year was Arkansas Power and Light company.

The rate for short time steam generated power is from five to seven mills a kilowatt hour.

REDEEMING STOCK.

I own some preferred stock of a company which has called a part of the outstanding shares for payment. What methods are used to determine the shares that are to be redeemed? —H. R.

Answer: Corporations employ various procedures to select the shares which will be redeemed. The company's treasury may buy in the open market at or below the redemption price the number of shares which the directors have authorized it to call for payment. Ofen the shares to be redeemed are drawn by lot. A third method is to redeem an equal proportion from the holdings of each stockholder. The company's charter usually prescribes the method of redemption.

BACK TO GOLD.

If we returned to the old gold price of $20.67 a fine ounce and abandoned the present 59 cent dollar, would the general price level revert to the early 1933 range just before the money tinkering began? What was the gold content of the old dollar and the present one?—C. J.

Answer: Monetary experts do not agree on what effect the changing of the gold content of the dollar has upon the general price level. There are various other factors which are considered to have important influences on prices. Among these are the size of the monetary gold stock, the amount of money in circulation, the rapidity of the turnover of money, and the volume of trading in goods and services.

Under the present federal gold reserve act, the President has the power to fix the gold content of the dollar at from 50 to 60 per cent of its former weight of 25.8 grains of nine-tenths fine gold. After devaluation of the dollar in 1934 the weight of the gold dollar was cut to 15 5-21 grains, nine-tenths fine, or 59.06 per cent of its former weight.

INDIANA STEEL.

Kindly tell me what are the products of Indiana Steel Products company. When was last dividend paid? —J. V.

Answer: Indiana Steel Products company manufactures permanent magnets to specifications required by its customers in the making of such products as radio amplifiers, automatic electric switches, and coin vending machines. The company had a net loss of $23,117 in 1938, compared with a net income of $86,932, equal to 88 cents a share on 99,066 shares of $1 par common stock, in 1937. The last dividend was 15 cents a share on March 31, 1938.

BANK ASSAILS OLD PURCHASING POWER THEORY

New York, Jan. 28 (AP).—"The belief that business recessions are due to failure of consumers' purchasing power is one of the least securely founded economic notions prevalent today," the Guaranty Trust company said in its monthly survey today. In a discussion of President Roosevelt's recent budget message which forecast a deficit of $1,716,000,000 for the fiscal year, the survey said:

"The recession of 1937, according to the President's message, 'was due to a variety of causes stemming in the main from over optimism which led the government to curtail its net expenditures too sharply for consumers' purchasing power to keep pace.' But most of the unemployment that exists in times of economic adversity is found in the industries and trades that depend for their demand not on consumers' purchasing power, but on business expansion. It follows that efforts to strengthen consumers's purchasing power by incurring deficits are misdirected."

BIG JOB UPTURN IS REPORTED IN LABOR SURVEY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor estimated today that 44,335,000 persons had jobs in the United States in December, 1939, an increase of 1,357,000 over a year ago.

Describing this as an "important employment gain," the federation said it had reduced the army of unemployed by nearly 800,000; "that is, enough jobs have been created to provide for more than 550,000 added to the working population, and to give work to nearly 800,000 of the unemployed."

SURVEY SHOWS BIG SALES GAIN IN SOME LINES

Business in the home furnishings, apparel, and building materials fields increased substantially last month, the Merchandise Mart announced yesterday on the basis of its monthly poll of companies with offices in the building. Combined sales of these companies were $12,074,001 at wholesale, or 31.3 per cent above the level of December, 1938, according to the survey. Because of seasonal factors, there was a decline of 10.5 per cent from the November, 1939, level.

Warner Brothers' Profit Runs Above Year Earlier

New York, Jan. 28 (AP).—Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., and subsidiaries today reported net operating profit for the 13 weeks ended Nov. 25 was $642,129 after deducting all charges. This was equal to 14 cents a share on common stock after current preferred dividend requirements. Such profit was $103,805, or a fraction of a cent on common, a year earlier.

Further Decline in Steel Production Is Expected

Steel production has dipped to 81.5 per cent of capacity and further curtailment is indicated, the magazine Steel reported yesterday.

BRITAIN SELLS 73 MILLIONS OF U. S. SECURITIES

Report Covers Two Months of War.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28 (AP).—The treasury disclosed today that in the first two months of the war Britain sold nearly 10 per cent of its readily marketable American securities, presumably to get cash for munitions.

British investors, acting under strict government control, sold $25,072,000 of American securities in September and $47,971,000 in October, or a total of $73,043,000. Altho total British investments in the United States are far above $3,000,000,000, the federal reserve board estimated recently that at the beginning of the war the readily marketable American securities owned by Britons amounted to only $735,000,000.

No Later Figures Available.

Because the treasury deliberately withholds such international monetary figures for three months to prevent their being used by speculators, no statistics of sales since October are available.

Canada, where Britain stored much gold prior to the war, has sold securities to a lesser extent. Starting with $500,000,000 of marketable portfolios, Canadian investors sold $4,095,000 of American securities in September and $4,058,000 worth in October, for a total of $8,153,000.

France, by contrast, added about $1,000,000 in the two months to its prewar total of $185,000,000 of marketable American securities. France bought $1,460,000 in September and sold $461,000 in October.

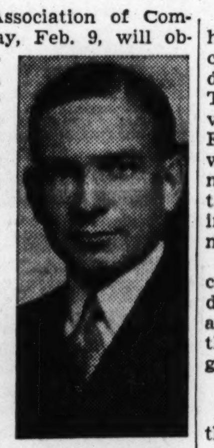

Altho the amount was unknown, German holdings of American securities were believed negligible at the war's beginning. Germany sold $330,000 in September, $294,000 in October.

Makes Profit on Fund.

The treasury report also disclosed that its stabilization fund, which deals in international currencies and gold, made a $1,528,232 net profit from June 30 to Sept. 30, by which date the original $2,000,000,000 resulting from devaluation of the gold content of the dollar had grown to $2,016,560,639. Most of the June-September profit was due to gold handling fees.

Greater Chicago Plan Topic at Trade Group's Session

The Chicago Association of Commerce on Tuesday, Feb. 9, will observe its 36th anniversary with a banquet at the Stevens hotel, at which its Greater Chicago plan will be the central subject for discussion, Oscar G. Mayer, president, announced yesterday. More than 2,500 prominent persons in Chicago business and civic life will attend.

Clarence B. Randall to address meeting.

Mayer said the association is much encouraged by the progress already made in its campaign to restore Chicago's I Will spirit. Ranking executives of the companies that have contributed to Chicago growth have been invited as special guests.

Plan Dramatic Features.

In portraying the city's rapid progress in the century between 1840 and 1940 the association has arranged several dramatic features.

As the dinner guests enter the hotel they will be met by attendants clad in the livery which was in style during the era prior to the civil war. Then they will enter a corridor devoted to the Mid-Victorian period. Forty models from State street stores will act as hostesses, garbed in evening gowns of the type once worn by their grandmothers. The foyer opening into the grand ballroom will be made to resemble an 1890 living room.

Speakers at the banquet will include Clarence B. Randall, vice president of the Inland Steel company, and Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. Mayer will preside.

Will Discuss City's Progress.

Randall will discuss the factors that have most helped Chicago in its commercial and industrial growth, and he will pay tribute to historical Chicago figures. Gifford, who started his career in Chicago, will give the current viewpoint of national business toward Chicago.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., is chairman of a special committee to select the honor guests. General arrangements are in the hands of a committee headed by Percy Wilson, vice president of Marshall Field & Co.

WORLD'S WHEAT SUPPLIES REACH NEW HIGH MARK

Reserves Nearly 5½ Billion Bushels.

Already the largest on record, the world's supply of wheat has been boosted by another 200 million bushels after five months of war in Europe, Chicago grain experts estimated yesterday. The new rise was accounted for principally by increased production in Australia and Canada, major sources of British supply.

Nat Murray, a Chicago authority on the grain trade, placed the supply at 5,447,000,000 bushels for the season which ends next June 30.

Last season's supply was 5,224,000,000 bushels. The 10 year average was 4,739,000,000 bushels.

If the wheat is consumed in normal amounts, there will be a carryover of 1,413,000,000 bushels as of June 30, which would exceed any figure in history and provide enough wheat to feed the world for four months. The carryover was 1,190,000,000 bushels last June 30, and the 10 year average was 940,000,00 bushels.

Estimate on Last Season.

Murray estimated the 1938-'39 production at 4,252,000,000 bushels, exclusive of China and Russia, and said inclusion of these countries would bring the total to 5,700,000,000 bushels.

Europe, assured a bountiful supply of wheat as a result of record supplies in exporting countries, has turned its attention to accumulating a reserve stock of feed grains.
